Dairy Food Safety Researcher Questions Drug Residue Tests

VERNON ACHENBACH JR.

LEMOYNE (Cumberland Co.) — Dairy producers may be suffering unreasonably as a result of current testing practices of raw milk for drug residues, according to a University of California, Davis, researcher.

James S. Cullor, associate professor in the Department of Pathology, Microbiology and Immunology at the University of California-Davis School of Veterinary Medicine, addressed a group of about 200 dairy producers, extension specialists and other industry people who attended the 1995 regional meeting of the National Mastitis Council Inc. held last week at the Radisson-Penn Harris Hotel and Convention Center in Leymone.

Cullor said he was critical of the accuracy of current drug residue tests as used in the field, critical of the review process established by the federal government to determine the appropriateness of the tests, and concerned about the regulatory industry's use of the test results to reject milk and its affect upon the financial stability of dairy producers.

"The use of antibiotic residue assays (which are tests) in everyday settings and the consequences of current assay performance is already adversely impacting dairy producers and food animal practices around the United States and elsewhere."

The associate professor said that it is his belief that the tests are not good for what they are being used to do. He said he has found some of them to not be able to distinguish between true antibiotic residues and a cow's natural antibodies in raw milk.

And, he said he believes that individual dairy producers should not be required to bear the entire cost of the current testing system and the loss of milk based on those tests.

Cullor said that the receiving plants and processors who are using these milk tests to screen for

ANDY ANDREWS

ALLENTOWN (Lehigh Co.) — For the first time in recent memory, Landrace grabbed the limelight at the breed show on Wednesday at the Allentown Fair Swine Show.

A Landrace gilt that "exemplifies how sound" a gilt should really be was picked by judge James Parlett, a York, Chester White, and Duroc breeder from Airville. The gilt, shown by Stephen Wessner for Rocky Acres Farm (operated by the Harlan and Barbara Wessner family) took big steps and "had a nice groove down the top," said Parlett.

This marks the third year in a row that the Wessners have exhibited a champion animal at the fair. The sire of the gilt was obtained from Wistabrook Farms, from Kentucky, according to Barbara Wessner, Stephen's mother. The dam is from Walker Farms, Mystic, Iowa.

A Landrace also captured supreme boar on Wednesday at the fair. Exhibited by Grant Lazarus, 17, son of Linda and Grant Lazarus, Germansville, the boar was "big-bodied, lean, long, and extremely sound," said Parlett. The homebred boar was shown by Grant, a senior at Northewestern High School.

Grant and his family have been busy, also attending the N.Y. State Fair and the Sullivan County Fair, he said. They will also be showing at Bloomsburg, Keystone International Livestock Exposition and the state Farm Show.

At the market swine championship show Thursday morning, Parlett picked a purebred Berkshire gilt, the heavyweight champion, as supreme market swine.

Parlett said he chose the Berkshire shown by Todd and Cheryl Bennecoff family as market champion because it was "an extremely clean-bladed hog.

"Packers are looking for bigger hogs that are really lean and have lots of muscling," he said.

Delmarva Broiler

ATLANTA, GA
AUGUST 30, 1995

Movement of ready-to-cook whole birds was about moderate and typical of mid-week activity. Seller offerings were fully sufficient for immediate needs; weights remained irregular in a full range of light to heavy. Processing schedules were very heavy. Less than trucklot asking prices were unchanged at 61 to 72 cents. Trade sentiment was steady to fully steady. In the parts complex, supplies were adequate for immediate shipment, but were rapidly tightening on breast items and leg quarters for later deliveries. Wings were fully adequate in most quarters.

National Grain Market

ST. JOSEPH, MO
AUGUST 30, 1995

Wheat bids fell slightly lower on continued trade corrections and harvest pressure. Corn bids were slightly higher supported by a stronger bean market and continued hot, dry weather in Corn Belt areas. Soybean bids received moderate strength from active fund buying on the board, despite late profit taking. Wheat mostly 1 cent lower except Portland 2 cents higher. Corn steady to 4 cents higher. Sorghum 1 to 5 cents higher. Soybeans 1 to 9 cents higher. Wheat was slightly lower on follow through weakness from yesterday. Some profit taking was noted on the board. Harvest pressure was also a factor as rains let up and farmers were able to resume cutting in places. Portland wheat finished slightly higher due to good export demand this week. Corn and soybean bids rebounded somewhat with heavy fund buying in soybeans the major supporter. Export sales have been good for corn this week and the overnight purchase of beans offered further strength. Crop concerns continue, especially for late planted beans and hot, muggy weather still hangs over the Midwest. Today you've decided to Buy.

But do you know about agribusiness leasing?

- Can you lease?
- Why you should lease equipment, vehicles or buildings instead of owning them?
- Are there tax advantages for you?
- What payment schedule does your business need?
- Is leasing more expensive than owning?
- Will leasing complement your estate planning?
- What happens at the end of the lease?

Call your local Telmark representative or the Telmark Customer Service Center to find out about lease financing for equipment, buildings and vehicles.

The Old Farmer's Almanac This Week With Almanac

SEPTEMBER 4-10, 1995

LABOR DAY, SEPT. 4.

WHAT GRANDPARENTS KNOW

First comes the Full Harvest Moon on September 8 and then Grandparents Day on September 10 — well-ripened maturity is all around us. Ecclesiastes advises us about the harvest, warning that, "He that observeth the wind shall not sow; and he that regardeth the clouds shall not reap." Indeed, who takes the child by the hand takes the mother by the heart, says the German proverb. Grandparents may know that better than most and can excel in getting their heads out of the clouds to take time to listen and play with the children. Labor Day, after all, is a day off. May your harvest be bountiful.

"It is time to be old,
To take in sail." — Ralph Waldo Emerson

TIP OF THE WEEK

☞ A teaspoon of household ammonia in one quart of water poured over your indoor ferns will keep them a rich green.

RASPBERRY SAUCE

1/3 cup sugar
1/3 cup water
1 tablespoon cornstarch
2 cups fresh or thawed raspberries

Boil and stir all ingredients until the sauce is smooth and thickened. Strain through a sieve to remove the seeds. Serve warm over pound cake, pear halves, or ice cream. If desired, 1/4 cup of brandy can be added to the sauce, when served and flamed.

Makes about 2 cups.

The Old Farmer's Weather Proverbs

If the rooster crows when he goes to bed,
He will arise with a watery head.

No weather is ill, if the wind is still.

The number of fogs in an autumn,
Tell the number of snows in a winter.

OPINION

New Era Of Farm Policy

While the details of the 1995 Farm Bill won't be known well into fall, it's likely that the legislation will represent a dramatic change from past policy, says an Ohio State University agricultural economist. More than in any other year, the bill will be driven by budget concerns.

"There will be less tolerance of smoke-and-mirror techniques that appear to cut spending, but actually have little impact," Carl Zulauf says. "The implication is that farm spending will be cut, and the cuts will be real and significant."

Farmers should expect an increase in planting flexibility and a decrease or elimination of income supports, Zulauf says.

A sense of optimism over increased exports to Asia has made it easier to argue that income supports can be eliminated or reduced, especially if they are phased out over many years and the larger cuts are held off until the later years.

Farmers could find setaside programs minimized or eliminated as well. Agribusinesses have persuasively argued that taking U.S. land out of production reduces employment here and helps global competitors.

However, farmers could see some sort of farm income safety net included in the legislation. While the form is unclear, leading candidates include subsidized crop insurance, a marketing loan with loan rates tied to a moving average of past prices or a revenue insurance program that combines price and yield risk.

Environmental concerns will continue to weight heavily in farm bill debate.

While some in the farm community believe that the 1994 Republican landslide means environmental restrictions on agriculture will be reduced, there is no talk of eliminating conservation compliance, conservation reserve, wetland provisions, and sodbuster provisions. The wetlands provisions will probably be weakened, but the basic environmental thrust that emerged in the 1985 farm bill will largely remain intact.

However, change is in the wind. The new farm bill could have a bigger impact on farming than any farm bill in recent memory.

Farmers and agribusinesses should carefully evaluate what the forthcoming policy decisions will mean to them. Short of an economic depression in the U.S. or a major shift in the Chinese government back to self-sufficiency, nothing else is likely to have a greater impact on which farmers and agribusinesses will be in business during the early 21st Century than how they handle the changes enacted in the 1995 farm bill.

To Make Quality Corn Silage

The fall harvest season is upon us.

It is a little early, but the heat of the last month has matured corn faster than usual.

The first consideration in making quality corn silage is to insure maximum yield is reached. Corn plants continue to grow and add dry matter content until they reach maturity. Harvesting at maturity will insure the maximum yield possible.

In addition, plant maturity is important in determining what will happen while the crop is in storage. When silage is made from plants which are immature and too green, much of the feeding value may be lost in the seepage which runs out of the silo.

When silage is harvested too dry, storage problems may arise. Harvesting corn silage that is too dry is the number one problem encountered in the production of quality silage.

Dry corn silage is difficult to pack, increasing the amount of air in the silo and slowing the fermentation process. The air also increases the possibility of molds developing in the silage.

To Make Silage At Right Moisture Content

What is the proper moisture content of corn silage and when does the corn plant reach that stage of development?

The proper moisture content for corn silage depends on the type of structure it will be stored in. Bunker or pit silos store corn silage best when the moisture level is between 65 and 70 percent.

For conventional upright silos, the moisture content should be between 63 and 68 percent and for oxygen-limited silos the moisture content should be between 50 and 60 percent.

The corn kernel itself is usually a good indicator of whole plant moisture. When the kernel reaches full dent, the whole plant moisture is around 74 percent; at half milk stage, the whole plant moisture is near 68 percent; at quarter milk stage, moisture content is near 64 percent; and when no milk exists, moisture content is near 61 percent.

The corn kernel dries from the crown downward, not from the cob outward. To check for the milk line, break a few cobs in half and examine the side opposite the germ.

However, the best way to check moisture content is to chop several stalks from the field and check moisture using a scale and drying apparatus. Hot, dry weather will often cause the plant to be drier than is normal when using kernel moisture content.

To Be Aware Of Silo Gas

With silo filling comes the hidden danger of silo gas.

Silo gas is formed by the natural fermentation of chopped forages in the silo. In a conventional up right silo, nitrogen dioxide is the major gas formed. This gas is characterized by a strong bleach like odor and low lying yellow, red or dark brown fumes. It reaches a peak about three days after filling and quickly begins to decrease shortly thereafter, especially if the silo is ventilated. After two weeks it is unlikely that any more gas will be found but some could still be present if it was trapped and unable to escape the silo.

Nitrogen dioxide is dangerous because it causes severe irritation to the nose and throat and could cause inflammation of the lungs. Although death may occur immediately, a farmer could breathe the gas without any immediate serious symptoms and then die in his sleep hours later from fluid collecting in his lungs.

Many victims have relapses one to two weeks after the initial exposure, with symptoms similar to pneumonia.

If you are exposed to the gas, it is critical that you seek medical attention!

Ideally, everyone should avoid the silo during the critical period when gases are forming. Since this is not always possible, it is best to use a self-contained breathing apparatus when entering during the danger period. This is the only breathing device that is certain to protect you from all silo gases. Dust masks and chemical cartridge respirators do not provide sufficient protection.

Also, make sure silo is well ventilated before entering, especially around the base of the silo.

GETTING IT RIGHT
September 3, 1995

Background Scripture:
Acts 1
Devotional Reading:
Acts 1:21-26

Just because the disciples walked daily with Jesus, experienced His betrayal, trial, death, resurrection, and the ascension of Christ doesn't mean that they were now fully enlightened. Unfortunately, they still didn't really understand what it meant to follow Jesus.

We see this in the ascension when they question Jesus, "Lord, will you at this time restore the kingdom to Israel?" (1:6). Surely they should have understood by now that he had not come to re-establish the temporal kingdom of Israel. Nevertheless, the risen Christ is gentle with his reply: "It is not for you to know the times or seasons which the Father has fixed..." (1:7).

We can be sympathetic, for we, like them, often want God to spell out in advance for us "the times and the seasons" of his will. But God does not give us the long-range view, just the short-range one: "But you shall receive power when the Holy Spirit has come upon you; and you shall be my witnesses..." (1:8). Do the job God gives you and leave to him the future course.

IN THE WRONG PLACE

When Jesus ascended, once again they demonstrated that they did not really understand. "And while they were gazing into heaven as he went, behold two men stood by them in white robes, and said, 'Men of Galilee, why do you stand looking into heaven? This Jesus, who was taken up from you into heaven, will come in the same way as you saw him go into heaven' " (1:11). Do you recall the resurrection day experience in Luke 24:5? "While they were perplexed by this, behold, two men stood by them in dazzling apparel: ...'Why do you seek the living among the dead?' " (Luke 24:5). So, once again, the disciples were looking for the risen Christ in the wrong place. Just like us.

Jesus plainly told them what their role was to be: "...you shall be my witnesses..." (1:8). Some of the disciples didn't understand what Christ wanted of them. Note, Christ did not say he wanted them to be his defenders, but his witnesses. There is a big difference between these two roles and a lot of us today still don't seem to be getting it right. We think of ourselves as Christ's defenders — as if Christ cannot defend himself or that we could do that for him. It is arrogant for us to think that Christ needs us to do that. We don't have to go to battle for him, grapple with his opponents, and stifle those who do not accept him. Christ is quite able to defend himself.

DEEDS, NOT DEFENSES

What he wants from us is witness — to simply share with others what Christ has done for us. If we are not eloquent or gifted with words, we can witness best through our acts of compassion and deeds of love. The best way to defend Christ is not to defeat his enemies, but to demonstrate his love through our own lives. I suspect that many of us end up defending Christ instead of witnessing; is that because defending is perhaps more fun. Human beings love conflict. But witnessing is what we're called to do.

The disciples also had trouble understanding power. They wanted temporal power — "Lord, will you at this time restore the kingdom to Israel?" — But the power Christ offered them was spiritual power, the power of the Holy Spirit. "But you shall receive power when the Holy Spirit has come upon you..." Unfortunately, what many of us prefer is temporal power, the power to compel others to do what we think is right. But what he offers us is the power to be his witnesses, the power to inspire others to follow Christ.

There is still a big difference. Isn't it time we got it right?

Gruber Picks Wayne Champion

HONESDALE (Wayne Co.)—Henry Gruber, veteran hog judge from New Tripoli, surprised a large crowd of spectators at the Wayne County 4-H Market Hog Show held recently by choosing medium lightweights for his grand and reserve grand champion choices.

From 183 entries that Gruber called "a large selection of fine hogs," Shanna Johnson's 225-pound fresh-appearing Hampshire crossbred took first-place honors. Gruber stated that "this hog would hang up a fine carcass on the rail, and it was firm in its finish."

Reserve grand champion honors went to Chris Ellis's 223-pound Duroc market hog.

In the junior swine showmanship contest held the previous evening, Russell Yerkes was selected as the grand champion showman. Reserve grand champion showman was Brian Keating.

Southeast Regional Cattlemen's Association Hosts Farm Walk

Approximately 35 members and guests were in attendance.

Wakefield Angus moved to its present location more than two years ago. The McMullen maintain a small herd of registered Angus, breeding entirely AI. A tour of the farm and facilities included cattle handling facilities installed by Frey Brothers Manufacturing and no-till pasture renovation by Triple H Equipment.

Also Jim Saltzman from the Lancaster Conservation District office was on hand to answer questions and show the recent work completed at the farm. A spring development project, cost share funded, tapped into a natural spring with water troughs installed for the cattle for year-round fresh drinking water.

Future program events include farm walks of Woody Zook's farm in Glenmore and Glenn Moyer's farm located in Telford. For more information or membership application in the Southeast Regional Cattlemen's Association a 100 percent affiliate of Pennsylvania Cattlemen's Association, contact Bobbi McMullen, Secretary, 2384 Robert Fulton Hwy, Peach Bottom, PA 17563, (717) 548-3282.

South Central 4-H District Dairy Show Selects Champions

VERNON ACHENBACH JR.
Lancaster Farming Staff

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — More than 250 entries from 4-H dairy youth representing a seven-county central Pennsylvania region were congratulated by judges last Saturday for the quality of animals displayed during the South Central District 4-H Dairy Show, held at the state Farm Show Complex in Harrisburg.

Those participating in 4-H dairy show competitions exhibit animals first at the county level, where those whose animals are judged to have enough quality are presented with blue ribbons and qualify for district competition.

The qualification judging is not related to how the animals placed within their age class.

At districts, judges again award ribbons based on the merit of the animal for further competition at the state show, set to be held Sept. 25, during the Pennsylvania All-American Dairy Show (PAADS). Typically, there are 800 to 900 entries in the six breeds of the state 4-H show.

PAADS is the state's premier dairy show and event, held from Sept. 24-28 at the Farm Show Complex. It features national, regional and state shows and some sales of the six major dairy breeds.

Judges for the South Central Districts shows were Lynn Miller judging Holsteins, Ayrshires, and Brown Swiss, while Ronald Heffner judged Jerseys and Guernseys.

Miller is a Holstein breeder in Towanda. He and his family were this year's premier breeder and exhibitor of the Bradford County Fair Holstein show.

Heffner and his wife Emily own Heffner Holsteins in Jefferson, Md., and are also involved in cattle sales. Heffner has judged state and county shows around the nation, as well as judging national and regional breed shows.

Ross Hershberger of Martinsburg judged showing. Hershberger is a 1990 graduate of Penn State University with a degree in dairy science. His family has a 550-acre dairy farm and a herd of 555 registered Holsteins.

In the Holstein show, Miller selected a 4-year-old cow, Parnell View Jethro Sibyl, owned by Amy Hartman, of St. Thomas, as the senior and grand champion.

The reserve senior and grand champion was also a 4-year-old, Seelby Counselor Ericka, owned by Josua Eshelman, also of St. Thomas.

The reserve senior champion Aryshire was a 4-year-old, Masonic-Homes Jade Megan, owned by Miche le Ocker of Shippensburg. Ocker also showed the junior champion, a senior calf, Ockerdale Reliable Julie Joy, owned and bred by Michelle.

Jennifer Maulfair, sister to Daryl, showed the reserve junior champion Ayrshire, a junior yearling, Masonic Homes Welcome Rebecca. Jennifer, serving as an Aryshire maid, also helped present ribbons and trophies.

antibiotic residues, and then dump milk and levy fines on producers based on those test results, should stand by their belief in the validity of the tests and, in effect, put up or shut up because it's hurting an important resource — the dairy producer.

The associate professor said he has suggested that, to be fair, processors and producers should share in the risk associated with the tests.

"Frankly, if the processor has faith in the tests, there is nothing to worry about," he said.

However, he quickly added that, "If the test is not good, then (the processors) will find out and the dairyman won't be the only one holding the bag."

Under the existing circumstances, Cullor's recommendation is for processors to use the tests for screening loads of milk. If they get a positive result, then the sample would be sent to a third party laboratory for more complete, quantitative testing that can determine if there is truly an antibiotic residue in the milk.

"Why not share the responsibility with the processing plant and say if the processing plant uses the screening test and it's positive, then they send the sample to a third party lab and they run more sophisticated tests.

"And, if it comes out that there is a violative residue, then everything goes on as it should," Cullor said, meaning that the producer loses his milk and money and undergoes the 10-point program and temporary mandatory refusal of milk from the farm.

"But, if they run the (more sophisticated) test and it comes back that there is not a violation (of antibiotic drug use), then, number one, the producer gets no strikes against him; two, the processing plant pays for the dumped milk and reimburses the producer; and three, the processing plant pays for the more sophisticated test."

Cullor was one of 12 speakers who were scheduled to speak at the regional meeting of the NMC Inc., an Arlington, Va.-based concern with the mission statement to promote research and provide education to help dairy producers reduce mastitis and enhance milk quality.

In addition to Cullor's discussion about drug residue testing problems, topics covered during the day included a presentation by James Dell, chief of the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture's Bureau of Food Safety and Laboratory Services Division of Milk Sanitation; Robert Moser, a representative for Nationwide Insurance Co. in Harrisburg; Norm Corlett, of Milk Marketing Inc.; Williams Sischo, Lorraine Sordillo, and Steve Spencer from Penn State University; Jeff Reneau, from the University of Minnesota; Joe Hogan, with the Ohio State University; Ron Erskine from Michigan State University; and Charles Gardner, a dairy veterinarian with Dairy Management Consultants in Orefield.

Also on the schedule was Jill Harnish, representing her Nine Points, Lancaster County family dairy operation and talking about what practices they use to combat mastitis.

Also on the schedule was Jill Harnish, representing her Nine Points, Lancaster County family dairy operation and talking about what practices they use to combat mastitis.

In a telephone interview this week, Cullor further discussed the issue that he addressed during the meeting.

"People believe the tests are infallible, and that's simply not the case," Cullor said. "Tests make mistakes."

Cullor said he is an advocate of using proper scientific technique. He should know about tests.

"My lab is called the Dairy Food Safety Laboratory and we work on new ways to diagnose and treat disease, new vaccines for mastitis, and other diseases," he said.

"In our lab, there are three research assistants, four PhD graduate students, three master's (degree) level students, and five undergraduate students," he explained. He oversees the lab.

University of California-Davis has the only veterinarian school in the state.

"Part of our job is to work for our taxpayers in the state and to help work with animal agriculture in maintaining their leadership role in producing safe and wholesome products, and to help keep animals healthy," Cullor said.

He got involved with residue tests after producers contacted him seeking a scientific opinion on the dependability of tests being marketed.

"People started calling and asking about the tests and to find out which ones to use, and we started doing some controlled research projects and that's when we started to notice some problems.

"And then when we reviewed the literature, (we found that) scientists from around the world have reported problems with these residue tests, since 1984.

"Since we reported our results, in the early '90s, now other researchers around the country have verified that these same problems exist."

According to Cullor, the problem was that, "... individual cow samples, a lot of times the tests couldn't tell the difference between antibiotic residues and natural host defense mechanisms.

"The chemicals and the methods the cow uses to fight mastitis problems cause false positives in these antibiotic residue tests," he said.

"And so that's a problem. If the test can't tell the difference, what do you do?"

The answer, of course, to the rhetorical question is that the test shouldn't be used for a definitive answer as to whether or not the dairy farmer was careless in keeping track of antibiotic treatments on cows and withdrawl times before putting milk into the bulk tank.

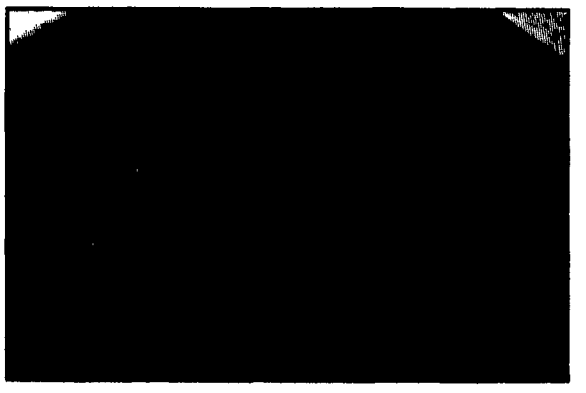
GEHL SAYS

"GOOD NIGHT, KNIGHT"



GEHL TMR MIXER FEEDERS ARE #1.

"Total Mix" Delivers More

Mix more long-stemmed hay into the ration -- up to 30% by weight depending on hay type and moisture content.

Gehl's secret is the remarkable "Hay-Slicer Auger." It incorporates a pair of unique knife assemblies as an integral part of each bottom auger to slice through long-stemmed hay for a quicker mix with less chance of wrapping.

Gehl's four auger system is well-known for superior blending and mixing of all feed ingredients into the most consistent ration possible -- in much less time. The new "Hay Slicer Auger" gives you that kind of fast mixing action in a wider variety of feed materials.

Compare "Total Mix" to Any Other Mixer Feeder

Dairy Food Safety Researcher

However, the history of how the tests came to be is telling in the reluctance of the political and regulatory sectors to give up the recently devised testing system.

In recounting the history, Cullor hit upon several key facts that seem to indicate that science, fairness and reason was overruled by political and public relations ploys.

The key reason the tests were developed was to provide a tool that would allow the regulatory structure within the dairy industry to screen raw milk for antibiotic residues, as part of a goal of having no traces of man-made antibiotics in milk.

Whether or not that should be the goal has been and continues to be debated. Nevertheless, with tests in hand, the industry began in January to use new tests to screen for any trace of antibiotic residues.

According to Cullor, since mid-1994 there have been antibiotic residue assays used in practice that have never been "scientifically field tested" nor received NMC Inc. Research Committee recommended validation protocol.

These same tests, Cullor said, are "accepted" by the Center of Veterinary Medicine/Food and Drug Administration, "performance tested" by the Association of Official Analytical Chemists, and "recommended" by the National Conference On Interstate Milk Shipments (NCIMS).

According to Cullor, these tests are used for tanker milk, for trace back on bulk tank milk, and routinely used on individual animal milk samples, although they have not been field tested on tanker loads, on bulk tank milk, and never received the NMC Inc. validation protocol.

"During late 1990, the Government Accounting Office (the GAO is an agency of and answerable to the U.S. House of Representatives) reported that, in their opinion, the Food and Drug Administration did not possess the appropriate technologies to assure consumers that the nation's milk supply was free of antibiotic residues.

"In responding to this report, the FDA pulled together a mechanism to cerfity such assays."

According to Cullor, the assays (or tests) which were developed were done through an "interpretive memorandum issued by the FDA (milk branch)" that summarized the laboratory evaluations of the proposed beta-lactam antibiotic residue tests.

According to Cullor, this method of testing tests is a protocol that calls "for the evaluation of manufacturer's label claims by using spiked milk samples with the parent compound of the antibiotic under study."

In simpler terms, this means that the Center For Veterinary Medicine/FDA accepted tests devised by test manufacturers and tested them by seeing if they would react to milk purposefully spiked with the parent chemicals in antibiotics (not the residues).

They repeated this elementary procedure from 30 to 60 times per test being evaluated, and at different dose levels in the milk.

That's it.

According to Cullor, no field research was done and no tests were done to determine the number of false positive reactions to other substances.

In other words, the tests were never checked to see what else would cause a positive reaction. Cullor said that in his laboratory's study using these same tests the cow's natural antibodies could cause a positive reaction for drug residues.

As a chemical antibiotic breaks down in the cow's system, portions of the chemical called residues linger. They are called "violative" because they inhibit growth.

The residue tests were never evaluated as residue tests, according to Cullor. "They had to do something in a hurry and this is what they did. And for me to say, 'Now you need to start all over,' is not popular."

His suggestion for the industry and government to either adopt his recommendation of sharing responsibility so that milk producers stop being financially hurt and put out of business on the basis of un-scientifically proven tests, or start all over and conduct the tests on these residue tests that good science dictates.

"What they did was fine. It was a good start," he said of the FDA tests. "But you ought to go into the field and see how it works in the real world. That's what bothers me."

He said that, "... from a scientific point of view, (what needs to be done) is to really put together a protocol to validate these tests that includes field trials."

He said that, as a scientist, he would "... call time out and go back and fix (the testing procedures) according to scientific principles."

However, because of the political and business ramifications, Cullor said he doesn't think that abandoning the tests is possible. That's why he suggested a system for using the current tests as screens only, backed up by precise third-party validation tests.

Currently, validation of the tests is to have the same lab repeat the same residue test on the same milk sample. That ensures that the residue test is consistent, not correct.

"If you really believe the tests are good, fine, keep it as a screening test and then send it to a third party. Let the processing plant pay for it (if the screening test was a false positive and the milk was dumped)."

He said that he has heard quoted prices for conducting a precise residue test ranging from $200 to $400 per sample.

But that compares to the thousands of dollars an individual producer can lose based on the current residue tests. To the individual, a loss of that can mean the end of the dairy farm.

"Instead of a little freckled-face guy in California yelling and screaming," Cullor said about his call for changes in residue testing procedures, if processors were to find out how expensive it is to pay for the false positives, then a group with strong political clout might be able to form that could get something done to correct the situation.

"If tests perform then fine," he said about his suggestion for processors using backup testing and reimbursing the producer for wrongfully dumped milk, etc.

"It spreads risk, responsibillty, helps producers, and the consumer, it stills keep them protected.

"But we can keep that vital resource, the dairy producer. They can maintain their ability to support their families and support the rest of the country that consumes their dairy products.

"If you don't do that, the insurance industry is already concerned," he said.

That statement was reinforced during the meeting in a talk by Robert Moser, a representative for Nationwide Insurance Co.

In his presentation, Moser said, "Toward the end of January, I noticed a number of losses coming through with milk identified as a problem and the description of the loss indicating the cuase of the (as) antibiotics in the milk.

"Our past history shows we would have eight to 10 of these types of claims during a year. In January, we had more than this number in about three weeks."

He said he had all claims sent to him instead of going to an adjuster. Then he started making direct calls on the farmers making the claims. (The insurance policy covered these losses) And Moser started calculating the insurance company's losses because of the large number of milk dumpings.

"With most of the trucks being two compartment trucks, this means that we would have to dump around 20,000 pounds and we looked at an average loss of around $2,500.

"With this year's estimate of 100 claims, very quickly our anticipated loss appears to be $250,000 this year.

"This is in contrast to 10 claims in 1994 for a total loss of approximately $25,000."

He said that while in the past a farmer might tell him that he treated a cow and her milk accidently got in the tank, "When I started contacting farmers this January and February, the story changed drastically. Most of the farmers said that they had not treated any of the animals recently and had no idea of what the problems were.

"Some of the farmers even went so far as buying locks for their barns

The 260-pound hog "fit the bill as supreme hog over any I've seen," he said. This is the first time in recent memory, according to Cheryl Bennecoff, that the family won a market champion at the fair.

Champion 4-H showman was Calvin Lazarus. Champion 4-H fitter was George Paul Billig. Jenny Rabenold was ag ed champion fitter and Stephen Wessner was champion ag ed showman.

In all, there were 94 hogs in the market show. At the breed show, there were 101 boars and 131 gilts. There were a total of 42 exhibitors.

She's A 'Doll' For Winning Allentown Dairy Show

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

ALLENTOWN (Lehigh Co.) — Adam Vance, exhibitor, and assistant Lance Greenawalt call her "Doll," and what a doll she is. Not only did the 3-year-old Holstein win grand champion female at the Allentown Dairy Show on Wednesday, but she was grand champion at several shows already, including the Kimberton, Goshen, and Bucks County fairs.

Greenawalt refers to the champion cow's breedbook name, Peticote Leadman Doll-ET, bred by William Pettit, Vincentown, N.J. The cow's sire is Rothrock Tradition Leadman and dam is Peticote Black Donut. The 3-year-old is projected at 22,000+ pounds, said Greenawalt, herdsman for Delaware Valley College, exhibitor of the champion cow. At the halter was Vance, a senior at the college.

Greenawalt said that breeding is number one in achieving a champion, with nutrition a big factor. He said that they are always working toward championship goals for the animals they exhibit. The college will also be showing this year at the Pennsylvania All American Show at the end of the month and the state Farm Show next January.

Seeds said this is the first time she has shown an animal that young to a bull championship at the Allentown Fair.

CAROLYN N. MOYER
Tioga Co. Correspondent

WHITNEYVILLE (Tioga Co.) — "It's been a long time since I've made a 2-year-old the champion at a show," said judge Don Johnston as he gave his reasons, "but today I'm going to do it."

With those words he walked to the center of the arena and selected Bren Delite CV Sierra, owned by Brenda Robson Hodder of Mansfield, the grand champion of the 22nd annual Northeast Pennsylvania Championship Show.

In the youth division, David Packard, of Troy, stood in the limelight when his junior 2-year-old, Pack Herd Skybuck Batu, was named the grand champion. In the reserve position was senior 2-year-old Braedawn Inspire Angel ET, owned by Adam Fraley Jr. of Muncy.

Among the junior animals, David Packard again had a winner with his fall yearling Pack Herd Encore Bazuka. She was named the junior champion in both the youth and open divisions.

In the run for the premier breeder and premier exhibitor awards, Gor-Wood-D Holsteins of Mansfield rose to the top and captured both banners.

Johnston, who was judging his first show in Pennsylvania, offered congratulations to everyone who participated in the event.

"It was a real nice show," he said.

thinking that someone had come into the barn and intentionally had put drugs in the milk."

After talking to many industry people, Moser said he couldn't get any good clues as to what was happening.

"After some persistent calling to Atlantic Dairy Co-op, Dairylea and others, I was told about new testing standards that went into effect in January, 1995.

"All of a sudden, I have learned about beta-lactams and a host of other names that I cannot spell, nor pronounce."

He said he then found out about the new tests and how it and the industry confirmation tests (which are not the confirmation tests that Cullor suggested) were giving positive results for beta-lactams.

"By the end of the first quarter, we had a total of 35 claims for contaminated milk. You can readily see a quick problem for the insurance companies when we would expect possibly 10 during the entire year and we now had 35 claims on hand for the first three months."

He said that he contacted Jim Dell at PDA and other insurance companies writing the same types of policies and found the other insurance companies were experience the same types of leaps in claims from presumably contaminated milk.

According to Moser, Dell called him back after checking with surrounding states and that they were experience about a 100-percent increase in milk dumpings.

In his presentation, Moser said the only thing different that he could determine was the change in testing.

However, he said that being considered is the theoretical possibility that some drug residues actually stayed in the cow's system longer than the withdrawl period on the label.

On the other hand, in Dell's report, he said that the January effective date of federal rules changing testing has resulted in a significant increase in milk being dumped.

"During the first quarter of 1995, three million pounds of milk were confirmed positive for drug residues and dumped. This was a loss of 103 tanker loads of milk, or $335,000!"

Neither Dell, nor Moser promoted the concept that the cofirmatory tests being used are causing the problem.

However, Cullor said that he doesn't blame regulatory people for not rejecting the new tests.

Just as an officer of the law is supposed to "go by the book," even if the law is wrong, regulatory people are supposed to carry out the programs, not check the validity of the testing programs the rulemakers give them.

Cullor said he hopes something can be done soon to fix the problem.

"I'm basically hopeful that everyone will take a look now and recognize that we have a problem and try to address it."

In late July, Alicia showed her cow to win grand champion of its breed at the Lebanon Area Fair. It also went on to win the title of supreme champion dairy animal among the youth shows there.

In the Jersey show, Heffner said that all dairy cattle breeders in the region should be proud of the quality of the animals selected for grand and reserve grand champion. He said that they have the potential "to really go somewhere. You should be proud, all of you, of the quality of (the champions)."

He named a senior 3-year-old, Mel-O-Dawn Boomer Budlight, owned and bred by Cory Mellot, of Mercersburg, as the senior and grand champion.

A junior 3-year-old, Justa-Beauty GM Jeannette, owned and bred by Rebecca Cornman, of Carlisle, was named reserve senior and reserve grand champion.

Heffner selected a senior calf, Pleasant Valley Design Sassy, owned by Kelly Rotz of Newville as the junior champion. An intermediate calf, Pleasant Valley Jay Design, owned by Rachel Oliver of Greencastle was named reserve junior champion.

Heffner also praised Smith's showmanship, citing an obvious relationship between showman and show animal that signified a lot of time spent working together.

Two of the four senior age class champions were shown by Smith, with his sister Elizabeth helping as leadsman for his 4-year-old cow. Heffner said he asked Brian which of the two were better, and that Brian said Violet, and Heffner said he agreed.

The Milking Shorthorn show was small, consisting of three entries. However, judge Miller awarded all three blue ribbons to qualify them for states.

In showmanship, Aaron Cornman was first place in the 8- to 10-year-old, junior-age division. In the 11- to 13-year-old, intermediate-age division, Shannon Holtzinger of East Berlin was first place showman. In the 14- to 18-year-old, senior-age division, Elizabeth Walton of Carlisle was the top showman.

The Next Generation Is Now
Berks County's Outstanding Farm Family

EVERETT NEWSWANGER
Managing Editor

LEESPORT, (Berks Co.) — Now it can be said that Outstanding Farm Family winners in Berks County propagate Outstanding Farm Family winners in Berks County.

Each year the Reading Fair, in conjunction with the Pamona Grange, honors a Berks County farm family that has shown leadership and achievement in the farm community. The 1995 winners are Ray and Frances Davis and their three children, Jeffrey, 23; Michael, 22, and Jennifer, 19.

But this all started back in 1967 when Ray's family, the Luther Davis family from Fleetwood, won the award, and in 1969 when Frances' family, the Leroy Heck family, from Leesport, was the winner. Ray and Frances were married Aug. 2, 1969, and that started the next generation of outstanding farm families in Berks County.

Home for the Davises became a 20 acre farmette where they raised chickens, turkeys, and muscovy ducks. At age 8, each of the children received a registered Holstein calf as a 4-H project. These calves and heifers were raised on the farmette until they were ready to calve. Then the children's aunt and uncle offered to take the cows on their 100-acre farm to milk.

The children kept raising heifers, and by 1989, Jeffery and Michael were ready to graduate from high school, and unlike many farm boys, they wanted to farm. So in November a small farm, located about four miles from their home, was purchased. The house isn't large enough to accommodate five adults, so the boys moved into the farmhouse while Ray, Frances, and Jennifer stayed at the farmette.

The new farm was named JMJ SpringPond Farm after the first initial of each of the children's names. Today, both boys are employees on the family farm, and both parents work an eight-hour off-farm job: Ray at Dana Corp Parish in Reading as a welder and Frances as a customer service representative at The First Naional Bank of Leesport. Jennifer is a sophmore at the Berks Campus of Penn State, majoring in dairy animal science and works part-time at Way-Har Dairy Store.

On the farm, Jennifer feeds and cares for the calves and heifers and watches for health problems at the farmette. Oh, yes, you may know, she has just recently been crowned the 1995-1996 Berks County dairy princess, too.

Michael grew into the cow man of the family. He said he had no interest in cows until he started working at his uncle's farm. With maturity and the experience with his first 4-H calf, Michael developed the love of animals that is required for a dairyman. The 21,389m herd average on 64 head gives some indication of the care the cows get under his management. And the cows are big pets. For example, the two year-old, just-fresh heifer that was the reserve grand champion at the Kutztown Fair two weeks ago will stand untied and nuzzle her manager's hair just to show everything is all right between them. The cows are housed in a new freestall barn and milked in the old tie stalls with pipeline milkers.

Jeffery is the field man working best with the big tractors and equipment. This is no small job because the Davis family farms 407 acres in Penn and Bern townships. Clover, Orchard, and Timothy hay and haylage is made from 126 acres. Corn is planted on 175 acres for silage and grain. Other crops on the farm include wheat, barley, oats, and soybeans. The crops are rotated to utilize the ground to its fullest potential. A special emphasis is given to conservation and wildlife preservation with contour and strip farming, and a farm pond in the meadow.

Ray is known as the handyman around the farm, and Frances handles the financial end of the farming business.

Over the years the children have shown their 4-H animals at Kutztown and Reading Fairs, the Easten Championship Show, the fall and spring shows in Harrisburg, and the Pennsylvania Farm Show. The family has received many ribbons and trophies, including the premier exhibitor award at Kutztown Fair in 1992. Currently, among the children, they own 50 of the 114 head of registered Holsteins on the farm.

"The entire family enjoys getting together with relatives and going to church," Frances said. "When it comes to participation at different fairs, we all pitch in to get all the work completed. Most of all we have to work together. Each person is capable of performing whatever task turns up, whether it be in the barn, field, or home. Cooperation and good management is needed for a family to work together."

The Davis family will be honored at the annual banquet scheduled for next Wednesday evening at the Fleetwood Grange Hall.

At the same time two outstanding 4-H and two outstanding FFA youths will be honored.

The 4-H winners are JT Ramsay, son of Jack and Susan Ramsay, Boyertown; and Stephanie Wojszwillo, daughter of Craig and Joanne Wojszwillo, Reading.

JT is a seven-year member of the Top Notch 4-H Equestrians and was the teen leader of the clubs community service project—a food drive for the Boyertown

Polish Delegation Visits Pa.DHIA

DAVID BIGELOW
Training Coordinator

Recently a delegation of Polish officials toured the facilities at Pa. DHIA. The group consisted of regional directors and agents of extension in Poland.

The tour was given in conjunction with several other activities during a two-week stay in the State College area. During that time the delegation had a chance to tour several agriculture sights.

This is an exchange program where directors and agents from each extension group visit each other's program. This serves as a learning experience for each group. Ideas that are exchanged are taken back to Poland for further scrutiny.

Pa. DHIA Manager Dave Slusser and his wife Kaye completed a project in Poland working with dairy farmers to boost milk production. In the process, they developed a working relationship with the Extension Service of Poland and several of the agents who toured the facilities here in Pa. DHIA services and in their infancy in Poland, as the Slussers witnessed when they lived on the dairy farms in Poland.

While visiting Pa. DHIA, the delegation remarked several times on the high production and superiority of American cattle. They were amazed to see the high records of American cows.

American agriculture is far more advanced than the Polish counterpart. This serves as an excellent opportunity for educating the Polish agents.

Average Farm Feed Costs For Handy Reference

To help farmers across the state to have handy reference of commodity input costs in their feeding operations for DHIA record sheets or to develop livestock feed cost data, here's last week's average costs of various ingredients as compiled from regional reports across the state of Pennsylvania. Remember these are averages so you will need to adjust your figures up or down according to your location and the quality of your crop.

Corn Harvest Said Ahead Of Schedule

MANHEIM (Lancaster Co.) — To develop hybrid corn and soybeans for the mid-Atlantic states, the DeKalb Plant Genetics farm is ideally situated because of the unique plant environment of the local area. A field day at the farm was held Thursday, and Brent Godshalk, plant breeder and farm manager, said they wanted to show their customers the new hybrids in corn, soybeans and sorghum. In addition, new bt corn resistant to corn bore and hybrids resistant to herbicide were shown.

The station is one of 25 corn breeding stations and three soybean stations in the U.S. Godshalk has a large breeding program on the farm and also does a lot of work with silage corn.

Greg Roth, agronomist, Penn State, said the crops in Lancaster County look much better than many other areas but thought maybe the yields would not be quite as good as they looked.

In many other areas of the state Roth said the season has been a roller coaster. Plant populations were reduced in some fields from seedling diseases. Later the rains came and caused the stalks to grow so rapidly that storms caused green snap problems.

Gray leaf spot then became a problem, but the dry weather caused that disease to diminish in intensity.

Now, rapid advancing crop maturity has given given some drought stress on shallow soils. While the weather has been dry, nitrate problems have not surfaced because rains have not followed the drought.

Roth estimated that the corn harvest is two weeks ahead of schedule, and some silage has become dry faster than farmers expected.

With an early harvest comes the opportunity for fall tillage and the planting of cover crops.

"This has been a frustrating year for corn growers," Roth said. "But I think we will do reasonably well on a state-wide basis. In terms of yield, nationally USDA is reporting some rather good yields, but many corn farmers do not believe those yields will materialize."

Brent Godshalk, DeKalb research farm manager, explains the corn breeding process to one of the tour groups at the field day.

Correction

At last week's Elizabethtown Fair Sale of Champions, some facts were incorrectly reported. Brandon Ziegler, Lititz, sold his grand champion selling lamb to John Ebersole of Speedwell Construction, Manheim. The supreme champion sheep was shown by Jennifer Zimmerman, Akron.

In the story of the current state FFA president Darla Herr's name was inadvertedly interchanged with Tonya. We apologize for these errors.

Dealer Seminar Held For New Products

SMOKETOWN (LANCASTER CO.) — "In the Midwest, late weather patterns have corn acres down, but soybean acres are substantially increased," said Jack Tredinnick, executive vice president, AgriPro Seeds, Inc., Shawnee Mission, Kansas. The company official was in town last Friday for a dealer seminar at the P. L Rohrer Bro., Inc., dealership.

"The alfalfa business is exceptionally strong," Tredinnick said. "Our business is excellent. In the short term we need a late frost to get a crop. Long term, agriculture will see more identity preserved products— seeds developed that carry value additions to the end user. The idea that corn is corn and beans are beans is outdated."

In their line of products, Tredinnick noted the new alfalfa lines that are resistant to diseases at the seedling stage. In corn, he said yields are still the name of the game. Farmers need to give some of the new varieties a "look/see" even if they are not familiar with the brand name.

"Our success will be the byproduct of the farmer's success," Tredinnick said. "Here in the East, the biggest competition to acres is development. But in other areas the acres remain the same but are controlled by fewer farmers. The seed industry is consolidating too. This means fewer people are chasing the same market with fewer producers to buy the product. But nothing sells product like product. Salesman can get you on the farm the first time. After that it is up to the product to earn more acres," Tredinnick said. "We have the products to do this."

The training session continued all day. The afternoon program included visits to the field test plots near the dealership.

Multi-service. He served as ringmaster for the Berks County 4-H Horse Roundup. Presently, JT is an exchange student in Denmark after graduating from Boyertown Area High School last spring. He plans to attend college when he returns home.

Stephanie is an 11-year member of the Leesport 4-H Club and has won contests for cooking and sewing. She has been an active camp counselor and this year served as the overall chairperson of the Berks County 4-H Fair.

The FFA winners are Sherry Hoffman, daughter of Barry and Karen Hoffman, Oley; and Larry Medaglia, son of Laurence and Sue Medaglia, Honey Brook.

Along with Sherry's many accomplishments with projects in dairy, garden, swine, dairy beef and soybeans, she received her Keystone Degree this year and received a silver medal for her State FFA interview contest. Sherry is a member of the Oley VAlley FFA and plans to attend college and major in elementary education.

Larry is also a 1995 Keystone degree winner with interest in agribusiness. A member of the Twin Valley FFA Chapter, he has received proficiency awards in forest management, nursery operations, wildlife management and speciality crop production. He has a keen interest in floriculture and landscaping and has won prices at local and state events with his plant exhibitions. Larry plans to become a state FFA officer and attend Delaware Valley College to major in nursery landscape.

Station Examines Ways To 'Fine-Tune' Corn Varieties

NEW HOLLAND (Lancaster Co.) — Hundreds of visitors to the Pioneer Open House and Field Day mid-week here at the new research station were shown how corn research is changing.

Varieties are being selected to provide corn growers with a greater harvestable yield, reduced crop losses and lowered input costs, and increases in the value of grain and forages harvested.

Research under way at the station, on which construction was finished early this year, is examining how corn varieties are bred, what genetic technology is trying to do, how varieties are produced to fight diseases, and to grow corn to provide maximum yield and nutrition.

Dave Whitaker, research project manager of the station, said the site is one of four silage research stations and one of 26 corn research stations in the country that works with small plots to study new varieties. The New Holland site is the eastern research station, providing information to growers from Illinois to New York and south to North Carolina. This is the 11th growing season at the New Holland site.

A key area of research is the silage demonstration sites, especially narrow row technology. Studies in New York have shown that silage harvest has improved by 10 percent with no adverse effect on the quality of the silage, according to Whitaker. In a test plot, Pioneer 3525 was planted May 16 on one plot at a population of 30,000 plants per acre on 30-inch rows. On the 15-inch rows, plant population reached 40,000 per acre.

The results "look really good," said Whitaker. Donald Specker, field sales agronomist for Pioneer in New York, said the narrow rows provided "quite a yield boost" and may prove useful for large-scale operations. Some dairies in Wyoming County, N.Y. are making use of the narrow row technology with success.

Special adjustments are necessary for the equipment at planting and harvest, according to narrow corn row experts.

In the future, growers may lose generic #2 yellow hybrids, said Joe Keaschall, Pioneer corn research director, southern corn belt and Italy. Keaschall said that hybrids will be produced for specific use. For example, he said corn is being developed that will make for a "better hog feed." Corn research is geared to produce a hybrid that has improved energy value, better resistance to mold, lower phytate, and modified protein content.

Altogether, this "fine tuning" of plants, according to Keaschall, will benefit the corn grower.

The New Holland research building measures 10,000 square feet. Research plots encompass about 61 acres at the site, planted mostly to corn this year and irrigated.

Brosius, Zug At Agribusiness Breakfast

MYERSTOWN (Lebanon Co.) — Several prominent government officials were on hand at a breakfast meeting Wednesday morning to emphasize the importance of agriculture and agribusiness, especially in providing the opportunity for exports and in the use of Pennsylvania products for manufacturing.

Both Pennsylvania Ag Secretary Charles Brosius and State Representative Peter Zug attended the event sponsored by Farmer Boy Ag, Leon Hoover, president and CEO. Farmer Boy Ag is building poultry and hog facilities in 24 different states, and they have 40 people marketing throughout 96 countries. Projects are underway in Japan and Argentina with excellent prospects in Korea, Chile and Mexico.

Tim Mason, chief financial officer, said Farmer Boy Ag had sales that exceeded $80 million in 1994, and this was a 100 percent increase from 1993. Of these sales, $2 million was in foreign sales. The company has 350 employees.

Brosius said these foreign sales were examples of what the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture needs to do to help Pennsylvania farmers and agribusinesses become more profitable.

"Leon Hoover is an American success story," Brosius said. "With initiative, hard work, and the opportunity, Farmer Boy Ag is the kind of business we are proud of in Pennsylvania Agriculture. It's this world class industry that Gov. Tom Ridge and I are committed to do whatever is necessary to keep agriculture on the cutting edge. We have the largest rural population in Pennsylvania, and we have tremendous opportunities."

John Reininger, Hatfield Quality Meats, said his company slaughters 1.7 million pigs each year and returns $162 million to the pork producers. But 25 percent of their production is purchased outside of Pennsylvania, and he said this was only because their needs were greater than they can purchase locally. Reininger said the opportunity in Pennsylvania was increasing because Hatfield's capacity is 2.5 million hogs. He said their plant can grow and their goal is to promote agriculture locally.

Galen Kopp, Lebanon County agent, said agribusiness in the county employs 4,137 people and provides $86.4 million in wages. He said hog production had increased in the county by 35 percent since 1990 and noted that the poultry industry was also expanding and the top producing cow in the state in 1994 came from Lebanon County with a record of over 43,000 pounds of milk.

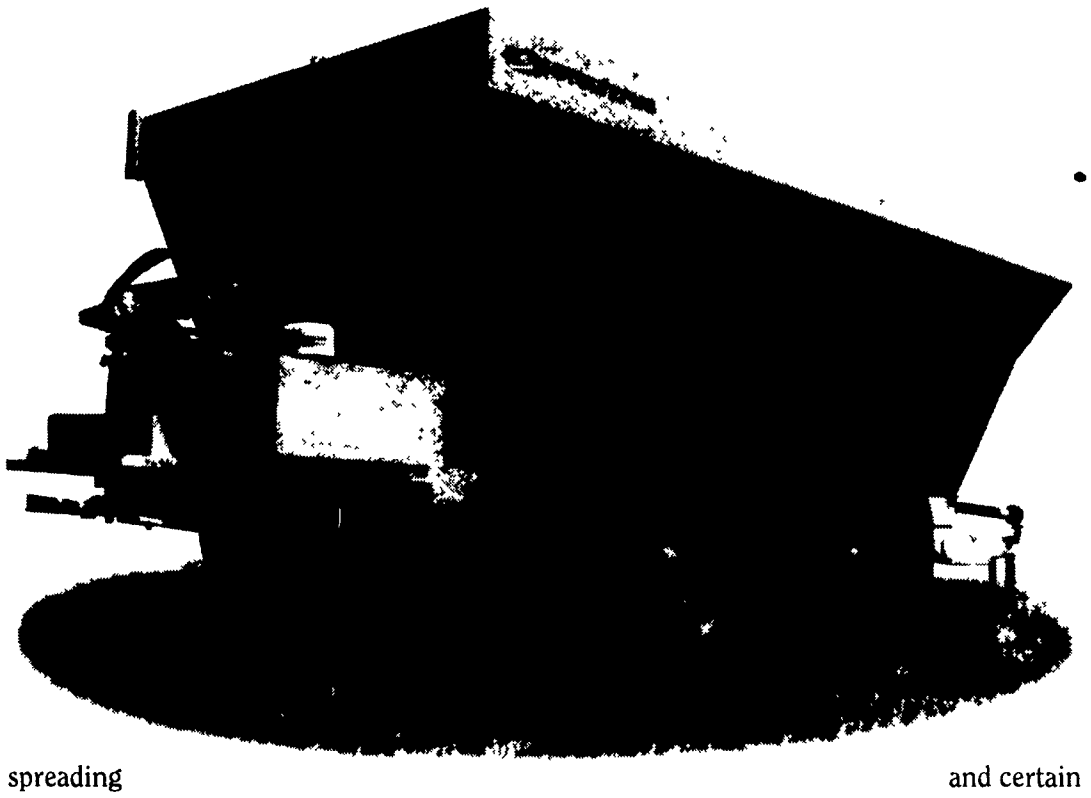
Zug complimented Gov. Ridge for allowing his cabinet to come out to meetings like this to meet with the people and hear about their needs. He said this was very impressive and gave policy makers in Harrisburg a better handle on local situations across the state.

Following breakfast, everyone had the opportunity to tour the Farmer Boy manufacturing facilities.

Sometimes You Need A Spreader Built Like A Tank.



When spreading stockpiled lime, for example. The Stoltzfus Wet Lime Spreader is likely the most powerful spreader of its kind on the market today. You see, we've been building them since 1945, and farmers are still using Stoltzfus Wet Lime Spreaders they've had for 20, even 30 years. Our special drag chain is 4 times stronger than stainless steel, and handles frozen and heavy stockpiled lime with ease. Plus, for spreading compost, composted sludge, poultry litter and certain fertilizers, the WLS is without equal for sheer volume spreading. We call that performance. You'll call it terrific.

We hope you compare a Stoltzfus WLS with other spreaders. It makes us look even better. Price? Sure we may be a little more. But when you end up replacing cheaper units in a few short years, what have you saved? Stoltzfus quality always pays foritself many times over.

Just how tough is a Stoltzfus WLS? Plenty tough. Call today. We'll tell you where to find the dealer nearest you, and send you free literature to inspect.

LVNB Hosts Customer Appreciation Hog Roast

WOODCREST (Lancaster Co.) — The agricultural lending group of Lebanon Valley National Bank on Wednesday held its annual customer appreciation day for customers in the Ephrata and New Holland areas by serving as host for a hog roast.

Held at the Woodcrest Retreat, located near Ephrata, about 250 people associated with LVNB attended the event that featured large roast pork sandwiches, corn on the cob, potato salad, condiments and desert.

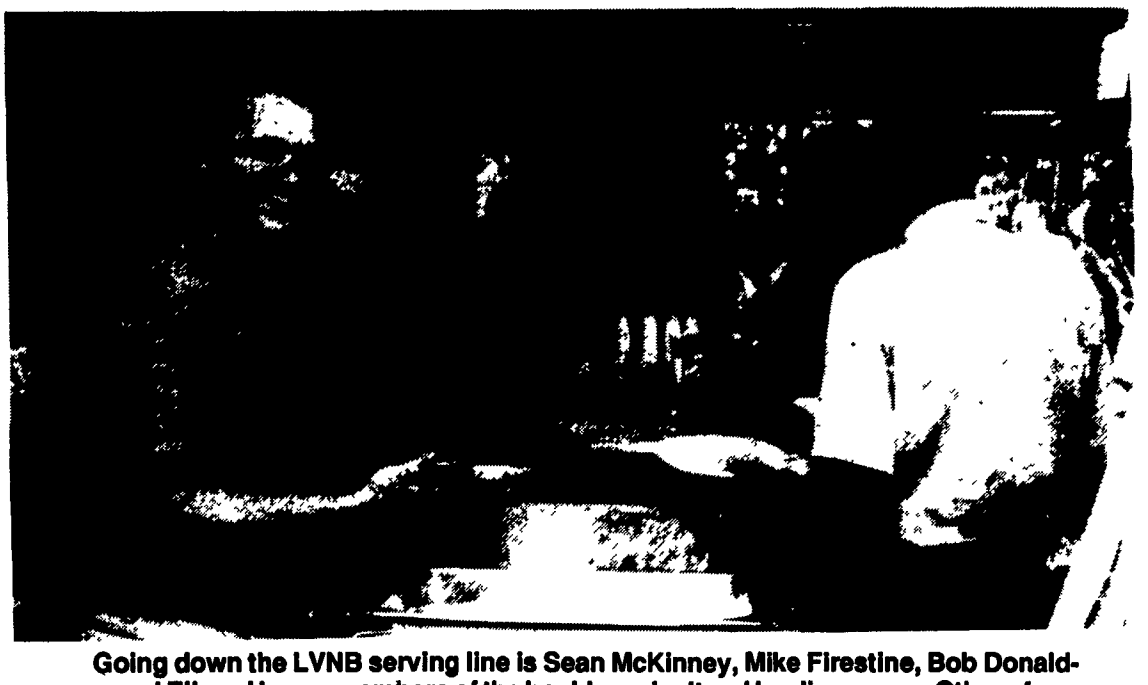
The event is one of three held in the LVNB service area in Lebanon and Lancaster counties. LVNB also offers its agricultural customers a spring educational seminar, usually held in Prescott.

Albert Murry, LVNB president, addressed the group and told them that despite the current and expected continued consolidation within the banking industry, there will still be room for local lenders working directly with people.

Murry is currently president of the Pennsylvania Bankers Association and he said he has had the opportunity to talk to a number of others within the banking industry around the state.

He said the consensus is that while mergers and consolidations within the lending industry are expected to continue, because it enables the ability to adopt new technology faster and offer customers more service options, "There's going to be room for well-managed banks like LVNB."

LVNB currently has $90 million in outstanding agricultural loans made primarily to about 1,000 family farmers, making it the third largest agricultural lending institution in the state. In relation to the nation's 10,000 banks, LVNB is 46th largest in terms of agricultural lending.



Going down the LVNB serving line is Sean McKinney, Mike Firestine, Bob Donaldson and Eileen Heaps, members of the bank's agricultural lending group. Others from the bank not shown include John Eaton, Travis Werley, Jen Greenawalt, Amy Smith, and Sylvia Beamesderfer. Also helping was Jim Rankin of the Ephrata branch.

HEATING

PuraFire

The Purafire heater provides a consistent, cleanburning and fuel efficient source of warmth for all types of poultry and swine houses. With near 100% efficiency, it uses less energy to yield greater BTUs for your money. Choose from two models: the C80M variable output (40,000 - 80,000 BTUH) and the C225 (225,000 BTUH). Each is LP or natural gas compatible and can be mounted inside or outside your confinement house.

FLOORING

BOSS HOG WOVEN WIRE

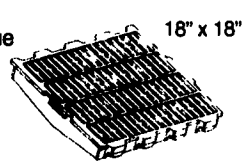
Woven wire is generally used for hog flooring but is not limited to this use. Elevator fencing, fork truck safety cages, wire truck tailgates, etc. can also be made from the same construction. Call for your specific job needs.

- * Excellent for farrowing/nursery pigs
- * Does not retain bacteria
- * No extra charge for custom size
- * Easy cleaning
- * Surface is non-porous
- * Low cost flooring

Plastic Flooring

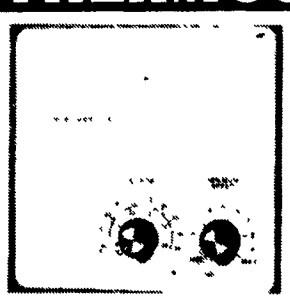
Sanitation - Constructed of solid plastic material. Some plastic floors are foamed. As these floors wear down their micro air pockets fill with bacteria which make the floor difficult, if not impossible to disinfect. This flooring features a triangle underside design which diminishes the need for high pressure washing from below to completely clean, as the floor can be cleaned sufficiently from above.

Outstanding Traction - Unique "High-low" finger design provides traction for pigs of all sizes, while enhancing safety and comfort.



THERMOSTATS

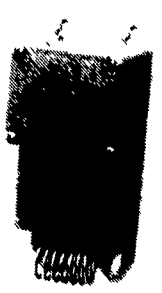
AIRSTREAM ventilation systems



Airstream TC1-C Thermostat

This variable speed control can be set to run continuously or shut off at a set point. The band width and absolute minimum speed can be set internally.

Variable Speed Controller also available



Sunne Thermostat

Thermostat has sealed molded plastic case with all exposed metal parts of stainless steel. Intended for applications that need rugged weatherproof heating or cooling control.

English Garden Tea Parties Delight Young And Old

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

MARIETTA (Lancaster Co.) — "Women today are so high geared, they need to take time in which to be catered and pampered," Marian Miller said of the reason for the English Garden Teas that she prepares in her home.

Her parties do exactly that as she flits between kitchen and garden serving delicacies such as scones with lemon curds, lemon wafers, fresh fruit drizzled with tea syrup, peach parfait, and elegant finger sandwiches interspersed with edible flowers and opera fudge.

Marian greets guests with a nosegay made from flowers and herbs that she grows in her garden.

Tables draped in layered tablecloths are set up on the patio and in her English garden ablaze with scents of lavender and late summer blooms. She uses her finest china, Depression glass, and silver spoons to serve her guests. Bouquets of fresh flowers depend on the offerings of her gardens, but are gracefully arranged in heirloom containers.

It's this touch of class that appeals to many women who know that food tastes better, spirits are lifted, and life is more enjoyable when surrounded by beauty.

While Marian seeks to help women slow down and savor the lifestyle of a bygone era, she herself exudes unstoppable energy.

"I thrive on staying up all night and preparing this," she said of nasturtiums stuffed with cream cheese and chives, the dainty sandwiches of cucumber and watercress, and the heart-shaped lemon wafers.

She also offers children's tea parties, complete with games from the Victorian Era or a contemporary pool party in the swimming pool next to the garden. An English playhouse is also part of the garden and a place for children to play after the tea.

"Tea parties show children the fun way of doing grownup things, yet at the same time kids can still be kids," Marian said.

GEHL SCAVENGER® OUTSELLS ALL OTHER V-TANK SPREADERS!

It's a fact. Gehl Scavenger® is the original V-tank spreader, and still the best. That's because Scavenger delivers unmatched performance in more types of manure.

Gehl's patented auger design hydraulically powers both up and down to break up solid material. Variflo discharge spreads smoothly and evenly for complete application control -- from light top-dressing to heavy spring-time spreading.

Simply More Durable

The Scavenger is a simple spreader. It's a solid reliable performer constructed with massive channel steel sub-frames and heavy-duty axles. The high-strength steel tank is warranted against rust-through for 10 full years.

Five models range from 192 to 596 bushel heaped capacity to match your operation.

Right now is the best time to see your Gehl dealer while special financing and rebate programs are still in effect.

At a recent children's tea party, one little boy turned up his nose at the China teapot and cups.

"I don't like tea. I want orange juice," he announced.

Marian, always prepared, hurried to bring him freshly squeezed orange juice. By the time, she returned, the little boy's friends had encouraged him to try the tea. After one sip, he admitted that the tea, a mixture of mint tea and cranberry juice, tasted good.

Marian's eye for beauty and color has been honed over the years as the former owner of the Lavender Patch, a gift shop.

Marian made the transition from a farmhouse filled with antiques and country decor to purchasing a more contemporary-style home and decorating it with Victorian touches and collectibles of that era.

News of the tea parties and garden luncheons are by word of mouth only. Marian said, "I want this to remain something special for select occasions."

Reservations may be made by calling Marian at (717) 426-4533.

Marian uses herbs and edible flowers from her gardens for the luncheons and tea parties she serves. A delightful tour of the English garden and a fenced-in vegetable garden is available for curious guests.

After the tea, the children played in the English playhouse and then had a swimming party in the pool that borders the garden.

Homestead Notes

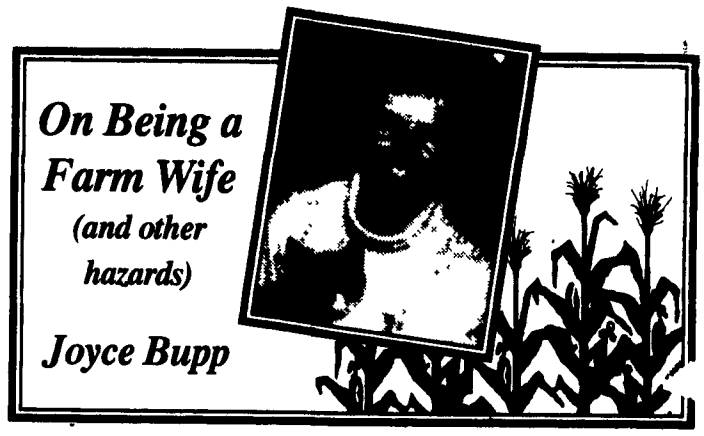
In keeping with the styles of the Victorian era, Marian wears her garden hat low to serve tea. "The focus was to be on the hat, not the person," she said. When weather permits, the teas are held outdoors, but her home inside carries Victorian touches with a floral theme. Notice the kitchen cupboards and doors are each painted with a different flower or herb.

Five-year-old Tyler Barge is certain he won't like tea. While he waited for freshly-squeezed orange juice, his cousins, Courtney Fahndrich, left, and Sara Haines convinced him to try the tea, a mixture of mint tea and cranberry juice. Surprise! He likes it.



It's over.

Some dead-giveaway clues: the first lavender blooms on the early mums ... school buses back on the road ... having to dig out the sweatpants for evening wear ... supermarket shelves empty of canning supplies.

That was the main reason I'd gone to the supermarket in the first place — my supply of canning jar lids was dwindling. And the tomatoes were ripening, a bushel or better every few days.

Usually, I try to stock up a couple of boxes of jar lids earlier in the summer, before the demand crunch. Most of those were already used — and the tomatoes still merrily ripened. Only bare gaps and a few lids of less-popular size sat, lonely, on the store's shelves.

How many weeks of the year do local supermarkets run out of jar lids? Not many, I betcha. But late summer's bounty of wonderful produce — tomatoes, peaches, grapes, early apples — nearly alway stirs a buying run on this seasonal item. Or at least it does in our area of the country, where "puttin' up" is still a fairly widespread tradition.

Among my treasured worldly possessions are a couple of the blue-tinted antique canning jars, some with their galvanized, reusable lids. Their graceful shapes, delicate color and little bubbled flaws in their glass represent, to me, a wonderful freedom of choice.

To can or not to can? That is the question (with apologies to Shakespeare).

Consider our grandmothers and great-grandmothers, who had to "put up" virtually everything in those blue glass jars, including canning meats for the winter. If shelves weren't filled with canned fruits and vegetables as summer was drawing to a close, their families faced meager and monotonous winter eating. And, they had to fill those jars with the heat generated on a wood or coal-fired cookstove, no less. If lucky, they might have had a "summer kitchen" away from the main one to avoid overheating the entire house on heavy-duty food preserving days.

Today, with markets filled year-round with more foods than most of us will ever even try, we can stil choose to preserve our own food. Or choose to buy it, ready to open and pop into a pan.

Having the taste, texture, and convenience of my own home-canned specialties is a fair trade for working over a steaming stove on a 90-degree August day. Tomatoes, applesauce and apple butter, jellies and jams, peaches, plums and pears if they're readily available. Preserved and tasting exactly the way I like them for our use.

And the canning/preserving methods recommended today produce a safer product than Grandma often could. For instance, sealing jellies with paraffin — the method I grew up with — is now considered unsafe. The mold that sometimes formed under that paraffin never did appeal to me; neither did pitching out a product into which I poured pounds of sugar, a pack of pectin, and some sweat equity.

Besides, those pretty jelly jars with shiny lids and rings look much more appealing than old pickle jars or whatever sealed with wax.

With the supermarket empty of boxes of plain, standard size lids, I hauled home a box of combination sealing lids and the rings. Some of my canning-jar rings are getting rusty, anyway, and it was another dozen lids for the tom...o marathon planned the next morning.

Summer's over. But several dozen jars of it are squirreled away in the basement.

Foods And Nutrition Programs Offered

LEESPORT (Berks Co.) — Penn State Cooperative Extension of Berks County is pleased to offer the following foods and nutrition programs. All the programs will be held in the Agricultural Center.

Workshop I — Sugar is Not Poison

Come and learn why sugar is not the forbidden substance for diabetics that you may have thought it was.

New information will be shared to help diabetics understand how sugar, sugar substitutes and foods that naturally contain sugar can be used in a diabetic diet that meets the dietary guidelines. An overview of the exchange system will also be given as well as new recipes.

Sugar is Not a Poison will be held on Thursday, September 7, from 1:00 p.m. - 2:30 p.m. and repeated again at 7:00 p.m. - 8:30 p.m. The cost per program will be $1.

Workshop II — New Weigh of Life Classes

My New Weigh of Life (NWOL) is a Penn State University weight management program designed to help you make necessary choices to reach your desired body weight.

Come and learn how to: safely lose weight; maintain weight loss permanently; recognize your options; make appropriate choices and increase your level of physical activity.

New Weigh of Life will be held 12 consecutive Tuesdays starting September 5, from 7:00 p.m. - 9:00 p.m. The cost for the program is $55 which includes a participant's manual, instructional classes, and special incentives.

Workshop III — Nutrition For Preschoolers

Basic nutritional needs of the toddler will be discussed, plus tips for the caregiver on how to handle some common eating challenges.

Suggestions for creative menu planning, encouraging favorable food attitudes and good eating habits will be given as well as how mealtime can be a happy time for you and your children.

Nutrition for the Preschooler will be held on Wednesday, September 13, from 7:00 p.m. to 9:00 p.m. The cost is $5. Childcare providers and anyone else who cares for children are encouraged to attend. Credit will be offered for licensed childcare providers.

Susan Browning, Registered Dietitian, will be the instructor for the classes. To register for any of the classes (make check payable to: Berks County Cooperative Extension Special Account) or, to get more information, contact Fay B. Strickler, Berks County Cooperative Extension, Berks County Ag Center, PO Box 520, Leesport, PA 19533 or call (610) 378-1327.

BOOK
Poems Teachers Ask For

Fifty years ago, it was published in two separate books. In this reprint, we have combined them into one book with almost 300 pages and around 400 poems. There are many old favorite story-type poems such as "Tommy's Prayer", "The First Settler's Story", "The Leak in the Dyke" and "The Village Blacksmith". Also included are humorous poems like "The Railroad Crossing" and "A Boy and His Stomach". You will shed tears at "Guilty or Not Guilty" and "The Boy Who Didn't Pass."

Pap And Granddaughter Make Great Pair

LINDA WILLIAMS
Bedford Co. Correspondent

BEDFORD (Bedford Co.)—Bob Smith might be 78 but he's not about to stop showing cattle, at least not anytime soon.

And, he's hoping his pretty, smart granddaughter, Beth, who was recently accepted at the Philadelphia College of Osteopathic Medicine, might still find time to help him.

The two started as a pair showing Guernseys for Misti Meadows Farm when Beth was only eight. "I'm 23 now," she said. "So, that's a long time." Beth has been both state and national Guernsey queen.

"Pap loves to tell the story of the time when I was a little girl and crawled in between a couple of the cows to take a nap. Someone came along and wondered if it was a dummy in there.

"Oh, I don't know if she's a dummy or not," answered Bob. "But, she's my granddaughter!"

Bob admits he's tried to retire. "I sold all of my cows in 1991," he says. "But, Beth kept hers."

She now has a herd of 21 with five milk cows. The milkers are taken care of by Berneta and Brad Gable of Sniders Homestead in New Enterprise. "We couldn't do it without the Gables," Bob Smith is quick to point out.

While Misti Meadows was once a large farm, there are now only 25 acres left. "When we sold the cows we sold off a lot of our property," he explains. "My wife oversaw the construction of a new house."

Beth and Bob like to attend the Morrison's Cove, Bedford, Huntingdon, and Maryland State Fairs and have been to the All American Show in Kentucky.

"I remember once when we were flying back from Kentucky," Bob said. "The pilot told us how fast we were flying and I thought about the four miles an hour I went on my tractor and thought about what a strange contrast it was."

Beth, who has always wanted to be a doctor, received the news of her acceptance to med school during the Bedford County Fair.

"Pap and I had a couple of good weeks," she beams. "We had a Junior Champ at Morrison's Cove and at the Bedford County Fair. The med school news was like the icing on the cake."

Foundation Holds Another Successful 'Ag In The Classroom'

STATE COLLEGE (Centre Co.)—Nearly 100 teachers from across the state spent an exciting, action-packed six days on the Penn State University campus learning about agriculture and fun ways to incorporate this important industry into their classrooms. The 1995 Pennsylvania Agriculture in the Classroom Workshop was sponsored by the Agriculture Awareness Foundation of Pennsylvania. Each teacher receives a scholarship from an agricultural organization or agri-business to attend the workshop.

The staff, consisting of agricultural experts and former graduates of the program, helped the participants develop the interconnections of the segments of agriculture, and illustrated how that information can be used in all aspects of the classroom curriculum.

Next year's workshop will be July 21 through July 25, 1996 at Penn State University for teachers who would like to learn how to incorporate agricultural concepts into the curriculum they teach on a day-to-day basis. For application information contact Carol Ann Gregg, education coordinator, 147 Old Mill Road Grove City, PA 16127; (412) 458-6108.

Any agricultural organizations or individuals who would like to support the Agriculture Awareness Foundation should send contributions to Patricia Sueck, executive director, 534 Kennedy Road, Airville, PA 17302; (717) 862-8634.

End Of Summer Harvest

Summer is rolling to a halt. Your garden continues to produce tomatoes, zucchini, pickles, and squash. Those recipes you were so eager to make in the beginning of summer are now a bit boring. Here's your chance to use up end-of-summer produce by trying these recipes from our readers.

ZUCCHINI SOUP

½ pound hot sausage
½ pound regular sausage
2 medium seeded with skins zucchini
1 onion, chopped
1 cup celery, chopped
2 cans crushed tomatoes
2 teaspoons Italian seasoning
1 teaspoon oregano
½ teaspoon garlic powder
1 teaspoon sugar
½ teaspoon basil
1 teaspoon salt
2 green peppers, chopped

Brown sausages, add onion and celery. Drain off excess fat. Add remaining ingredients except green pepper. Simmer 20 minutes. Add peppers, cook 10 minutes more.

This is one of the best home-made soups. Marteen's Restaurant in Everett gave permission to have this reprinted.

SEVEN MINUTE ZUCCHINI

6 cups seeded, peeled, and coarsely grated zucchini
1 teaspoon salt
½ pound sliced mushrooms
¼ cup butter
¼ cup chopped onions
1 minced garlic clove
½ cup sour cream
1 teaspoon dry basil

Combine grated zucchini and salt in a strainer and let stand. Heat mushrooms in skillet, shaking over high heat until liquid evaporates. Add butter, onions, and garlic to mushrooms and saute. Squeeze excess liquid from zucchini. Add to mushroom mixture, stir, and heat 5 minutes. Carefully stir in sour cream and basil. Heat through. Do not boil. Serves 6.

This is an out-of-the-ordinary dish but tasty.

SPAGHETTI SQUASH CASSEROLE

5 cups cooked spaghetti squash
½ cup chopped onion
1 large bell pepper, chopped
1 large tomato, sliced
1½ cups shredded cheese
1½ cups sour cream
2 tablespoons flour
2 tablespoons butter
½ teaspoon garlic powder
1 teaspoon oregano
¼ teaspoon basil
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
1½ cups crushed potato chips

Microwave butter and flour until bubbly, stirring until smooth, add all seasonings and sour cream. Toss with spaghetti, onion, and bell pepper. Add cheese, mix well. Place in buttered baking dish. Arrange tomato slices on top then cover with crushed chips. Bake 40 minutes or until bubbly and browned. Serves 8.

With an abundance of squash, I made up this recipe and took it to a covered dish supper. I received compliments on how tasty it was.

SEVEN DAY SWEET PICKLES

7 pounds medium-size cucumbers
3 cups cider vinegar
1 cup water
5 to 6 whole cloves
8 cups granulated sugar
2 tablespoons canning/pickling salt
2. tablespoons mixed pickling spices (tied in cheesecloth bag)

Wash and trim ends off cucumbers. Put in crock. Cover with boiling water. Let stand 24 hours then drain. Repeat this each day for 4 days, using fresh water each time.

On fifth day, slice in ¼ -inch slices.

Make syrup of vinegar, sugar, and spices. Bring to a boil. Pour over pickles. Let stand 24 hours. Drain, save liquid, boil, pour over pickles. Let set another 24 hours. On seventh day, drain off syrup and save it. Pack pickles in pint or quart jars leaving 1-inch headspace. Boil syrup (throw away spice bag), pour over pickles to 1-inch headspace. Wipe jar rims. Seal and process pints in 10 minute boiling water bath or 15 minutes for quarts.

James R. Coffey
Elkton, Md.

A mixture of garden vegetables combined with pasta dishes is a tasty way to use odds and ends of vegetables.

SWEET DILL PICKLES

Fill jar with pickles lengthwise or slice. Put in:
½ teaspoon garlic
2 heads dill
¼ teaspoon alum

Heat until clear:
9 cups sugar
3 cups vinegar
9 cups water
3 tablespoons salt
2 teaspoons tumeric

Pour mixture over pickles and screw lids on jars. Put jars in water and bring to a rolling boil for 5 minutes. Uncover. Let set until cool. Makes 10 quarts.

ZUCCHINI SPICE OR CHOCOLATE CAKE

4 eggs, beaten
1½ cups vegetable oil
3 cups sugar
3 cups finely grated zucchini, drained
3 cups flour
1½ teaspoon baking powder
1 teaspoon baking soda
1½ teaspoon cinnamon
1 teaspoon salt
1 cup chopped walnuts

If a chocolate cake is preferred, add ½ cup baking cocoa instead of cinnamon.

Add sugar, oil, and zucchini to beaten eggs and blend. Combine dry ingredients and stir into mixture. Stir in nuts. Bake in well greased 13x9-inch pan at 350 degrees for 35-40 minutes.

Susan Ney

CARROT SALAD

6 cups chopped carrots
1 small onion
½ cup tomato soup or juice
¼ cup vinegar
¼ cup sugar
½ teaspoon pepper
1 teaspoon mustard
½ cup salad oil
1½ teaspoon Worcestershire sauce

Mabel Zimmerman
Rushville, N.Y.

SPICED PEACH JAM

4 cups chopped peaches
2 tablespoons fresh lemon juice
1 box Sure Jell

Mix together all ingredients and boil one minute. Add:
5½ cups sugar
¼ teaspoon nutmeg
½ teaspoon cinnamon

Bring mixture to a full rolling boil and boil one minute more. Pour into jars and seal.

What to cook? A hungry family is lurking about. Here is an incredibly easy, one-pot dish made to satisfy in under 30 minutes. Black Bean Chili was created by the king of corner-cutting, TV chef Mr. Food®. He's taught millions of home chefs his "speed-scratch" techniques — using convenience foods like cheese, frozen and canned foods and pre-cut fresh vegetables. Such ingredients help you create meals with all the taste of homemade, but without all the work.

In the mood for something south of the border? Brown a pound of ground beef, then add black beans, tomato sauce, chunky-style salsa and, just before serving, shredded hot pepper Monterey Jack cheese. Fifteen minutes later you've got hearty, flavorful Black Bean Chili. Now that's a quick answer to the "what to cook?" question.

BLACK BEAN CHILI

1 tablespoon butter
1 pound ground lean beef
2 cans (15 ounces each) black beans, rinsed and drained
1 can (16 ounces) tomato sauce
1 jar (11.5 ounces) chunky-style medium-hot salsa
1 cup shredded hot pepper Monterry Jack cheese, divided

In a Dutch oven or large pot over medium heat melt butter. Add beef; cook, stirring frequently, until brown, about 5 minutes. Stir in black beans, tomato sauce and salsa; reduce heat and simmer covered to blend flavors, about 15 minutes. Remove from heat; stir in ¾ cup Monterey Jack cheese until melted. Serve immediately sprinkled with remaining ¼ cup cheese.

YIELD: 4 servings, 5 cups

Family Members Show And Cheer During Fair Season

For a successful fair, it takes both exhibitors to show animals and a cheering section in the audience. This three-generational Kauffman family provides both at the E-town Fair. Grandparents Helen and Harold Kauffman of Landisville brought grandchildren B.J., 14, and Jessica, 8, to watch Jonathan, 12, and Eric, 6, show sheep. Parents Robin and Tracey Kauffman are also on the picture. Robin, who farms 150 acres, said that he showed steers when he was young. He believes that participating in livestock competition teaches responsibility and helps children learn that although not everyone wins, it's good to put forth effort.

Food For Profit

LEBANON (Lebanon Co.) — Food for Profit, a two-evening workshop addressing how to get started on a food production business, will be offered at the Penn State Eastgate Center, 7th and Herr Streets, Harrisburg on September 12 and 19 from 6:30 p.m. to 9:30 p.m. Topics covered will include safe food handling, legal aspects, marketing and promotion, packaging and business planning. The class will feature a "mentor" — currently the owner of a food related business — to give the sessions a mixture of theory and practice. A registration fee of $10 per person (or $15 per couple) for the two evenings will cover activities, handouts and light refreshments.

For more information, contact Winifred McGee at the Lebaon County Extension Office (717) 270-4391.

Radon In The Home

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — To find out about what radon is, its health effects, how you can test for it, and what you can do about it, plan to attend, "Radon in the Home: Myths and Realities," an educational program presented by Penn State Cooperative Extension. The program will be held on Wednesday, September 20, from 7:00 to 9:00 p.m. at the Farm and Home Center, 1383 Arcadia Road, Lancaster.

To register, call (717) 394-6851 by September 19.

Cook's • Question • Corner

If you are looking for a recipe but can't find it, send your recipe request to Lou Ann Good, Cook's Question Corner, in care of Lancaster Farming, P.O. Box 609, Ephrata, PA 17522. There's no need to send a SASE. If we receive an answer to your question, we will publish it as soon as possible.

Answers to recipe requests should be sent to the same address.

QUESTION — N. Shirk, Ephrata, wants a recipe for pickles that are made in the sun. The pickles get a milky-white film.

QUESTION — Lucy Lowe would like a recipe for crisp garlic refrigerator pickles.

QUESTION — Marian Mosemann, Summit Hill would like a recipe for Kosher dill pickles made without salt. She also would like recipes for other types of pickles made without salt due to a restricted diet.

QUESTION — Elsie Clippinger, Three Springs, would like to know how to dry seedless grapes into raisins for baking. She has a dehydrator.

QUESTION — Marie Lorah, Tamaqua, would like a bread recipe that tastes similar to Roman Meal.

QUESTION — Louise Graybeal, Renick, W.V., would like a recipe for chow chow made with cabbage, green and red sweet peppers, onions, and green tomatoes. Apple cider, sugar, spices and water are also used. This is a Swiss recipe from the late 1800s. She writes it is very good. She wants exact measurements and the kinds of spices used.

QUESTION — Jean Mitchell, Lewisburg, would like a recipe for whole wheat bread like that sold at Green Ridge Country Market in Mifflinburg. Her daughter-in-law lives in California and loves that bread. She'd like to know how to make it.

QUESTION — Dotty Gainer, Holtwood, would like a recipe for cookies that were made years ago by the former Federal Bake Shop in Lancaster. She writes that the cookies were shaped like stars and other designs and melted in your mouth. She thinks a cookie press was used to make the shapes.

QUESTION — Louise Graybeal, Renick, W.V., would like to know where she can purchase flaked hominy. She had requested this some months ago. Someone sent an answer but when Louise checked it out the Merchant's Grocery Co. Inc. wrote that they stopped selling it 25 years ago.

QUESTION — Louise Graybeal, Renick, W.V., would like a recipe for breakfast bars similar to toaster streusel, pop tarts, Snackwell's cereal bars, and Snackwell's Devil's Food Cookies.

QUESTION — Katherine McCleary, Stewartstown, would like a good recipe for tomato paste.

QUESTION — A Paradise farm wife lover of B-section would like to know how to make bagel sandwiches like those sold in restaurants.

QUESTION — Arlene Snyder, Manheim, would like a recipe using banana creme flavoring.

QUESTION — Judy P. Looney, New Castle, is looking for a cake recipe with a hot milk dressing served over it. It was one of her favorite foods made by her grandmother.

QUESTION — B.W. Pue, Rocky Ridge, Md., would like directions for making realistic gingerbread people that are used in crafts. Some are puffy and others are thick and flat. How is the dough made and colored and the features painted?

QUESTION — Sarah Clark, Breezewood, would like a candy called Decadent, which she thinks is made in North or South Carolina. She'd also like a bread recipe called Arkansas Travelers Bread, and a cherry pie made with red Kool-Aid.

QUESTION — Nancy Price, Jarrettsville, would like a recipe for fruit sauce such as they serve with ham at Horn and Horn Restaurant. She has tried other recipes but none is as good as Horn and Horn's.

QUESTION — Dick Taylor, Allentown, N.J., would like a recipe for hot pepper sauce using lime juice and carrots as opposed to the traditional method of using vinegar and tomatoes. He writes that lime juice enhances the pepper flavor more than vinegar.

QUESTION — Dee Crowder, Gettysburg, is looking for a recipe similar to Rotel or Chi-Chi's Tomato and Green Chilies.

QUESTION — Gina Hawbaker would like to know how to make a salad dressing similar to the house dressing at Atrim House Restaurant in Greencastle.

QUESTION — Sue Werner, Lebanon, would like a recipe for alfalfa jelly. She writes that her family tasted it at the Farm Show. Although she felt like she was eating grass, her son loved it.

ANSWER — Frank T. Cat of Millerstown wanted a recipe for English toffee cookies like those sold by Weis Markets. Thanks to Mary Moyer, Gilbertsonville, who sent a recipe that she said are really "close" to the English toffee cookies.

Chewy SKOR Toffee Cookies

2¼ cups flour
1 teaspoon baking soda
½ teaspoon salt
½ cup butter, softened
¾ cup sugar
¾ cup light brown sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla extract
2 eggs
1¾ cups English Toffee Bits

Heat oven to 350 degrees. Stir together flour, baking soda, and salt. In large mixer bowl, beat butter, granulated sugar, brown sugar, and vanilla until well blended. Add eggs; blend thoroughtly. Gradually add flour mixture, beating well. Stir in English Toffee Bits. Drop by rounded teaspoonful onto lightly greased cookie sheet. Bake 9 to 11 minutes or until lightly browned. Cool slightly; remove from cookie sheet to wire rack. Cool completely. About 4 dozen cookies.

ANSWER — B.W. Pue, Rocky Ridge, Md., wanted a recipe for Slow-Ball Dip. Thanks to Carol Romano, Lansdale, for sending the recipe.

Slow-Ball Dip

1 large round loaf French, Italian or other unsliced crusty bread (about 24 ounces)
2 8-ounce packages cream cheese, softened
3 6½ -ounce cans chopped clams, drained (reserve ¼ cup liquid)
2 tablespoons grated onion
2 tablespoons beer
2 teaspoons each Worcestershire sauce and lemon juice
1 teaspoon hot-pepper sauce or to taste
½ teaspoon salt
Parsley sprigs for garnish (optional)
Raw vegetables for dipping

With sharp knife cut top from bread; set aside. Hollow loaf, leaving a 1½ x2-inch thick shell; cut removed bread in cubes; set aside. In large bowl, beat cream cheese until smooth; stir in clams, the reserved clam liquid, onion, beer, Worcestershire sauce, lemon juice, pepper sauce, and salt until well blended. On baking sheet make a cross with two sheets of foil, each long enough to cover loaf. Center bread shell on foil. Pour clam mixture into shell; cover with bread top. Wrap loaf with the foil. Bake in preheated 250 degree oven 3 hours for flavor to blend and clam mixture to get piping hot. Remove top; sprinkle dip with parsley. Serve loaf on large platter surround by the bread cubes and raw vegetables for dippers. When empty, the bread shell can be cut or torn apart and eaten. Makes 12 servings. Note: Toast bread cubes in the oven during last 5 minutes' baking time.

ANSWER — A Reinholds reader wanted recipes using tomatoes to make spaghetti sauces to freeze. Thanks to Glenna Shaner, Hughesville, for sending a recipe.

Spaghetti Sauce

½ bushel tomatoes
4 sweet peppers
3 pounds onions
8 small cans tomato paste
1½ cups sugar
½ cup salt
Red pepper flakes to taste
1 teaspoon sweet basil
1 tablespoons oregano

Cook tomatoes. Strain seeds. Cook onions and peppers in tomato juice. When tender, put in blender and puree. Mix balance of ingredients. Cook until desired thickness. Add sugar at the end to help prevent sticking in bottom of pan. Adjust seasonings to taste. May add garlic.

This sauce is good to can or freeze.

ANSWER — A Chambersburg reader wanted details on using a smoker. Kitty Wells writes that charcoal should be used. Place a pan of water between the first and second rack. Put meat on the racks. Put a meat thermometer in meat to measure the internal temperature for desired doneness. A door on the side and holes in the bottom for air makes charcoal burn better. For more information, write to Culinary Institute of Smoke Cooking, 2323 Brookwood Dr., Cape Girardeau, MO 63702-0163.

HEARTY HAMBURGER SOUP

2 tablespoons butter
1 cup chopped onion
1 cup carrot
½ cup green pepper
1 pound ground beef
2 cups tomato juice
1 cup diced potatoes
1½ teaspoons salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
⅓ cup flour
4 cups milk
1 to 3 tablespoons sugar

Brown meat in butter. Add onion and cook. Stir in remaining ingredients except flour and milk. Cook on low until vegetables are soft. Add milk and flour, but do not boil. May add other varieties of vegetables if desired.

Contributor writes that this is a family's favorite soups, but did not include name with recipe.

CORN RELISH

12 ears corn
1 head cabbage
6 peppers
2 stalks celery
1 teaspoon celery seeds
1 teaspoon mustard seed
1 cup sugar
¼ cup salt
1 pint vinegar

Cut corn from cobs. Chop cabbage, seeded peppers, and celery in a food chopper using the coarse blade. Mix the remaining ingredients and boil the mixture for 30 minutes. Jar and seal in boiling water bath.

TOMATO PEPPER RELISH

½ peck green tomatoes
8 red peppers
2 or more large sweet onion

Put the above ingredients in a food chopper. Boil them for 15 minutes. Remove from heat and add salt. Boil again for 15 minutes. Drain in a colander. Add the following ingredients:

1 pint vinegar
1 pint sugar
2 sticks cinnamon
2 tablespoons allspice
2 tablespoons whole cloves

Boil the mixture rapidly and add:

1 tablespoon celery seeds
1 teaspoon mustard seed

'Little Farmer' Keeps Right On Working

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

LEBANON (Lebanon Co.) — Recently 6-year-old Scottie Smith went to the shore for vacation. He spent the whole time digging in the sand.

Several people nearby commented on his diligence in digging by saying, "My, you are a hard worker."

His mother said, "He's from the farm and thinks he needs to work all the time."

His parents, Scott and Sara Smith, and a sister Lydia, 14 months old, live on a farn owned by Sara's Uncle Glen Krall. Scottie's parents help out with milking and haymaking when needed, but Scottie makes his rounds from sunup to sundown wanting to help with everything around the farm.

"Sometimes he awakens three to five times during the night and asks if it's time to get up and milk," his mother said.

Scottie hops on his trusty mountain bike and pedals from barn to field looking for something to do.

But his most favorite job is picking up rocks and putting them on the skid loader.

"You won't like that job when you get older," his mom warned.

His mom grew up on a farm. She likes cows but doesn't consider picking up rocks much fun. Her husband was from the city, but now helps on the farm also. But he doesn't think picking rocks out of the soil is much fun either.

"I always will love picking up rocks," Scottie insisted.

"Only one thing I don't like to do," Scottie said. That's bringing in the cows.

His mother said, "He doesn't like that because he can't ride his bike to do it."

"I tried but it's a big hill," Scottie said.

Scottie rides on the tractor with his cousin, Jason Krall.

"He's only allowed to ride on the cab tractor for safey purposes," his mother said.

During a recent stint on the tractor, a severe storm arose. When hail — some as large as three-inches in diameter — pelted the area, Jason told Scottie to curl up on the floor of the cab tractor and he covered him with a coat.

They were afraid the windows on the tractor would break from the large hail, but they made it back to the barn safely.

When Scottie isn't working on the farm, he often accompanies his great grandpa to antique tractor pulls.

"I like the steam engines. They make a lot of noise," Scottie said.

Some of the tractor shows have tractor pulls for children. Scottie likes to enter the competition. At the Lebanon Fair recently, Scottie took first place in his age group in the kiddie pull and third place in the Big Wheel Race.

Although Scottie doesn't like to spend much time inside the house, when he does, it's usually playing with toy tractors and implements.

"You must be careful not to walk on his fields," his mom said of the imaginary cornfields that Scottie plants in the house.

Recently Scottie dressed in his favorite shirt with a tractor design and new work shoes. He's ready for school. Although he won't be able to spend as much time on the farm, Scottie plans to tell his classmates plenty of stories about life on the farm.

"If my parents move off the farm, I'm staying here," Scottie said.

Scottie often tags along with his cousin Jason Krall who works full-time on the farm. Scottie is allowed to ride on the cab tractor but not on the other tractors on the farm.

During the hot summer weather, Scottie remembers the heavy snows of winter and wishes he could cool off in the snowbank like this fellow.

Ida's Notebook

Ida Risser

Can it be September already? The summer has been busy with preserving garden produce and going to reunions. And, all but one grandchild has visited in the last few months. She has a full-time babysitting job and couldn't come when her brothers did.

Those two 6- and 11-year-old boys were the best behaved guys that you ever wanted to see. They helped to pick beans and even trimmed some on my slide-in cutting board. They also went to the dairy farm at every opportunity. What they enjoyed here during their four-day stay was the baby kittens that the mother cat hid behind a clematis vine below the kitchen window.

This year I went along to "Ag Progress Days" near State College. Our son, Philip, went too and did the driving. We had lunch with the Penn State Alumni as my husband and son both attended college there. We enjoyed the Pasto Agricultural Museum where antique farm and home implements needed muscle power to run them. They even had a washing machine similar to my mother's. It had a handle which I had to manipulate in order to wash the clothes — oh, my aching arm.

On the way home we detoured to Jack's Mountain to show our campsite to Philip. He also got to see Walker Lake where my husband and grandsons fished. They both caught some little ones and that night saw their grandfather sleep on the kitchen table in the camper. Of course, it is made into a bed just for sleeping. They thought the noisy insects kept them awake as apparently they didn't notice them in Virginia where they live.

This picnic table, placed only a few feet from the house, is where the fox recently attacked two children. Seated in the front is 8-year-old Jordan who was bitten numerous times on the hand and leg. With him are his parents, Cindy and Nevin Myer, and brother Josiah, 10.

Suspected Rabid Fox Bites Children

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

LITITZ (Lancaster Co.) — It was 9:15 on a warm summer evening about two weeks ago. Nevin and Cindy Myer's 8-year-old son Jordan was playing with several friends at a picnic table only a few feet from the back door of their home.

When Jordan felt something furry brush against his legs, he reached down to give his dog a pat on the head.

Instead of a warm nuzzle from his dog, Jordan was bitten, not once but numerous times.

Screaming, Jordan and several of his friends jumped up on the picnic table to escape what they thought at first was a "wild dog."

Instead of a dog, it was a fox, which turned on 4-year-old Jesse Ambrose standing nearby.

The children's screams brought parents on the scene. After pelting the fox with stones and sticks, the adults were able to free their children from the fox's assault.

Although the fox escaped, two children and three adults needed to receive shots to prevent them from contacting rabies.

The series of shots are not as painful as they once were, but are done in a series of 4 or 5 and are expensive.

Nevin said that the shots cost about $1,000 a person.

"Rabies can be spread just from touching the saliva or cleaning out the wound of a person who was bitten by a rabid animal," he said.

For that reason, three adults in addition to the two children who were bitten needed the shots.

Although medical treatment alleviates humans from developing rabies, it does not counteract the fear caused by the attack.

Cindy said, "I have never seen children as fearful as that night. We immediately prayed that the children would have peace. We are grateful that our sons are dealing well with the experience. But children deal with fear in different ways. Some of the children that were here are waking every night with nightmares."

The Myer home is bordered by busy highways of Rts. 501 and 322. A Christmas tree farm sets in back of the Myer home.

"We had heard a fox den was found there but we have lived here for 12 years and never saw a fox before that night," Nevin said.

"After that night, the boys were a bit fearful of going outside to play, but I told them to remember the many nice days they had playing outside and weren't bitten instead of the one time the fox came."

The bite marks and scratches on Jordan's arms, hands, and legs are almost healed and he and his 10-year-old brother Josiah are again playing outside.

Jordan said that worse than being bitten himself was seeing the little 4-year-old being bitten.

"He got it worse than I did. I wish that it had only been me and not him too," Jordan said.

According to Richard McGarvey, spokesperson for the Bureau of Health, there have been 355 rabies cases confirmed in the state so far this year year. Eighteen have been confirmed in Lancaster County.

These numbers do not include the incident with Jordan and his friends because the fox was never found and diagnosed.

Although it cannot be proved that the fox had rabies, it most likely did because of its strange behavior, authorities agreed.

Ordinarily, wildlife will run away from human contact. McGarvey said, "It's very unusual for a rabid animal to be that aggressive, although it does happen. In most cases, humans approach a fox, skunk or raccoon that is sitting or lying still and are then bitten."

As precautions against being bitten, McGarvey said people should avoid contact with wildlife whenever possible. If they notice wildlife acting strangely, they should immmediately contact the Pennsylvania Game Commission or a rodent control company.

Household pets should always be immunized against rabies because they are more prone to come in contact with wildlife.

The amount of reported cases is only slightly higher this year than the past two years.

"But we know there are many more unreported cases and cases that are not confirmed," McGarvey said.

The last known death from rabies in Pennsylvania happened in 1985. A young man died from rabies, but it was never determined how he had contacted the disease.

Tom Wisner And His Cattle Are On A Winning Streak

LOIS SZYMANSKI
Maryland Correspondent

WESTMINSTER, Md. — When it comes to cattle, Tom Wisner has learned a lot over the years. He began as a novice nine-year-old with two "stockyard" calves. Today, at the age of 20, he raises, breeds and shows Simmental cattle from his Carroll County Maryland base. They have become an important part of his everyday life.

Tom Wisner of Taylorsville, began showing cattle as a 4-H'er. Since that time, he has traveled to eight states exhibiting his Simmental, earning a name for himself along the way. Last year he won Grand Champion nine times with his purebred Simmental heifers. At two of those shows he also took Reserve Grand Champion. What began as a hobby has become a special part of life for this energetic young man.

"We took him over to the (Westminster) stockyards when he started," says Tom's father, Bob Wisner. "Back then, we bought two calves for $160. Both of them were on bottles. Later we found out that one of them was a granddaughter of Lafayette, one of the first Simmental bulls in the United States."

"I just kind of ran into the breed by accident," Tom Wisner said. "But, when I found out what breed I had I started sending for information and learning more about them. It got me excited because I found out there weren't many Simmental around."

That first year he showed his heifers, 1985, at the age of nine, Tom Wisner won Champion Commercial Heifer at the Carroll County 4-H and FFA Fair.

Over the years Wisner has built his herd of cattle up to 40 head. He says he buys one or two new heifers a year, although he has not returned to the stockyard. These days, Tom Wisner only buys from reputable Simmental breeders. He breeds 20 to 25 heifers a year, selling most of the offspring. He says he bought several from a New York breeder just this year.

When asked how he has developed his line of Simmentals, Wisner says it is through selective breeding and knowing what to keep and what to sell. "First, you gotta know how to pick'em," he admits. "Calves change a lot as they grow and mature. I look at how they walk. How are they on their legs and feet? I look for the thickness of muscle. They'll change 100 different ways as they grow." After he has decided which calves to keep, Wisner says from there on out it is all in the feed and care.

Wisner says that he feeds a commercial premixed total mixed ration and a good alfalfa or alfalfa mix hay.

Tom Wisner says his fiancee, Melanie Schwedes, is as involved in the breed as he is. She keeps all the records, and "she gets into studying genetics. When we pick our bulls for breeding each year we make a list of all the bulls each of us like. Then, we go through and nit-pick over each one until we have it down to the 5 or 6 we want to use. "Then," Wisner says, "we have to match them up to each cow (to come up with the most desirable traits in the calf). Depending on what each cow needs, we find it in the bull," Wisner adds. He relies mostly on artificial insemination in his breeding program, although he does keep a "clean-up" bull for those artificial inseminations that just don't take for one reason or another.

Tom's Simmental cattle have won awards in eight states.

Although Simmental cattle come in black, reds, blonde and smokey grey, Wisner says he prefers a deep cherry red heifer, or a black. "They are the two preferred colors in the breed," Wisner says. Then he admits that one of his Grand Champion heifers is a smokey grey. "She just has so much going for her that the color doesn't matter as much," he says.

"About five years ago I got to the point where I couldn't keep them all here on my dad's place, Wisner says of his cattle. With his father's five-acre Taylorsville farmette overflowing with cattle, Tom Wisner went searching for other facilities. Today, he still keeps his top show cattle on his dad's farmette and leases an additional 25 acres of land with run-in sheds (in New Windsor) for the rest.

According to Wisner, "It is hard to make a living with purebred cattle," so he works full time for his father in the family business, Wisner's Clean Sweep, Inc., a lawn care service.

Wisner says that a lot goes into the shows. "A week before each show you start clipping (hair)," he says, "and you are still clipping up until just before you go into the ring." But baths and clipping aren't all that goes into preparing a "prima donna" heifer for the show ring. There is spray paint for black hooves, hair glue to get the hair to stand up so the top-line on the cow (the line of hair along the back) looks straight. He says Zoom Bloom is a shampoo that, when blow dried, makes the hair "bloom" with fuller body.

White must be white, black must be black, red must be red and dirt must be gone, when a heifer struts into the show ring. A full showcase of trophies, silver plates, ribbons and photos, prove that Wisner's cattle are at their best when they enter the ring.

"I'm half-afraid to go back into the show ring this year," Wisner said. "I won too much last year. It won't happen again," he predicts.

But this young man would not be disappointed if he and his cattle kept on as they hav been . . . winning. "I want to cut back to 15 or so head," he says of the future. "I want to aim for quality, not quantity."

Although Tom Wisner says he does not think he will ever make a living with his cattle, he admits that they will always be an important part of his life.

Tom Wisner's Simmental cattle have won championship trophies in eight states.

Never Too Old To Play Ball

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

ELIZABETHTOWN (Lancaster Co.) — You're never too old to play softball.

That's the philosophy of a bunch of guys — mostly farmers — who formed an over-60 softball team.

"We're just a bunch of guys who love to play ball and got too old," said Roy Sauder of Mount Joy.

The 14 team members range in age from 61 to 72.

They play in a Modified Pitch Softball League with eight other county teams.

"Each team is allowed one member who is 59; all the others need to be over 60," Sauder said.

These guys prove that muscle power is still there despite the age. Their hits are powerful and their throws are forceful.

Eight teams make up the Senior Citizens Modified Pitch Softball League. Modified rules help avoid contact injuires. These team members, who are mostly retired farmers, play at the Sam Snyder farm in E-town.

But some modifications are made because of age.

Members are allowed to overrun every base, not just first base and they don't need to tag home plate.

"That's so we don't injure ourselves by colliding with the catcher. We do what we can to avoid contact injuries," a team member said.

"Some guys try out for team, but get so stiff and sore they quit," Sauder said.

"For most of us, it's a lot of fun. As long as we're in good health, we'll still play ball," he said.

Goat Club Meets

The Cumberland County 4-H Goat Club met Aug. 2 at the home of Sonya Rinker. Ten members were present.

The next meeting will be held Sept. 6 at 7 p.m. at the home of Zachary Travis. Project books will be due at this meeting.

Dairy 4-H'ers Receive Scholarships

Five Crawford County 4-H dairy youth will each receive $500 scholarships to attend schools of higher education this fall. Beth Bly, Kathleen Duncan, Janyelle Hunter, Crystal Miller, and Leslie Pegan are the recipients of this year's Crawford County 4-H Dairy Leaders' Scholarships.

Beth Bly, of Titusville, will attend Penn State University at the University Park campus to begin her college degree.

Residing in Cochranton, Kathleen Duncan will soon begin her schooling at the Ohio State University Agriculture Technical Institute. She is enrolled in the associate transfer program, pursuing a bachelor's degree in dairy science.

Janyelle Hunter has completed six semesters at Penn State University, majoring in agronomy and agricultural economics. Janyelle is from Meadville.

Crystal Miller will begin her sophomore year at Penn State University, University Park. She is majoring in dairy science. Crystal's family resides in the Cambridge Springs area.

The final recipient of the 1995 scholarships is Leslie Pegan. Leslie, also from Cochranton, has already completed her first year at the University of Pittsburgh at Titusville in the physical therapist assistant program.

The $2,500 in awards comes from several different donations. Donations to the fund have been accepted from several groups, organizations, and individuals. Annually, during the Crawford County Fair, eligible 4-H members auction one day's cheese equivalent of milk from their 4-H project animal. The cheese sold is not actually made from their animal's milk, but represents the amount of cheese that could be produced in one day. In the past, several buyers have donated their cheese back to the leaders, which is then resold with the money going to the Scholarship fund. The 1994 Cheese Yield Auction generated $710 toward the scholarship fund.

Generally, there are only three scholarships granted. However, since only one person received an award last year, and since each of this year's applicants qualified, the Crawford County 4-H Dairy Leaders decided to honor each of the five winners with a scholarship.

Distinguished 4-H'ers Announced

Thursday evening a special ceremony was conducted at the Montgomery County 4-H Fair to announce the 1995 Distinguished 4-H'ers. In addition to meeting other criteria, these 4-H'ers must show outstanding dedication, maturity, leadership ability, and citizenship qualities. The winners of the Distinguished 4-H'er Award this year were Christine Michalik of Sellersville, Amy Plummer of Chalfont, and Tabitha Landis of Salford.

Christine Michalik has spent the past six of her 16 years as a 4-H'er. She will enter the 11th grade at Pennridge High School, where she has been a distinguished Honor Roll student, a recent inductee to the National Honor Society, and a member of the Executive Council. Christine is involved in many 4-H clubs, including the goat, dairy, livestock, and exchange clubs, in addition to Teen Council.

Amy Plummer also was selected as a distinguished 4-H'er. Amy has spent her last 11 years as a 4-H'er. She is a recent graduate of Central Bucks High School West where she was a member of both the Student Government Organization and the National Honor Society and has served as captain of the Science Olympiad Team. Amy was selected to attend the Pennsylvania Governor's School for the Agricultural Sciences and is a member of the 4-H Dairy Club, Silver Pails Goat Club, and Neshaminy Explorers 4-H Club. Amy is planning for further education in the field of biology or preveterinary science.

Tabitha Landis also merited the Distinguished 4-H'er Award. She has been a 4-H'er for the past six years and is a member of the Furry Friends Rabbit and Cavy Club and the Green Pastures Sheep Club. Tabitha has participated in several community service projects with her church and will be a senior at Souderton Area High School this fall.

For more information on how you can become involved in the 4-H program, contact the 4-H Center at (610) 489-4315.

Anyone in grades K-3rd interested in belonging to a prep horse club in the Franklin Township, Newfield area, call June Harris (609) 863-8770 or the 4-H office at (609) 863-0007.

4-H Sheep Club

The Condoquinet 4-H Sheep Club held its summer meeting recently.

Natalie Lobo led the pledge to the flag, and Zack Reed the 4-H Pledge.

Tim Hocker led a discussion on the "I Care" program.

Final preparations were made for the August county roundup. The meeting ended with the group working on the club display for the fair.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Sonya Rinker. This will be the club picnic.

Rabbit, Cavy Bowl

Forty-two 4-H members from seven counties were quizzed on their knowledge of the care, management, breeding, and showing of rabbits and cavies at the Southeastern Regional 4-H Knowledge Bowl Contest at the York County 4-H Center in Bair.

Placing first in the senior division was the team from the Mount Joy 4-H Rabbit Club in Lancaster County. Members of the team were Emily Algoe, Joseph Bender, Angela Bentzel, and Karen Keyser. The team was coached by Dwight and Sarah Algoe.

The junior contest was won by Team 1 from the Berks County Rabbit and Cavy Lovers 4-H Club. Team members were Josh Behler, Nathan Kramer, Naomi Schaeffer, and Sarah Westley. Nancy Plushanski was coach.

Complete results are Senior Contest: 1. Mt. Joy. 2. Berks County. 3. Bucks County.

Recipes From Angus Beef Cook-Off

LOUISVILLE, Ken. — The 1995 All-American Certified Angus Beef Cook-Off saw 24 teams compete in three age divisions at the Kentucky Fair and Exposition Center, Louisville, on July 18. The 12th annual event was held in conjunction with the National Junior Angus Show and was hosted by the American Angus Auxiliary.

The teams were judged for both presentation, or showmanship, and recipe. They performed a skit on beef education or Certified Angus Beef product promotion to complement the theme of their entry.

Shishkabob Fruit Buns
Wisconsin Junior Angus Association first place recipe, junior division

3-4 pounds sirloin steak, boneless and cut 1 1/4 inch thick
2 medium onions
2 large green peppers
1 medium cantaloupe melon
1 medium honeydew melon
6 medium peaches, not-quite-ripe
8 large crusty buns, i.e.: Kaiser rolls or French rolls

Original Marinade:
¼ cup balsamic vinegar (may use wine vinegar)
⅔ cup olive oil
salt and pepper
2 tablespoons fresh herbs (chives and oregano; may use 1 tbs. dried herbs)

Slice sirloin into ¼ inch by 2½ inch slices. Cut peppers and onions into 1 inch by 2 inch sections. Combine marinade ingredients and marinade meat for about 1 hour before cooking. Place meat onto kabob skewers, alternating 2 to 3 pieces with peppers and onions. Keep meat and veggies centered on the skewers.

Cut melons and peaches into chunks, about 1½ inch cubes or pieces. Place onto separate skewers in alternating order.

Grill meat and veggies over medium coals, turning to desired doneness (about 3-5 minutes per side). Add fruit skewers to the grill just before meat is done and turn, about 1 minute per side. Remove meat and veggies from skewers and place into rolls, add leftover marinade if desired. Cut fruit into slices and place in sandwich with meat. Serve extra fruit on the side.

Iowa's Barbecue Beef
Iowa Junior Angus Association
first place recipe, senior division

1 11 oz. can mandarin oranges and juice
⅓ cup barbecue glaze (not sauce)
3 tablespoons brown sugar
2 tablespoons white vinegar
1½ teaspoons garlic salt
¼ cup ketchup
½ cup water
1-2 chopped onions
1 teaspoon celery salt
1 teaspoon onion salt
1 teaspoon hickory salt
5-6 pounds Certified Angus Beef™ steak

Simmer all ingredients and pour over meat in baking dish or plastic bag. Marinate at least 3 hours. Turn several times. Grill steaks over hot coals, brushing with marinade, until medium rare. Remove to carving board, and let stand 15 minutes. Cut into serving pieces.

Grilled Smoked Beef Tenderloin
Wisconsin
First-place recipe, Adult Division

6 Certified Angus Beef™ tenderloin steaks cut 1½ inch thick

Marinade:
3 tablespoons brown sugar
1 teaspoon salt
½ cup Jack Daniels
1 teaspoon coarse black pepper
1 teaspoon minced garlic
1 tablespoon Worcestershire Sauce
¼ cup balsamic vinegar

Molasses-Whiskey Sauce:
1 smoked large white onion (finely chopped)
½ cup smoked mushrooms (finely chopped)
2 smoked tomatoes (cored and finely chopped)
1 teaspoon minced garlic
2 tablespoons butter
2 tablespoons molasses
2 tablespoons red-wine vinegar
1 teaspoon soy sauce
2 tablespoons catsup
2 tablespoons Jack Daniels
½ cup beef stock
1 teaspoon cajun spices

Marinade: Mix all ingredients and marinate for as little as 10 minutes or as long as 8 hours.

Using covered grill, prepare charcoal. Add wood chips soaked in water. Arrange onion (peeled and halved), 4-5 mushrooms and tomatoes on grill so as to get indirect heat. Smoke for 15 minutes. After removing vegetables for sauce, arrange steaks on grill and cook to desired doneness while your partner prepares sauce.

In small saucepan, saute onion, garlic and mushrooms in butter for 2 to 3 minutes. Add all other ingredients, simmer over low heat for 15 minutes.

Accompany with: grilled corn on the cob, grilled onions, peppers, summer squash. (Cut each ½" thick), baste with olive oil, grill about 5 minutes on each side over medium coals.

ALL THE ANSWERS FROM KUBOTA

Kubota's new L-35 has performance features that include a GST transmission for clutchless shifting on the go through all 8 forward and reverse speeds, hydrostatic power steering, and a roomy ISO-mounted operator's platform that reduces vibration. An optional hydraulic port offers the versatility to use hydraulic breakers and other tools.

The rugged B-20 offers a liquid-cooled 20 HP diesel engine with hydrostatic transmission, integral power steering, and standard 4WD for greater traction and power.

Both the B-20 and L-35 feature a loader-integrated reinforced frame that withstands rigorous work. Loader operation is simplified with a single-lever control, and the durable backhoe can be attached or detached in just a few minutes without the use of any tools. For even more versatility, a Rear-PTO and 3-point hitch capacity allow you to till, scrape, mow, and more.

Betty Niblett Winner Named At Fair

It was a proud moment for Annie Crowe at the 1995 Delaware State Fair when the 4-H'er won the 1995 Betty Niblett Award.

The equestrian award is given to the 4-H'er who scores the most points in two categories: horsemanship, which is a test of riding ability, and showmanship, which involves the grooming and presentation of the horse.

Crowe, a 12-year-old who started riding at the age of 2, won with the help of her horse, an Appaloosa named Quincey Sugar Bar. A member of the AA 4-H Country Club in Dover, Crowe is an equestrian accomplished in both English and western saddle.

"I was really surprised and happy to win the Niblett Award," she said. "I knew Mrs. Niblett. I'd see her at the Fair every year. She knew a lot about horses and that's what we talked about."

Last year's winner, Kacie Rash, was on hand to congratulate the new winner. Rash, a member of the Westville 4-H Club, also has a long list of achievements to her name.

Rash, a student at Caesar Rodney High School, has been involved in equestrian activities for more than six years. She rides every weekend, plus two or more evenings a week. The Camden teen also plays field hockey and has been active in community service projects, such as visiting nursing homes.

Rash and Crowe are the kind of bright, young achievers whom the late Betty Niblett nurtured and guided during her many years of service to 4-H. The horse award is named after Niblett, who was an active 4-H'er — first as a member, then as an adult leader — for most of her life. She served as chairperson of the delaware 4-H Horse Advisory Committee and also ran a successful horse farm in the Bear area of New Castle County.

"After my mother passed away, many of the 4-H'ers with whom she had worked suggested that the horse award be re-named in her honor," said Niblett's daughter, Kay Betts. "She made a positive impact on the lives of hundreds of young people."

4-H Speak Out

Eleven Adams County 4-H members competed in the Capitol Region Speak-Out Night recently.

The contest was held at Silver Spring Elementary School in Mechanicsburg. Adams County was one of eight counties to have participants competing in this contest. Members gave presentations/demonstrations, presented prepared speeches, or gave impromptu speeches, which were talks written and prepared that night.

Adams County had eight junior presentations/demonstrations at regional night: Chrissy Dibert, Laura Burdette, Sarah Smith, Jennifer Rhoades, Addie Spicer, Summer Staub, Billy Spicer and Abby Lott.

In the Public Speaking division, Adams County was represented by Ashi Day. The senior representing Adams County in the public speaking division was Amber Day.

Adams County adults who volunteered as judges, room chairs, and tabulators at regional speak-out night were Jeanne Smith, Jacki Sterner, John Day, Abe Bucher, Lucy Lott, and Barb Spicer. Dan Ludwig, summer 4-H program assistant, served as director of impromptu speeches.

How To Protect Kids From Lead Poisoning

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — Lead poisoning is a concern for everyone. Both children and adults can be affected by lead poisoning, but children are particularly vulnerable. ELEGANT HERBS

This is the fifth in a series of articles on growing and preserving herbs in the home garden.

PARSLEY

Once established in the garden, spring parsley responds well to a weak fertilizer every two weeks or so. This is especially important if it is cut frequently.

Parsley is of course frequently used as a decorative addition to a plate of food, and it is a tangy addition to salads. When destemmed leaves are chopped in a blender with a little water (pack a 2 cup measuring cup with leaves, then fill with water). They can then be frozen into ice cubes for later use.

Parsley also makes a decorative hanging basket or pot. The green leaves can be dried quickly when spread on a cookie sheet and "cooked" at 400 degrees F for about 15 minutes. Sitr every 5 minutes and do not let it burn, just crisp. Crumble the crisp leaves. Remove any limp leaves, allow to cool and then store in a tight jar. Parsley does not dry well by hanging.

ROSEMARY

Rosemary comes in many different cultivars. The same cultivar grown in different parts of the country, may look very different. It is a perennial hardy to Zone 8. Since seedlings can take months, it is best purchased as a potted plant for most home gardens. Outdoors rosemary likes full sun. Soil can be kept on the dry side.

The pungent, curved needle-like leaves have many uses. It is easily dried by hanging woody stemmed bunches in a warm place. The leaves can then be stripped off and bottled. Rosemary is a very pungent herb, and it is best used sparingly on bland foods. In cooking, it is frequently used with chicken, and in baking, such as in breads.

SWEET MARJORAM

This is a tender perennial best grown as an annual. A member of the oregano family, sweet marjoram and oregano are often confused, but their flavors are different.

Sweet marjoram can be very susceptible to damping off and can be difficult to grow from seed. Purchase started plants. Place plants in full sun in a well-drained location.

Once established, leaves should be taken randomly rather than shearing the growing tips. When frost time nears, plants can be potted up and taken indoors for a few months.

Sweet marjoram dries easily on screens in the shade. Once dried, finish the drying in a 100 degree F. or lower temperature oven to crisp the leaves. Remove leaves from the stems and store in jars.

Sweet marjoram can be used fresh in omelets, mixed with fresh vegetables, and added to casseroles.

TARRAGON

Another on the top nine culinary herbs, tarragon comes in several forms. French tarragon is vegetatively propagated and not available from seed. Russian tarragon is grown from seed and is attractive as an ornamental plant. But, Russian tarragon is flavorless.

COMMON THYME

Thyme, a hardy perennial can be grown from seed in a flat kept at about 55 degrees F. Germination takes three to four weeks. Plants will be small and not flower the first year. Plants will grow more robust and flower the second year. Thyme needs good drainage for its deep roots. Plants should not be set too close (12 inches), and should be hardened off before planting in the garden (a week or more of several hours of sunlight and then returned to shade before evening). Divide established plants in the spring. Fall transplanting can invite winter kill.

Dry thyme by hanging bunches in a warm place out of direct sunlight. In cooking, thyme is frequently used fresh or dried in soups, stews and sauces. Fresh thyme added to rice is a flavorful treat. Lemon-scented thymes are good for tea and potpourri.

Voice Your Opinion About Television Programming For Children

WASHINGTON, D.C.— Surveys have shown that children under the age of 18 spend thousands of hours each year glued to their television sets. Children as young as 2 watch TV more than 23 hours a week, a figure that remains amazingly consistent until they turn 17.

Some experts now say many infants are propped in front of the TV to be dazzled by the sight and sound.

Federal Communications Commission, the government agency that regulates the television industry, is studying ways to ensure that an adequate supply of educational and informational television programming is available to children.

The FCC also is asking that this programming be clearly identified for children, their parents and care givers. From now until September 14 the FCC will be receiving comments and suggestions and will consider adopting new rules to improve children's TV programming. The date to reply to comments was extended to October 16.

There will be many comments from the broadcasters, from the people who produce the programs, from lawyers and from professional children's advocates. But the Commission would also like to get comments from kids, their parents and care givers.

Because it found that broadcasters are not providing enough educational programming for children, Congress in 1990 enacted the Children's Television Act to ensure such programming was available. The FCC was charged with overseeing this effort.

Based on the results and FCC's 1993 inquiry and a 1994 hearing on the effectiveness of its children's television programming regulations, the FCC proposed to make changes to assure that broadcast station license holders comply with the Children Television Act and to implement the Act more effectively.

In developing the proposed changes, the Commission has followed three principles: (1) judgements about the quality of programming, educational or otherwise, are best made by audiences, not the federal government; (2) the Commission's rules must be clear, simple and fair; and (3) broadcasters should be guided by market forces...in determining whether they meet their programming obligations.

Specific proposals suggest that stations identify programs as educational and informational at the time they are aired and provide identifying information to publishers of programming guides.

Stations would publicize the availability of their children's programming, perhaps by announcing their existence and air time.

So kids and parents, sit down at your kitchen table, at your desk, on the floor, wherever you are comfortable, and let the FCC know what's right about the educational programs coming into your home, if there're enough available, what's wrong with it, and how it should be identified so you'll know when to tune in.

Please send your comments to: Federal Communications Commission, Office of the Secretary, 1919 M St., NW, Washington, DC 20554.

Also, so the FCC will know what you're sending comments about, please write "MM Docket 93-48" on the first page.

For information, write the FCC, Office of Public Affairs, 1919 M Street NW, Room 254, Washington, D.C., 20554 or call (202) 418-0200 or TT at (202) 418-2555.

Tree Problems

TOWANDA (Bradford Co.) — This past spring and summer many landowners experienced light to moderately heavy defoliation in their woods. This defoliation occurred primarily on maple, especially sugar maple. Some of these woods were defoliated for the second year in a row. The guilty parties in this defoliation were elm spanworm, forest tent caterpillar, and fall cankerworm.

Many woodland owners are justifiably concerned about the condition of their trees. There are some things a forest owner needs to consider about the future management of a defoliated woodlot. "How will my trees respond to this problem?", "What can I do about the problem?", and "What can I do if my trees die from this defoliation?" are commonly asked questions.

All of these questions are not easy to answer. Environmental conditions vary widely and each woodlot is a little different from its neighbor. The answer to the first question, "How will my trees respond to this problem?" is "it depends," maybe not a real good answer.

For example if the woodlot was defoliated last year and then the tree produced new leaves, the tree could be heavily stressed and there is a higher possibility of increased tree mortality Last year after the trees were defoliated, many of the new leaves were infected by maple anthracnose which killed back the new growth, in some areas the fungus killed back new growth three times. These trees were badly stressed and many of them did not put out new leaves this spring. Those that did survive were in poor condition.

Trees can generally survive one defoliation, but a defoliation the following year can put more stresses on a tree than the tree can deal with and mortality can result. Those trees that refoliated with a good healthy crown following this years defoliation are very likely to live. Growth will be slowed for a few years and additional stresses over this time could cause tree mortality. Trees that did not refoliate completely and have small leaves and thin crowns could be in serious trouble. The chances for these trees are not good and they should be watched closely over the remaining summer.

The answer to the second question, "What can I do about the problem?" is somewhat discouraging. The answer is "not much."

Aerial spraying of registered pesticides in the early stages of these insects' lives can limit damage, but at this time of the year it is too late. The caterpillars are gone and the damage is done. The best thing that can be done is to watch the woods closely and see what happens to the trees. If a landowner has questions he or she should contact a professional forester. A professional forester has a degree in forestry and adequate experience. A forester can help determine what might happen to the trees and what steps that one may want to take.

The third question "What can I do if my trees die" has two basic answers. They are "nothing" or "salvage harvest." If a woodlot owner has only scattered trees die in isolated locations there really isn't much that can be done except maybe cut some firewood or leave the trees for wildlife habitat. A landowner may be able to have a salvage harvest if a number of conditions met. If there are significant numbers of trees of merchantable size that die, say 25% or more, a timber harvester may be willing to harvest some trees.

It would also be advantageous if the harvest area already had an adequate road system. Dead trees in isolated areas generally cost more to get out than what they are worth. If a landowner has dead trees, the sooner they can be harvested the better the financial return to the landowner. In the hot summer, dead trees lose value rapidly as the wood deteriorates. If a landowner thinks he or she has enough dead trees for such a sale, he or she should contact a professional forester as soon as possible and have him or her assist with the sale.

Finally a woodlot owner should watch the woods closely for evidence of possible insect activity for next year. The best thing to look for are egg masses. Also, every year, the Cooperative Extension offices of Sullivan, Tioga, Susquehanna, and Lycoming Counties cooperate with the Bureau of Forestry to have forest pest outlook meetings. Read your local paper and extension newsletters in the late winter for exact dates, times, and locations.

Simmental Field Day Has Cattle Show

WEST FRIENDSHIP, Md. — The Maryland Simmental Association Field Day was held recently here at the Howard County Fairgrounds.

Scott Barao gave a brief update on the cattle industry. He asked for input on the selection process for Bill Curry, the previous Maryland livestock specialist.

The Cattleman's Association Stockman's Contest met with varied interest. The economic climate for the cattleman is on a downward trend. A precondition calf sale is scheduled for mid October.

Ethics in livestock shows are being discussed and changes will be recommended.

Five classes were positioned for judging in junior and senior divisions. Raymond Stough, York Co., Pa. was high scorer for both divisions with 243 points out of 250.

The cattle classes for junior contestants were judged by Tim Fitzgerald Aldie, Va. His champion heifer was ATF Dora Beth, a 2-2-94 heifer from Switz Poltarget, shown by Raymond Stough. His reserve champion was Pond View Val, a 9-3-94 from D's Caufitime T41, shown by Jason Smithson, Harford County, Md.

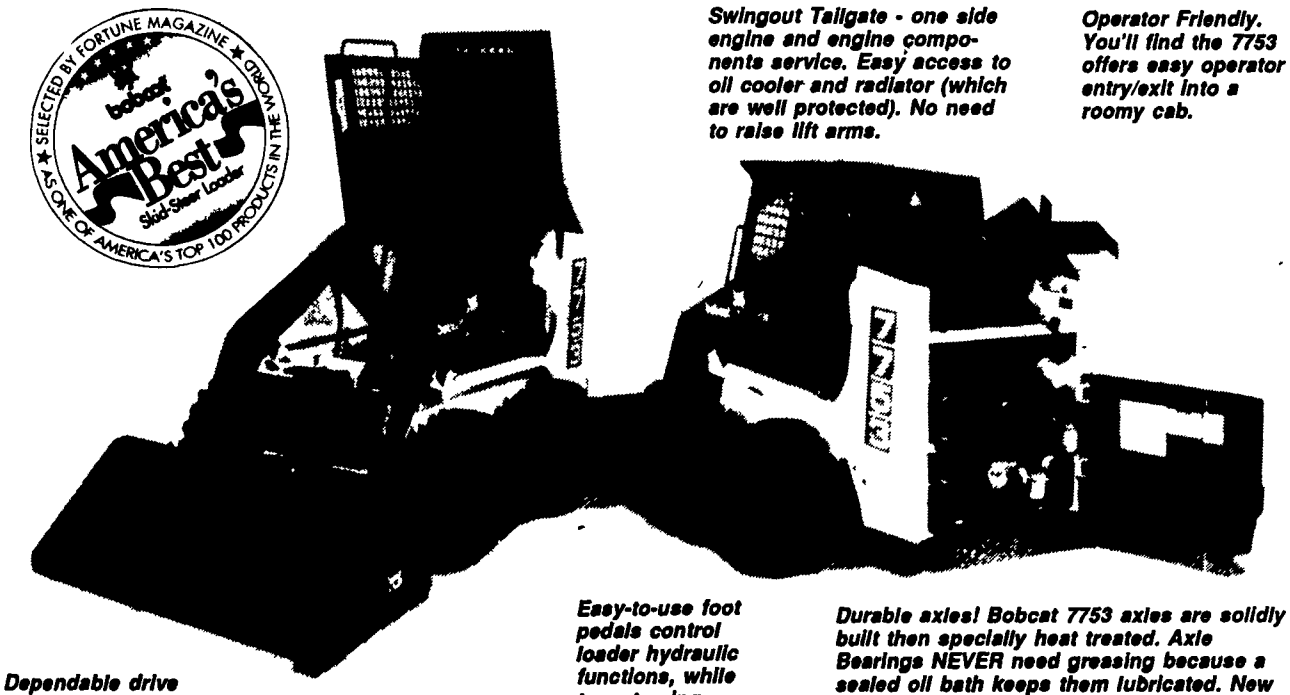
Bobcat® 7753 Long-Wheelbase Skid-Steer Loader

It's What's Inside That Counts!



Swingout Tailgate - one side engine and engine components service. Easy access to oil cooler and radiator (which are well protected). No need to raise lift arms.

Operator Friendly. You'll find the 7753 offers easy operator entry/exit into a roomy cab.

Dependable drive chains that NEVER need adjusting. The "bow tie" design uses prestressed, heavy-duty drive chains in two short continuous loops per side. That means long-life in the most rugged use and NO periodic, time-consuming drive chain adjustments.

Easy-to-use foot pedals control loader hydraulic functions, while two steering levers allow precise maneuverability.

Durable axles! Bobcat 7753 axles are solidly built then specially heat treated. Axle Bearings NEVER need greasing because a sealed oil bath keeps them lubricated. New axle hub design protects axle seal from damage from wire or twine. Hub is easily removed if service is required.

Experience America's Best.

Melroe company has over 30 years of skid-steer loader experience — longer than anyone else. That's one of the reasons Fortune Magazine has twice recognized the Bobcat loader as one of the 100 products "America Builds Best."

Reliable Components.

Other than a few daily checks and fills, you can rely on the PERFORMANCE of the 7753 Bobcat. It has been designed and built with durability and low maintenance in mind.

Great Serviceability!

The Bobcat 7753 has been designed to be serviced quickly. For example, there's single-side access to the transversely-mounted engine, a lift-out oil cooler for easy cleaning and a tip-up cab to expose hydraulic and hydrostatic compon- entry. For repairs, the exclusive BOSS® System can help quickly diagnose system problems. These features, along with a factory-trained service technicians and "top-shelf" parts availability, mean your loader can be back on the job in no time.

TOTAL HAND CONTROL!

Dealer-Installed Option!

- Easy Wrist-Action Control.
- Push-Button Auxiliary Hydraulics For Total Hand Control. (Available only on 50 Series loaders. 40 Series loaders utilize foot pedal to activate auxiliary hydraulics.)
- Easy-Grip Handle.

ANSWER — Wendy Hess, Peach Bottom, wanted a good chicken au gratin recipe. Thanks to Jean George, Rimersburg, for sending a recipe.

Italian Chicken

Chicken breasts, deboned, skinned, cut into nugget size
2 well-beaten eggs
Seasoned bread crumbs
Butter
Chicken broth
Mushrooms, sliced
Muenster cheese, shredded

Put chicken pieces into beaten eggs and refrigerate for at least two hours. Roll into bread crumbs and brown in butter until nicely browned. Put nugget into a 13x9-inch pan. Pour ½ -1 cup chicken broth over chicken. Use enough to cover the bottom of the pan. Add mushrooms if desired. Sprinkle shredded cheese on top. Bake at 350 degrees for 30 minutes.

ANSWER — Richard Haller, Mechanicsburg, wanted an old Dutch recipe for "Clapboard" or "Claboard" pie, which his mother used to make it. Thanks to Thomas L. Martin, Strasburg, for sending his grandmother's recipe. She would be 114 if she were still alive. Thomas is on the guide staff at Landis Valley Museum where he does open hearth cooking and bake oven baking. He writes that "clabbered" milk is thick sour milk. During the 18th and 19th centuries, English-speaking people called it "clabber" or bonnie clabber," whereas Pennsylvania German people called it dicke millich or thick milk.

Raw milk was let set at room temperature and in a day or two, it was thickened and sour. Thick milk cannot be made this way unless you have access to fresh raw milk (it is not recommended for food safety) but cultured buttermilk may be substituted for it.

Union Pie

1 cup sugar
1 cup cream
3 tablespoons flour
1 teaspoon baking soda
1 cup molasses
2 cups thick milk (buttermilk)
2 eggs
A little nutmeg

Mix sugar and flour, add molasses and the well-beaten eggs. Add thick milk, cream, and baking soda. Place in about 3 pastry-lined 8-inch pie dishes and sprinkle a little nutmeg on top of each pie.

Bake at 375 degrees for about 35 minutes.

Crumbs For Top Of Pies

3 cups flour
1 cup sugar
½ cup butter
1 teaspoon baking soda
1 teaspoon cream of tarter

Place all ingredients in a bowl. Mix well with a pastry blender. Store covered in refrigerator or freezer. Makes enough crumbs for tops of four pies.

Pie Crumbs

1½ cups flour
½ cup sugar
¼ cup butter
Sprinkle of cinnamon or nutmeg, if desired

Mix together ingredients with a pastry blender or fork. Sprinkle crumbs on top of fruit and bake as usual.

Glenna writes that every spring and fall, her church has a bake sale where they make 400 pies. This is the crumb recipe they use.

ANSWER — Recently, we printed many recipes for whoopie pies. Most of the fillings require raw egg whites. Since eating raw egg whites is no longer recommended, here is a good recipe for whoopie pie filling that does not use raw egg whites. Thanks Vera Dietz.

Whoopie Pie Filling

1 cup milk
5 tablespoons flour

Cook together milk and flour until thickened. Cool. Cream together:

1 cup shortening
1 cup sugar
2 teaspoons vanilla

Add the cooled, cooked mixture and cream until light and fluffy, about 10 minutes.

ANSWER — A reader wanted the verses to the following two poems. Thanks to Barbara Braucher, Leesport; James Anspach, Pine Grove; Deb Nissley, Mt. Joy, and others for sending the poems.

Over the River and Through the Woods

Over the river and through the wood,
To grandfather's house we go;
The horse knows the way,
To carry the sleigh,
Through the white and drifted snow.

Over the river, and through the wood,
Oh, how the wind does blow!
It stings the toes,
And bites the nose
As over the ground we go.

Over the river and through the wood,
To have a first-rate play.
Hear the bells ring,
"Ting-a-ling-ding!"
Hurrah for Thanksgiving Day!

Over the river and through the wood
Trot fast, my dapple-gray!
Spring over the ground
Like a hunting-hound!
For this is Thanksgiving Day.

Over the river and through the wood,
And straight through the barnyard gate.
We seem to go
Extremely slow,
It is so hard to wait!

Over the river and through the wood —
Now grandmother's cap I spy!
Hurrah for the fun!
Is the pudding done?

Eletelephony

Once there was an elephant,
Who tried to use the telephant—
No! No! I mean an elephone
Who tried to use the telephone—
(Dear me! I am not certain quite
That even now I've got it right.)

Howe'er it was, he got his trunk
Entangled in the telephunk;
The more he tried to get it free,
The louder buzzed the telephee—
(I fear I'd better drop the song
Of elephop and telephong!)

Minimal downtime and easy accessibility are key elements in the design of a Maximizer Combine. We've made servicing the belts, chains – even the header – quick and easy for your hectic harvest schedule.

Down to the smallest detail, a Maximizer Combine is the picture of reliability. From the header to the chaff spreader, and everything in between, John Deere quality comes shining through for minimal downtime. No wonder you find more and more John Deere combines earning their keep throughout the East.

Ask your John Deere dealer how to get the most out of a narrow harvest window. The answer will be a Maximizer Combine.

71 REGISTERED AND HIGH GRADE HOLSTEINS 71

65 Milking Cows averaging just over 50 lbs. per cow. 3.6% fat. 3.2% pro. One of Tioga County's (NY) best herds. Cows have good tight square udders, good feet and legs, and a will to produce a lot of milk. The majority of the herd has come from Canada. Out of sires such as H.H. Five Star, H.H. Jethro, Ash Brook Snowman, H.H. Spartan, H.H. Designer, Skasville Supreme Welcome etc. Current service sire is a Darlilea Celebrity Son.

This is one of the finest herds we have had the privilege to disperse. After 35 years in the dairy business Ken has decided to retire. If you are looking for top quality cattle this fall plan to be with us Sept. 7.

Cattle have been TB and Blood tested. Interstate ready.

MASTER MIX FEEDS
FIVE STAR DEALERS

Master Mix Feeds recently held its annual 5 Star Dealer Recognition Weekend at Seven Springs Resort in Champion Pennsylvania. 5 Star Dealers from Pennsylvania, Maryland, Virginia and Ohio were present.

The 5 Star weekend capped off an exciting and succesful fiscal year for Master Mix Feeds and its dealer network. During the 1994-95 fiscal year many new exciting programs and products were launched. The introduction of the new AIM (Amino Acid Impact Management) Technology was the highlight of the year. AIM was formally introduced into the marketplace in January, after being extensively researched on Master Mix Feeds' Dairy Research Farms in addition to independent university studies. AIM has had immediate impact on the dairy feed industry. Positive results and responses are being reported from all over the country. Recently Master Mix Feeds has put the AIM technology into its Calf Milk Replacers by introducing AIM Calf [illegible] Replacer, an all milk protein, high energy product that has also [illegible] wide and enthusiastic acceptance.

IF YOU BUILD A BETTER MOUSETRAP
Dr. Roland M. Leach, Jr.
Professor

In past articles, I have frequently discussed our research program dealing with skeletal development. This research program is designed to understand the mechanisms involved in skeletal development so that we can minimize losses due to skeletal deformities.

This is not only a problem of economics but it is also becoming a serious animal welfare issue.

A spin-off of this research is the possible application to human skeletal problems. For example, if we understood the mechanisms involved in tibial dyschondroplasia, we might understand how to alleviate or prevent osteoarthritis.

The cells responsible for long bone growth (chondrocytes) go through a life cycle just like we do. They are born and progress through infancy, adolescence, adulthood, and senility.

There are specific nutritional and hormonal signals that tell the cells what to do and when. If we disrupt this intricate (set of signals) cycle we get skeletal deformities such as rickets, tibial dyschondroplasia, dwarfism and arthritis.

Several years ago, in order to sort out which signals do what and when, we developed a cell culture system which would allow us to answer these questions.

In this procedure, a few chickens willingly donate a few pieces of cartilage tissue. The tissue is gently treated with some enzymes to release the cells (chondrocytes) which are recovered and placed in flasks maintained in special environmental chambers. We used our background in nutrition to develop a chemically defined media (food) which allowed us to study the hormones important to chondrocyte metabolism.

This procedure has attracted the attention of a biotech company interested in growing human cartilage cells. In a recent pilot experiment, this company obtained a small cartilage sample from a human patient who had suffered severe cartilage damage. Chondrocytes were isolated from a biopsy sample and grown in culture until large numbers were obtained. These cells were then used to make a repair patch in the damaged cartilage. The implanted cells continued to grow and restore the cartilage to a status close to the original undamaged tissue.

In the future, the chicken cartilage procedure we've developed at Penn State is likely to be adapted for use in human cartilage replacement grafts.

Bedford Junior Dairy Show Held

LINDA WILLIAMS
Bedford Co. Correspondent

Holsteins

BEDFORD (Bedford Co.)—On an almost autumn like day, a parade of Bedford and Blair County young people showed off the best in local dairy cattle at the annual Dairy Show of the Bedford County Fair. The fair was held the week of August 6 through 12.

Junior Calf: Amanda Cessna, Mark Snider, and Josh Deputy. Intermediate Calf: Amanda Cessna, Craig Cessna, and Josh Deputy. Senior Calf: Bryan Smith, Gretta Jo Snider, and Mary Jo Deputy. Summer Yearling: Amanda Cessna, Jeffrey Yoder, and Nicole Over. Junior Yearling: Holly Morse, Gretta Jo Snider, and Carrie Deputy. Intermediate Yearling: Amanda Cessna, Ross Snider, Mary Jo Deputy. Senior Yearling: Mary Jo Deputy, Carrie Deputy. Three Year Old: Holly Morse, Nora Snider. Four Year Old: Galen McDonald. Dry Cow: Alicia McDonald. Daughter & Dam: Holly Morse, Alicia McDonald.

Milking Shorthorns

James Young, New Enterprise, must have brough his whole herd of Milking Shorthorns. Winning nearly all awards, Crisselle Fisher, from the Young Farm showed the only other Milking Shorthorns. Criselle took the Junior Champion award with a senior calf.

Red and Whites

Grand Champion ribbons for Red and Whites went to Angie Morse and Holly Morse at the Junior Dairy Competition.

Holly took both Junior Champion awards.

Junior Calf: Landon Truax. Intermediate Calf: Landon Truax. Senior Calf: Holly Morse. Summer Yearling: Holly Morse, Spring Truax, Landon Truax. Junior Yearling: Holly Morse, Jennifer Stupe, Cindi Meadkle. Senior Two Year Olds: Angie Morse. Club Group: Landon Truax.

Guernseys

Amber Clark, also from Snider's Homestead showed the Junior Yearling and Jan Snider showed the Reserve Junior Champion.

Junior Calf: Amber Clark, Jan Snider, and Galen McDonald. Intermediate Calf: Galen Lee McDonald. Senior Calf: Galen McDonald. Summer Yearling: Jan Snider, Chriselle Fisher, and Alicia McDonald. Junior Yearling: Amber Clark, Aaron Gable, and Galen McDonald. Intermediate Yearling: Jan Snider, Galen McDonald. Senior Yearling: Kristi Snider, Galen McDonald. Junior Two Year Old: Jan Snider. Senior Two Year Old: Amber Clark. Three Year Old Guernsey: Galen McDonald, first and second. Four Year Old: Aaron Gable, Alicia McDonald, and Galen McDonald. Five and Under: Aaron Gable, Amber Clark, and Alicia McDonald. Dry Cow: Jan Snider, Aaron Gable, and Alicia McDonald. Daughter & Dam: Amber Clark, Alicia McDonald, and Galen McDonald.

Jerseys

Oxen, Horse Plowing Contests At Schaefferstown

SCHAEFFERSTOWN (Lebanon Co.) — On Saturday, Sept. 9, at 10 a.m. on Schaefferstown's Second Oxen Plowing Contest and the 25th Annual Horse Plowing Contest will turn the rich limestone soil on the historic 90-acre Schaeffer Farm Museum.

On Sunday, Sept. 10, the Horse and Oxen Parade will begin at 12:30 p.m., followed by the horse pull.

Horse, mule, and oxen power will be used to plow, till, and thresh with an antique local ring power and to pull a covered wagon. Dog power also belongs to farm life and will be on exhibit during the weekend.

Other attractions will be the big hitch, the new shingle mill, the 100-year-old Frick Sawmill, the newly rebuilt wheat barn, stone crushing, baling, and log loading.

The cider press will be pressing out cider, and apple butter will be cooking. Cooking and baking demonstrations, tasting samples, homemade Dutch foods, and raspberry shrub will enliven the weekend. Roasted corn meal, tasty sausage sandwiches, and a variety of pies will be available. Speltz bread and other breads will be baked in the massive 1771 bake oven with samples available.

This barn replaced the 1786 log barn built by Captain Henry Schaeffer and destroyed by fire during threshing. A display of antique farm equipment is located nearby.

House tours including the unique Schaeffer House, the log house over the spring, and the summer kitchen with its bake oven will provide an opportunity to explore, learn, and taste samples.

Literature will be on hand on log houses and other buildings of our Pennsylvania Dutch heritage. Information also will cover Speltz flour and bread. Craftspeople will be demonstrating and selling their crafts. Music will provide entertainment.

Wagon and train rides are available and children may play in the soft meadow grass along the small stream. It is an opportunity for camera enthusiasts to use the background of Pennsylvania's historic Schaeffer Farm.

Admission is $3 for adults. Children under 12 are free. Parking is free.

A horse and oxen plowing contest is scheduled Saturday, Sept. 9 at 10 a.m. at the farm museum. The horse and oxen parade and horse pull is Sunday, Sept. 10 at 12:30 p.m.

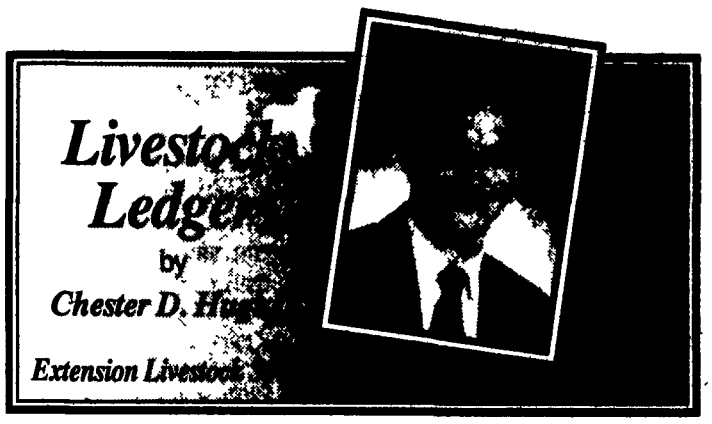
Profit Making Products for the Professional Farmer



August - Stress Time For Beef Cattle

For the cow/calf operator guided by a satisfactory management schedule, the month of August is generally regarded as a time of less labor. The bulk of the hay crop is in, most AI breeding is completed, and the cows continue to tend to their growing calves. The clean-up bulls are turned into the herd and the cattleman can relax on his porch, sip a lemonade, and admire his favorite cows.

Unfortunately, good management cannot stop and sometimes the stresses associated with late summer and the cow herd require the alert attention of the herd manager. Before you sit back and totally relax, consider the following factors that make August a challenge.

The weather seems to be responsible for much of what can happen in late summer and generally our native grass and clover pastures begin to fail at this time of year. During a dry period, like this year, the stress becomes ever greater. When the available forage falters, so does milk production; perhaps when the calves need the most nutrition. Supplemental feeding of the cows and/or the calves may be appropriate, sometimes necessary. But this additional feeding may cause additional problems like bloat and scours, especially when calves are introduced to a new feed source. High protein grain rations and new legume hay (alfalfa) are often culprits of bloat and/or scours. Bloat, especially, should be treated as an emergency. Your veterinarian is equipped to easily treat this condition, but time is a factor with a bloated animal.

Additionally, failing cool season grasses that are poorly managed, often leave poisonous weeds and plants as the only source of grazing material, which can be fatal to a hungry ruminant. Some that come to mind are Nightshade, May Apple, Pokeweed, Jimsonweed, and Morning Glory. And if your farm borders a residential area, be alert for neighbors who many, unknowingly, toss clippings of poisonous ornamentals to your hungry cows. Summer storms can also cause broken tree limbs, and wilted wild cherry leaves are readily eaten by hungry cattle, often producing fatal results.

The hot, humid weather of August provides a favorable atmosphere for flies and worms. This is a very good time to treat suckling calves for worms and the entire herd should have access to a backrubber, dust bag or any other fly control method. Cattle comfort is very important for appetite, cycling activity, and general health. Your herd should have access to a cool shaded area, whether it be a woods, pine grove, a simple shed, or a barn with fans.

Finally, my thoughts turn to the all important water source. In August, mature beef cows can easily consume 15-20 gallons of water daily. They prefer a clean, cool fresh source, low in nitrates and bacteria, much like you or I would. Remember that August can be a time when streams are dried up and ponds stagnant, so daily filling of the stock tank may be mandatory.

Just when you were about to relax in your rocking chair with an iced tea, I had to bring up all of these late summer stresses. Keep those thoughts in mind, practice sound beef cattle management, and stay alert for August's challenges!

Poultry Association Announces Scholarship Awards

GETTYSBURG (Adams Co.) — The Adams County Poultry Association recently awarded scholarships to five Adams County students enrolled at Penn State University. Total awards were $3,000 and were made to the following recipients: Travis Green, Gettysburg; Jason Howe, Gettysburg; Ryan Howe, Gettysburg; Matthew Sharrah, New Oxford; and Danyelle Starry, York Springs.

Awards were made for the 1995-1996 academic year and represent the 29th consecutive year that the association has participated in the College of Agricultural Sciences program at Penn State University.

BUSINESS ◆ NEWS

Company Announces Contest Winners

LEOLA (Lancaster Co.) — Gro-Mor Plant Food Company has announced the winners of its fertilizer contest held recently at Ag Progress Days.

Farmers who visited the Gro-Mor booth had an opportunity to enroll in the contest while learning about the new products and services that Gro-Mor, and its service division Nutrient Solutions in Agriculture, had on display.

These included the clear, true solution (won't settle out in storage) starter and foliar fertilizers, soil nitrogen testing kits, innovative computer software from FarmWorks™ (which is set to release exciting new versions of its recordkeeping software), and farm profit-building nutrient management planning services.

Winners of the contest are Stan Stull of Baltimore County, Md., Cloyd Leppert of Bedford County, Pa., and Ken Swartfager of Clarion County, Pa.

CFS Introduces New Dent Corn Hybrids

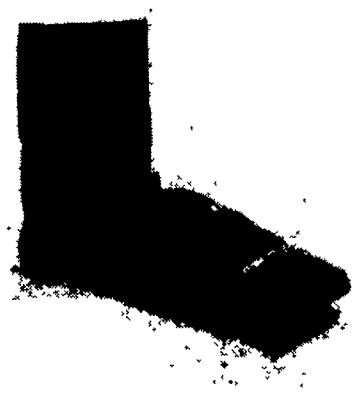
MOMENCE, Ill. — Custom Farm Seed (CFS) has introduced six new dent corn hybrids, 82-86 RM/85 MN to 113-117 RM, for the 1996 growing year.

Their introduction results from recent and continuing expansions of CFS research program and staff, use of a testing program that ranks among the best in the industry, and nearly 25 years of proprietary corn breeding efforts.

Dent Hybrids

• CFS 1605, 82-86 RM/85MN, promises to become the early hybrid of choice. Widely adapted to the northern Corn Belt, this top end yielder's quick dry down makes for an early harvest. Its excellent stay green ability and ear retention are paired with superior root and stalk strength, dry down ability, and test weights.

• CFS 3501, 91-95 RM/95MN, is a tall robust hybrid for use as grain or silage. It offers an excellent disease package. The good early vigor of CFS 3501 gives it tremendous potential in minimum tillage situations. Farmers will also appreciate its excellent stay green ability, root and stalk strength and dry down ability.



Custom Farm Seed (CFS) has introduced six new dent corn hybrids, 82-86 RM/85 MN to 113-117 RM, for the 1996 growing year.

• CFS 4003, 96-100 RM/100 MN, has open husks, outstanding stay green ability, good standability, and excellent test weights.

• CFS 5825, 104-108 RM/110 MN, has every indication of being an upper end yielder because of its girthy ears. Along with excellent standability and stay green ability, CFS 5825 won the 1994 CSS plots in Iowa with the highest yield among the 50 hybrids tested.

• CFS 6326, 109-113 RM/115 MN, offers outstanding yield potential, ear retention, stalk strength and stay green ability. Based on current CFS research, it performs best at a plant population of 28,000 plants per acre.

• CFS 7725, 113-117 RM, can be widely adapted from east to west, is tolerant to green snap, and promises to be a top end yielder under good fertility. It offers superior ear retention, stalk strength and stay green ability. Based on current CFS research, it performs best at a plant population of 27,000 plants per acre.

Company Introduces New Seed Releases

GOLDEN VALLEY, Minn. — Following extensive field testing, Northrup King Co. announces the release of 17 new corn, soybean, sorghum, millet, and sunflower hybrids and varieties for the 1996 growing season.

Corn Hybrids

• N1404 is a new 80-day relative maturity (RM) hybrid well-adapted for both grain and silage for the northern growing areas in the U.S. "This hybrid responds particularly well to higher plant populations under irrigation and for silage. N1404 produces high, stable grain yields for its maturity, and has a fast, early growth rate," said Herb Damsteegt, Northrup King senior technical agronomist in Madison, Wis.

• N1699 is a 79-83 day RM, silage-only hybrid that is adapted to the growing areas in northeastern Washington, eastern Idaho, northern Wyoming and other northern climate areas. It has a recommended harvest density of 32,000 to 36,000 ppa and has hard-starched kernels.

• "N4640 is a new 103-day RM hybrid that will soon become popular for its high, stable yield performance in many environments," said Fran Marier, technical agronomist in Lone Tree, Iowa. "This hybrid will perform in its main area and move south of its adapted area very well as an early companion and still maintain exceptional yield performance for its maturity."

• N5857IMI is a new 108-day RM hybrid with tolerance to imidazolinone herbicides. Its prime area of adaption includes northeast Nebraska, southeast South Dakota, northern and north central Iowa, the southern areas of Minnesota, Wisconsin and Michigan, and the northern areas of Illinois, Indiana, and Ohio.

• "N5866 is a 108 day RM hybrid that performs best as a full season choice," said Dean Grundman, Northrup King technical agronomist in Ames, Iowa. "This shorter hybrid is ideal for reduced tillage systems because it leaves less residue for farmers to deal with in the fall." N5866 has short plant height, good early growth and good stalk strength.

• N6223 is "a 110-111 day RM hybrid that can be planted early when the soil is at a temperature of 50 degrees or higher," said Rich Franchini, Northrup King technical agronomist in Mt. Vernon, Ill. "It has fast emergence and early growth." This hybrid has medium-tall plant height with medium ear placement. It is best adapted to higher plant populations in medium to heavy soils.

• "N7590 has demonstrated exceptionally high yield performance and standability over its last three years of field testing," said Jim Graeber, Northrup King senior technical agronomist in Normal, Ill. "N7590 has the unique ability to fill ears to the tip, even under high stress conditions."

Soybean Varieties

• Previously sold in Canada only, S 00-66 is a mid-Group 00 variety adapted for the upper Red River Valley in North Dakota and other areas of the northern U.S.

• S 12-49 is an Early Group I variety with an exceptional disease package. It is resistant to Phytophthora root rot, brown stem rot, and Sclerotinia white mold. S 12-49 also offers good tolerance to iron chlorosis.

• S 20-91 is well adapted in the Late Group I through the Mid-Group II areas in the North, Midwest, and East. S 20-91 provides a very good disease protection package with resistance to Phytophthora root rot and brown stem rot, and moderate resistance to Sclerotinia stem rot (white mold).

• Silghtly earlier than S 30-06, S 29-18 is released for the east-central and eastern Corn Belt in the late Group II through the Early Group III areas.

• "S 59-95 is a Late Group 5 variety with an exceptional disease package," said Carroll Oakes, Northrup King Southern Area agronomist, Grifton, N.C. "It has resistance to three of the most common species of root rot nematode. It also has resistance to soybean cyst nematode (R3 and R14), as well as stem canker, a common soybean disease in both the South and the Midwest."

Grain Sorghum Hybrids

• Released specifically for the east-central and Blacklands areas of Texas, KS 579 offers excellent yield for its maturity. This hybrid also has good standability and head exertion.

• Millex 32 is a hybrid pearl millet that is very similar to Millex 24. This hybrid offers very good drought tolerance.

Sunflower Hybrids

• Sunbred® Brand 227 is a new early maturing hybrid with high oil yield potential, said Walt Stachon, Northrup King technical agronomist in Moorhead, Minn.

• Sunbred(R) Brand 259 is a new medium-maturing hybrid with very good standability, said Walt Stachon, Northrup King technical agronomist in Moorhead, Minn. 259 is resistant to downy mildew (race 2) and is tolerant to Phoma black stem.

Farmers Union Blasts Anti-Ethanol Bill

FT. DODGE, Iowa — National Farmers Union (NFU) has gone on record opposing the Clean Fuels Equity Act of 1995, S.1066, sponsored by Senators Bill Bradley and Don Nickles. NFU President Leland Swenson made the announcement here at an Iowa Farmers Union meeting.

"Our membership strongly objects to the recision of tax incentives that have encouraged development of the U.S. ethanol industry," said Swenson in letters written to the chairman of the Senate Agriculture and Senate Finance Committees.

"If Bradley and Nickles have their way, corn producers will lose 5 percent of their market overnight," said Swenson.

In 1994, nearly half a billion bushels of corn were converted to ethanol. The U.S. Department of Agriculture estimates that the additional demand for corn to make ethanol provides producers with an extra 3-5 cents per bushel. According to the Government Accounting Office, the revenues lost by the ethanol tax incentives are more than offset by the savings in deficiency payments to producers due to higher corn prices.

The Bradley-Nickles bill, a similar version of which was defeated by only one vote in 1994, would repeal the lower tax rate on ethanol fuels at the pump. It would also eliminate tax incentives for ethanol blenders.

Swenson said his organization objects to the proposed legislation on social and economic grounds. NFU supports decreasing dependence on foreign oil and the use of ethanol as a pollution deterrent. Swenson says American jobs, rural economic development and better farm prices are other reasons his organization supports ethanol.

Mycogen Receives Approval To Market Insect-Resistant Corn

SAN DIEGO, Calif. — Mycogen Corporation (Nasdaq: MYCO) has received Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) approval to market seeds for corn hybrids that are genetically engineered to resist insect damage, clearing the way for commercial introduction in 1996.

The new hybrids produce a protein that protects them from European corn borers, a pest that costs U.S. farmers as much as $1 billion a year in lost yields. This protection reduces or eliminates the need for conventional corn borer insecticide applications. In addition to clearance to sell seeds, the EPA granted a Tolerance Exemption approving the grain from the transgenic corn plants for use in food products and as animal feed.

"Corn is America's largest crop, so this insect-resistance technology will produce tremendous economic and environmental benefits," said Jerry Caulder, Mycogen's chairman, president, and CEO. "Built-in protection from corn borers will give farmers higher yields without the expense and environmental side-effects of chemical insecticides. We expect this product to capture a significant share of the $2 billion U.S. seed corn market."

The gene responsible for corn borer resistance is a synthetic copy of a gene produced by Bacillus thuringiensis (Bt), a naturally occurring microorganism. The gene causes the plant to produce Bt protein in the corn stalk and leaves where corn borers feed. Bt proteins have been used for more than 30 years in foliar sprays to selectively control pests such as corn borers without harming beneficial insects, animals or human.s They leave no toxic residue in soil or ground water.

Hybrids Offer Cost-Effective Weed Control

DEKALB, Ill. — Farmers have a new ally in the ongoing battle to control tough crop-damaging weeds such as woolly cupgrass and shattercane. Dekalb Genetics Corporation has introduced two new corn hybrids this growing season that are genetically tolerant to sethoxydim, the active ingredient in Poast® Herbicide.

Poast is a selective broad spectrum postemergence herbicide for control of annual and perennial grass weeds. Prior to Dekalb's new SR hybrids, Poast was not used in the postemergence corn market.

"Poast Compatible™ DK592SR, a 109-day hybrid, and DK404SR, a 90-day hybrid, both provide farmers the option of cost-effective weed control with no sacrifice in yield and agronomic traits," said Dale Sorensen, Dekalb's corn product manager. "DK592SR has the same agronomic traits as DK591, Dekalb's leading volume hybrid last year."

Both of these Poast Compatible hybrids are being evaluated for yield and agronomic performance in farmers' fields and third-party trials in several corn belt states where weeds such as woolly cupgrass, wild proso millet, and shattercane infestations prevail.

Five Soybean Varieties Introduced

MOMENCE, Ill. — Custom Farm Seed (CFS) has introduced five new soybean varieties, from Late Group I to Late Group III, for the 1996 growing year.

The Late Group III varieties have been added in response to increasing producer demand. New and continuing expansions of the research and development department make this level of responsiveness possible.

Two new Late Group I varieties are being introduced. CFS 181, considered a "king of yield," offers excellent emergence. It adapts to all row widths and makes an excellent choice for no-till. This soybean handles stress very well. It is one of the best varieties for white mold tolerance.

"CFS 181 has a great overall package," said Tom Murray, Custom Farm soybean product manager and quality control assistant, "and offers unbelievable yield!"

CFS 198 also has excellent emergence. It represents one of the best choices for no-till planting and is ideal for drilling. It offers a disease package of excellent phytophthora field tolerance, very good iron chlorosis and white mold tolerance. It adapts east and west in its maturity range. "This is an ideal high yielding, conservation tillage variety for the northern areas," said Murray.

CFS has one new Early Group III variety. CFS 323 gives fast early emergence with both no-till and drill adaptability. It is adapted east to west and north to south within its maturity range. CFS 323 offers very good brown stem rot tolerance and excellent phytophthora field tolerance with specific race resistance due to the presence of the Rps1k gene. CFS 323 delivers a strong performance package, wide area of adaptability, and top yields, according to Murray.

Two new Late Group III varieties are being introduced. CFS 390 works well on all soil types and row widths. It is exceptional in high yield environments, on marginal soils, and under stress. Its solid disease package includes excellent emergence, phytophthora field tolerance and charcoal rot tolerance. "In CFS 390, we have a variety with a strong disease package that's widely adaptable and has a very high yield potential," said Murray.

CFS 392, another Late Group III variety, gives excellent emergence with very strong lodging resistance. It adapts east and west, north and south within its maturity range. Excellent for no-till, it performs great on all soil types and both wide and narrow rows. CFS 392 offers good brown stem tolerance and excellent white mold tolerance. "This is a widely adapted, high yielding variety in both ideal and stress environments," said Murray.

The GLEANER® Natural Flow process.

When it comes to harvesting a crop; it doesn't pay to go against the grain. GLEANER® knows this, so we designed our combines to be the most efficient harvester you can use.

Our secret is our Natural Flow System. Okay, so it's not exactly a NATURAL FLOW secret, but it is unique. GLEANER's processing cylinder sits crosswise. So, your crop doesn't need to change directions before processing. GLEANER's unique system moves your grain through the entire machine in one direction. Unlike competitors' combines, which force your grain to change directions; first when entering the cylinder, and again when exiting, causing unnecessary cracking and splitting. Between our transversely mounted cylinder and gentle air system, it's no wonder your crop comes out cleaner with less damage. Take a look. It's easy to see we have the most productive combine available today.

AGCO GLEANER®

Field Day At Tejas Farm

ROCHESTER MILLS (Indiana Co.) — Linda and Gene Moose, owners of Chapel Ridge Farms in Gettysburg, displayed three 2- and 3-year-old cows here at a Field Day July 28. The event was hosted by John and Margaret Marshall at their Tejas Farm.

Sponsored by the North East Santa Gertrudis Association, the Field Day's activities included a hayride show of the Marshalls' commercial herd of Charolais and Simmental, and Charolais-Simmental cross females with calves sired by their Santa Gertrudis herd bull.

The three purebred Gertrudis females displayed are Chapel-Ridge bred to Hustler 920 grandsons. Scheduled to calve in early to late fall, the gals ranged in weight from 1,150 to 1,300 pounds and were in pasture condition. The females were selected by the Mooses to demonstrate uniformity in the breed and individual breed characteristics.

Members and guests were also informed that a consignment Santa Gertrudis cattle sale for District 6 of the Santa Gertrudis Breeders Association will be held at the Shelby County Showground in Sydney, Ohio, Sept. 23. There will be no more than four very select bulls available for purchase. Heifers will be available for the juniors to purchase and show. There will be cash premiums and an award to the top polled female from the polled breeders organization.

A highlight of the Field Day was the demonstration of movable electric fencing which Marshall has installed in the pastures of his commercial cattle breeding operation. Guests viewed the high tensile fence and pasture rotation demonstration from a hay wagon.

The portable fence aids in changing the size and number of paddocks according to the needs of the cattle as dictated by the various grazing seasons. He advises beginning controlled grazing in a small area of best grass, having the proper livestock-to-grass ratio, and using the portable electrified fence as a very easy and labor saving method to introduce new pasture as needed.

While all the Marshalls' breeding cattle are grass fed, Marshall had on display a pen of feeder cattle which have been fed ear corn, oats, premix, and gluten. The average gain since May was 3+ pounds per day. The highest gainer was a Santa Gertrudis cross calf born on his farm. Marshall has had no birthing problems since using the Santa Gertrudis bull.

These 10-week-old calves and their Charolais and Charolais-Simmental cross mothers were sired by a Santa Gertrudis bull at Tejas Farms, Rochester Mills. Mothers bred to this bull have had no birthing problems.

Master Gardener Exam Dates Set

UNIONTOWN (Fayette Co.) — Upcoming Master Gardener exam, and interviews for all adults interested in becoming a Master Gardener in Fayette, Greene, and Washington counties will be held on Sept. 5-7.

William F. Gallagher, extension agent for Penn State Cooperative Extension and program coordinator, is announcing that the Master Gardener exam and interview will be held for all adults interested in becoming Master Gardeners. All adults are welcome to take the open-book test and interviews. Tests and interviews will be held in each county. Participants should attend the program in their respective county.

The following is the schedule for the Master Gardener Test and Interview:

- Tuesday, Sept. 5, 7 p.m., Greene County Extension Office, 26 West High Street, Waynesburg, (412) 627-3745.
- Wednesday, Sept. 6, 7 p.m., Washington County Extension Office, 601 Court House Square, Washington, (412) 228-2881.
- Thursday, Sept. 7, 7 p.m., Fayette County Extension Office, County Building, Uniontown, (412) 438-0111.

West End Fairgrounds Site Of Union 4-H, FFA Sale

LAURELTON (Union Co.) — The 17th Annual Union County 4-H and FFA Junior Livestock Sale was held at the West End Fairgrounds in Laurelton on Aug. 4.

This year's sale grossed $35,323, which just fell short of the record set in 1994.

Forty-eight Union County youth participated in this year's sale. A total of nine rabbit meat pens, 19 steers, 30 hogs, and 38 market lambs were sold by auctioneer Bryan D. Imes.

This year's grand champion market steer was purchased by Len Hummel for Hoss's Steak & Seafood in Shamokin Dam for $3 a pound. The 1,310-pound Angus steer was owned by 4-H member Jeremy Wolfe, son of Dennis and Anna Wolfe, Lewisburg.

The reserve champion market steer was purchased by Robert Hamm of the Country Cupboard Restaurant and Shops of Lewisburg for $1.50 a pound. The 1,295-pound Angus/Limousin cross steer was owned by FFA member Chad Digan, son of Greg and Teresa Shuck, Mifflinburg.

The grand champion market hog was owned by Lucas Criswell of Lewisburg. The 260-pound crossbred hog was purchased by Robert Hamm for Country Cupboard in Lewisburg for $6 a pound. Lucas, a 1995 graduate of Mifflinburg, is the son of William and Deb Criswell. The reserve champion hog was owned by Timothy Shoemaker, Mifflinburg. Robert Valentine of the Mifflinburg Bank and Trust Company purchased the 259-pound hog for $3.50 a pound. The crossbred hog was born on the farm of Tim's parents, Mike and Janet Shoemaker.

A 108-pound lamb owned by FFA member Christopher Rice was selected as the champion market lamb of the fair. Chris, a graduate of the Mifflinburg Area High School, is the son of Thomas and Evelyn Rice, Mifflinburg. The reserve champion lamb was owned by 4-H member Michael Byerly, son of Jeff and Rhoda Byerly, West Milton.

Consider these Model RD-820 Unloader features:

AUTOMATIC LOWERING OPTION: A winch lowers the RD-820 automatically after each complete revolution.
POWER CUTTER: Spring tension keeps high-speed, self-sharpening blades tight to the silo wall to shave it clean.
TORQUE LIMITER: Ratchet-pin design protects the ring and drive system while working through conditions.
Affordable financing directly from Patz.

Frozen silage? No problem!

For frozen silage and hard-packed haylage, the Patz cutter-and-claw gathering chain outperforms augers. This time-proven chain with its chain-saw cutting action cuts out frozen silage aggressively. Shouldn't your next unloader have a gathering chain?

Consider these Model RD-820 Unloader features:

RING-DRIVE: With the roller-chain ring drive, only one motor powers the machine.
AUTOMATIC LOWERING OPTION: A winch lowers the RD-820 automatically after each complete revolution.
POWER CUTTER: Spring tension keeps high-speed, self-sharpening blades tight to the silo wall to shave it clean.
TORQUE LIMITER: Ratchet-pin design protects the ring and drive system while working through conditions.

THINK CONCRETE WHEN PLANNING YOUR FEED STORAGE!!

"This is the kind of silo you need to protect your valuable feed."

The major costs on dairy and livestock farms are related to FEED: production...harvesting...storage...purchases...delivery to animals. Significant savings in time and money are possible when you store and deliver your feed from a poured concrete silo.

"As margins narrow, dairymen need to invest in efficiency: This can have as great an influence on Profit as milk price changes."

Protect your valuable feeds from rain, sleet, snow, mud, ice, wind and the sun's heat. Reduce the stress. INCREASE THE EFFICIENCY OF YOUR FEEDS, LABOR, AND LIVESTOCK!

At Sollenberger Silos Corp. we know a lot about feed storage and handling; we've been in the business since 1908. If your plans call for new feed storage, give us a call...We'd like to contribute to your success!!

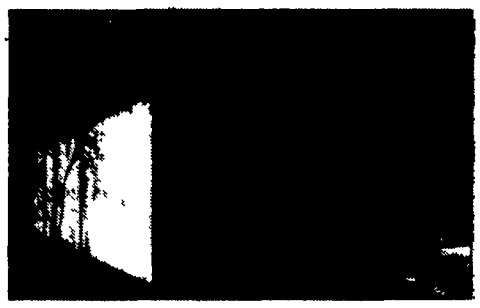
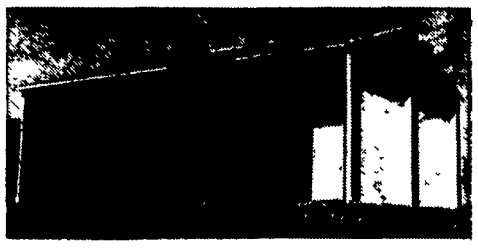
Side with Alumax ALU-TUFF Steel





When you put up a building, you expect it to be attractive and to last. A building constructed with ALU-TUFF will meet those expectations. That's because ALU-TUFF is made using top-quality materials, super-tough protective coatings, and a unique rib design that's both functional and attractive.

Years from now when other buildings are starting to show their age, your building will still look good.

- A STRONG PROFILE High 3/4-inch ribs on nine-inch centers give ALU-TUFF exceptionally high spanning properties for its weight and thickness, while stiffening ribs in flat areas prevent rippling.
- MADE TO LAST To keep Alu-Tuff working hard and looking good for years to come, we protect it with an oven-cured system of four different coatings.
- A GREAT LOOKING PANEL You don't have to sacrifice good looks to get a tough steel panel.
- MORE QUALITY FEATURES Each ALU-TUFF sheet is 38 inches wide to provide 36-inch coverage. That's wide enough to minimize the number of side laps, yet narrow enough to be easy to handle.

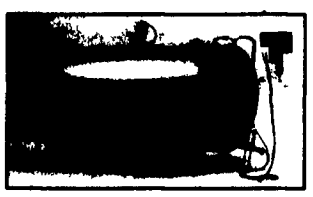
MUELLER
DAIRY FARM EQUIPMENT

Scroll-Compressor Technology

New in 1994



You may pay less for some dairy farm equipment... but it can cost you more!

Equipment cost is not the only cost of owning milk cooling

In the long run, total operating costs of a Mueller® milk-cooling system are generally substantially less than those of "bargain-brand" milk-cooling equipment.

Example	Mueller	Competition
Cost of equipment	$31 000	$28 000
Cost of electricity @ 08 kW for 12,000 lbs milk day for 10 years	$17 550	$22 850
Total operating cost for ten years	$48 550	$50 850
Savings	$ 2 300

Increase Cattle Gains!
TOX-O-WIK® Cattle Oiler and Face Fly Fighter
It keeps cattle comfortable year around and free of weight-robbing insects and disease. It's automatic, trouble-free and rugged. Plus it pays for itself in profits from increased weight gain.
Our special TOX-O-WIK Insecticide is compatible with the animals natural body oils, skin and hair and keeps them free of flies, lice, grubs, ticks, mange and pinkeye
- Insecticide tank wick feeds automatically, no valves, jets or pumps to clog.
- Mineral feeder
- 1 to 4 applicators per unit
- TOX-O-WIK Insecticide is the only insecticide recommended for TOX-O-WIK Cattle Oilers
- Dairy units also available

The cleanest waterer ever invented!

Self-cleaning
The JUG is designed so that debris and feed are sucked up from the feed trap in the bowl with each watering; debris won't foul the water.

Low-maintenance
Light-tight design so that algae and odors won't build-up in The JUG's interior.

Animals adapt easily
The JUG is designed so that animals, even calves, can suck water naturally, no balls or flaps to get in the way.

The JUG
Large Livestock Waterer

Agriculture Moves on EBY Bodies

- LIVESTOCK BODIES - Lengths to 32', choice of heights and widths.
- GRAIN BODIES - Lengths to 24'; landscape and general purpose dumps to 12'.
- FLATBED BODIES - Lengths to 32', choice of 5 widths.

For greater payload capacity, Eby's aluminum design is equal in strength to steel and up to 40% lighter. Our corrosion-resistant components never need painting. That means minimum maintenance, improved appearance and higher resale value.

Let EBY custom build one for you.

Eby products have superior standard features. And we offer custom options for virtually any application. Agriculture is your business- building bodies to haul it is ours.

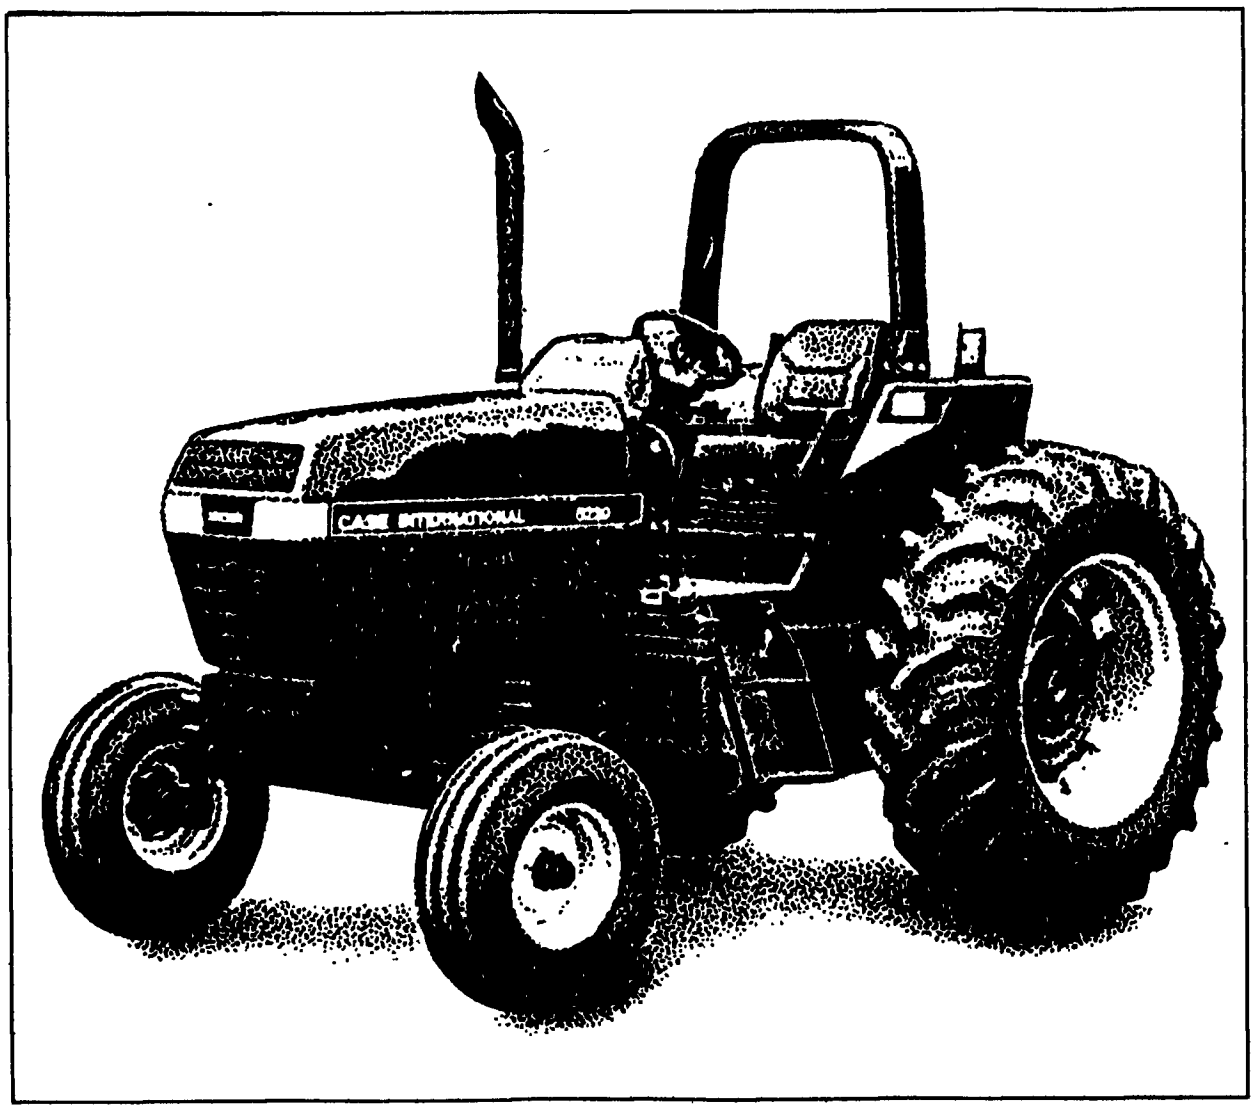
MAXXUM



Case International MAXXUM® set new standards for mid-size tractors. With the 5200 Series, those standards have been raised even higher.

You wanted more visibility; we added exclusive all-glass doors. You asked for easier implement attachment; we responded with ground-level hitch control. You wanted more muscle; and we increased horsepower and durability.

Leadership never stands still, and the MAXXUM 5200 Series is still the best in the business.

Clinton County Posts 4-H Sale Results

MILL HALL (Clinton Co.) — The 23rd Annual Clinton County Fair concluded with the 4-H Livestock Sale on Saturday, Aug. 12.

This year the Fair had one buy back packer bid for all livestock, H. J. Bierly Livestock of Mill Hall. Using a packer bid enables other buyers to only pay the difference if they have no personal need for the animal.

Nineteen exhibitors showed the 31 market lambs sold. Weights ranged from 84-140 pounds and sold from $320 to $100, averaging $135.48. The grand champion exhibited by Michelle Mincer of Mill Hall sold for $320 and was purchased by H. J. Bierly Livestock of Mill Hall. The reserve grand champion was also exhibited by Michelle Mincer, selling for $175 and was purchased by Powers Trucking of Lock Haven.

Seventeen exhibitors showed the 30 market goats, weighing 50-87 pounds. They sold from $375 to $80, averaging $121.33. The grand champion goat was exhibited by Angie Beck of Mill Hall, selling for $375 and purchased by Albright's Feed Mill of Mill Hall. The reserve grand champion was exhibited by David Snook II of Loganton selling for $160 and purchased by Miller Brothers Auto Sales of Mill Hall.

Twenty-eight exhibitors showed the 55 hogs sold. Weights ranged from 190 to 275 pounds and prices ranged from $11,125 down to $160, averaging $259.27. The grand champion hog was exhibited by Kara Schrack of Loganton and sold for $1,125 and purchased by Dotterer Equipment of Mill Hall. The reserve grand champion

THE NEW
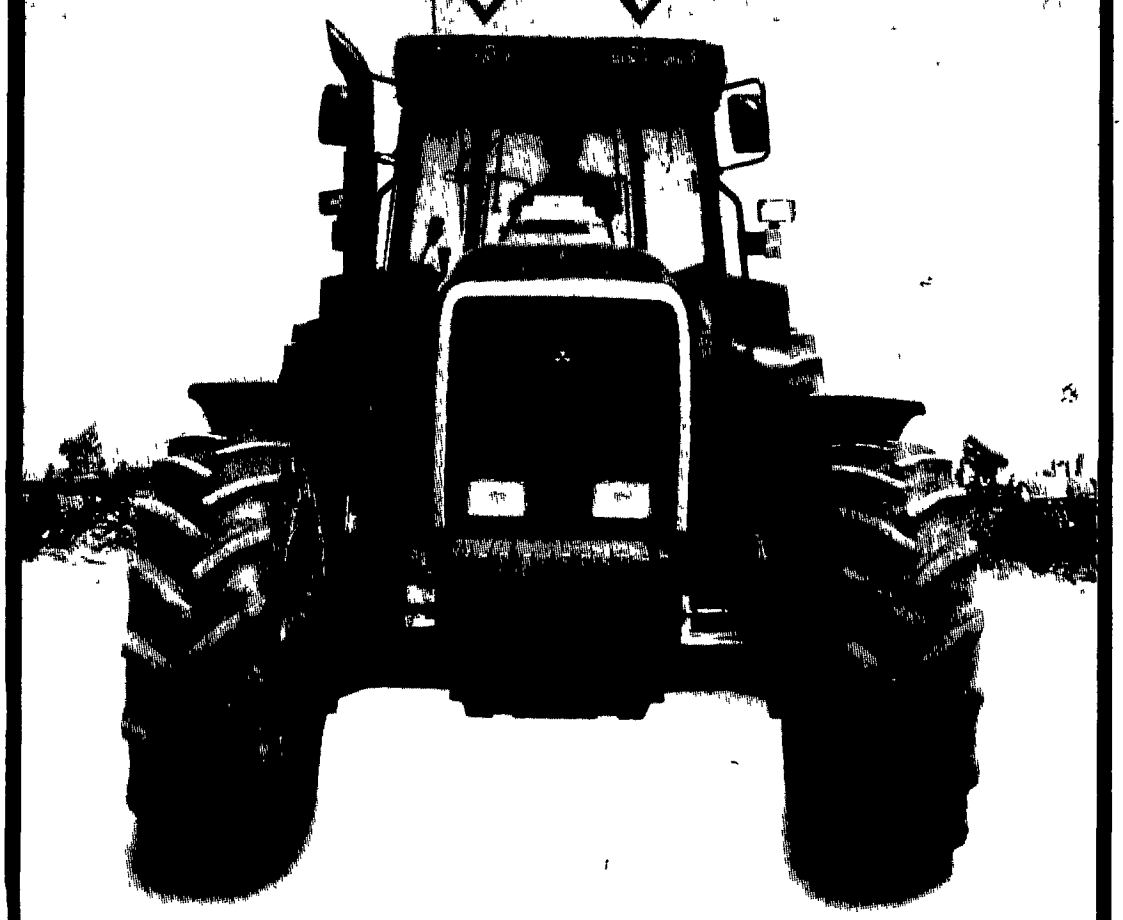
OF POWER



Massey Ferguson's new 86-180 hp 6100 Series and 8100 Series tractors have redefined the way tractor power is measured. To simply measure the way power is generated is no longer enough.

These new MF tractors deliver more of their engine horsepower for your work. It would take some competitive tractors 10 to 20 horsepower larger to equal their performance. DynaTorque™ performance engines, Dynashift transmissions, closed center hydraulics on MF 8100 Series and the largest wet clutch in the industry produce this unequaled usable power. And, MF's unique electronic control and monitoring systems make sure not an ounce of it is wasted.

Experience the power of the new Massey Ferguson tractors with a test-drive today at your local MF dealer. Once you have, no other tractor will measure up.

CFS Expands Hybrid Research

MOMENCE, Ill. — As part of its continuing research expansion, Custom Farm Seed has moved its Northern Research Office to a newly acquired farm site near its Momence, Ill., headquarters. At this site early-season corn hybrid research will be expanded. Staff numbers have more than doubled in recent years.

During the '95 growing year, this 60-acre farm just south of Momence will be used for the breeding and testing of early and early mid-season corn hybrids. The 5,000-square-foot building on the farm will be used for additional office space, lab space, cold storage, and a shop. An irrigation system for the new station insures that key breeding projects are not interrupted due to drought.

"As larger companies have scaled back their research efforts, we've expanded and developed an extremely talented research staff," said J. Brent n McKee, president, Custom Farm Seed. "From such a talented group, we look forward to the introductions of additional superior product.

"Adding the farm is part of our overall effort to expand our breeding and testing work so we can bring along new hybrids faster," he said. "The work being done is very important to corn growers in the northern Corn Belt, in Canada, Europe and for many contract growers of waxy corn."

Exhibitors Parade 115 Entries At Va. Show

Leading the entries in the bull show was Whitestone Shenandoah F072, a March 1994 son of GAR Sleep Easy 1009. The grand champion is owned by Whitestone Farm, Aldie, Va., and Broken Lance Ranch LLC, Bucyrus, Kan. He was also the champion in the junior division.

Reserve grand champion bull honors were awarded to Hill Crest Viper 033. Annfield Corporation, Boyce, Va.; Susan Rucker, Delaplane, Va.; and Houston Moore, Lewisburg, W.Va, own the April 1993 son of VDAR New Trend 802. He was also the senior champion.

Top honors in the heifer show were awarded to Clear View Farm, Louisa, Va. Their entry was Ankony Pride V714, a February 1994 daughter of N Bar Emulation EXT. She was first named the junior champion in the heifer show and was also selected the supreme champion at the event.

Winning reserve grand champion and senior champion female honors was B&J Lady Chelsea, an October 1993 daughter of Leachman Tonto. She was exhibited by Jason Michael, Mt. Solon, Va.

Kruegers Belle 1012 and her April 1995 bull calf were the grand champion cow-calf pair. William Freeman and Johnny Freeman, both of Cumberland, Va., exhibited the July 1983 daughter of Premier Independence KN. The pair was also the champion owned cow with natural calf and champion cow with natural calf.

Taking reserve grand champion cow-calf pair honors was WRA Sarah 37C and her April 1995 heifer calf. They first won champion bred-and-owned cow with natural calf before being selected for the reserve grand honor. The February 1993 daughter of Rito 9FB3 of 5H11 Fullback is owned by Whitestone Farm, Aldie, Va., and White Ridge Angus, Somerville, Va.

Livestock Notes

DRY WEATHER DAMAGE

As I write this, we are having dry weather across most of the state. Visitors at Ag Progress Days from many places indicated they were feeding some hay to their beef herds. The casualties of dry weather and a lack of late season grass are young calves and cows that are not yet bred back for next year.

For cows still in breeding pastures, this may be one of the few times that extending the breeding season may be beneficial. Usually, extension of the breeding season is not recommended because it will be very hard to try and "back up" the herd later and younger calves will also be lighter at weaning and less valuable per head. This year, getting the cow pregnant may be of greater importance because the indications are the cattle cycle is beginning to move toward fewer cows. This would result in higher calf prices next year. Secondly, improvement in the genetics from herd sires next year could return many herds to their previous sale weights in a single year. The calves may indeed be younger than they were this year, but the greater genetic potential for growth from the sires could result in calves that are just as heavy at weaning.

The weather we experienced for much of the normal breeding season was very hot with high humidity — just the thing that will reduce conception. Therefore, extension of the breeding season may need to be coupled with some "soft" culling in the cow herd and retention of more replacement heifers than usual from this year's calf crop. In most cases there will be no lack of stored feed to winter some "extra" cattle, and many producers may need the additional numbers to meet financial needs later.

If pastures need to be supplemented, good grass hay is all that will probably be needed for the cow herd. This period of the year for spring-calving cows — particularly if they are already pregnant — is a low point in the annual nutritional needs. After grass hay, haylage, or balage, corn silage would be the next most useful feed, with legume hay and silages being the least cost-effective feed. Byproduct feeds such as chips and apple pomace can also be very effective as long as transportation and feeding costs are small enough.

For the calves, creep feeding would be effective since there was a good small grain crop in most local areas. A good feed can be formulated from most of these grains — particularly oats and barley — that can help put some sale weight on the calves.

Early weaning may also be an alternative. Some recent studies have shown calves fed right after early weaning can have equal weaning performance as calves that stay with the cow even in good grazing conditions. Some supplemental feed will be needed, so some manner of delivery of grain rations is needed. Weaning, coupled with a good vaccination program, can also be used to enhance marketability of feeder calves.

The best thing to do will be to watch it rain.

Feeder Calf Roundup

Plans are complete for the first Pennsylvania Feeder Calf Roundup for this fall. This is a joint effort of the Penn State Extension, the Pennsylvania Cattleman's Association, and several animal health organizations.

The outline of the program is that calves will be vaccinated, wormed, implanted, and tagged in early September, about three weeks later boosters will be administered, calves will be shipped to a central weaning facility the first week of October. and they will be sold in sorted, uniform outcome groups on or about Oct. 20. The cost of drugs and tags is $5 per calf, and the cost of the weaning period will be feed plus $.30 per head daily. The facility is the Long Feedlot at New Stanton. In most programs like this conducted around the country, the calves easily pay for the weaning costs in extra sale weight.

There is still time to get involved in this program if you want to take advantage of this marketing opportunity. Contact me at (814) 863-3661 if you are interested or if I can answer your questions.

Wayne County Tops $133,325 At Sale

HONESDALE (Wayne Co.) — The recent Wayne County Junior Livestock Sale raised $133,325.27.

About 311 4-H animals were sold, including 44 steers, 72 lambs, and 195 hogs. Twelve hogs and eight lambs were returned to exhibitors for resale.

Grazing Gazette

PENNSTATE
College of Agricultural Sciences in cooperation with USDA/ARS

Phillip Anderson
Anderson Dairy Management and Larry Muller
The Pennsylvania State University

Feeding cows with intensive grazing is much like managing any other type of feeding system. The animals will perform in response to what they eat and how they eat it.

One of the many challenges with grazing high producing animals such as milking cows is keeping the diet and routine consistent. We expect high production in confinement barns when feed quality and quantity vary little from day to day and when feed quality is high. Grazing is no different.

The best grazers are able to keep high quality pasture in front of the cows every day. They do this by manipulating the harvest schedule of the crop and by the way it is presented to the animals. For example, the dairy producer with a TMR feeds more frequently to keep feed fresh whereas the top grazers move the wires one or more times per day to accomplish the same goal. A successful grazer must keep ahead of the plant maturity (even if he has to mow the fields throughout the season) so the cows never have to graze poor quality forage.

Pasture Analysis

Forage lab analysis of grazed forages can be nearly as valuable as for stored forages. In conventional dairy ration programming, we use lab analyses to measure the nutrients in forage and estimate what is being consumed by the animals. This allows our diets to be as consistent as the person doing the feeding. We cannot formulate rations with the same accuracy in a grazing situation, but we can come close on well-managed farms. We have access to a vast body of knowledge on diet formulation which we can not accurately utilize without lab analysis of our feeds. Visual assessment of pasture does not discern changes in nutrient and mineral components that are important nutritionally. Most dairy producers will lose 10 or more times the cost of a forage analysis each time a change in forage is missed, whether they are grazing or not. In addition to ration balancing, grazed forage analysis also provides feedback for the manager to know how changes in grazing affect the quality of the forage.

Sample Collection

To be useful forage samples must be properly collected. There is not an accepted "correct" way to sample pastures and other grazed crops, but common sense will lead you in the right direction. In early spring we do not encourage grazers to collect pasture samples until the cows have been through the rotation at least once. If you take samples during the first grazing cycle, you will often get some astounding results. It is not uncommon to find some grasses with crude protein contents over 30 percent and energy levels similar to some concentrates. What do you do with numbers like that? Common sense tells us two things here: first, the cow will not be able to utilize all these nutrients during this time of year. Second, the plants are developing very quickly at this time and may be quite different in just a few days.

You will get meaningful information when sampling several times per year between May and October. The first sample should be taken after the first grazing cycle in spring. You can expect a decrease in quality during mid to late summer depending on the weather. We recommend sampling pastues at least 3 to 4 times per year, once in the spring, once or twice during the summer, and then in the fall when quality often improves. Climate (heat and moisture) affects pasture quality, and the type of grass or grass-legume mixture influence quality. Additionally, the quality may change between years. More frequent sampling may be needed the first couple years with a grazing system.

Any good forage sample must represent what the cows are eating. One handful of grass will not do it! The first step in sampling a pasture is observing how the cows grazed yesterday's paddock. For example, do not sample grass growing through manure if the cows are not eating it. Note how close to the ground cows are grazing. To obtain a representative sample, walk through a couple paddocks scheduled for grazing and take samples from 20 to 30 locations. You may pull samples by hand or cut with a shears as long as they represent the grazing pattern of the animals.

Samples will mix better if chopped with shears into one inch lengths. Mix the bucket full of forage and place about one pound into a zip lock bag or other sealed container. Keep this cold if possible before mailing it to the laboratory. Mail samples early in the week to avoid delays over a weekend. It may be necessary to dry samples in a microwave before shipping because some wet samples may heat and begin to ferment by the time they are received at the lab.

Nutrient Analysis

Wet chemistry analysis versus NIR analysis is a somewhat controversial issue. NIR is fast and accurate for fiber and protein if calibrations are good. Wet chemistry can be the most accurate (especially for minerals), but it is more expensive and takes longer. That choice is between you and your nutrition advisor.

NIR labs do have calibrations to run samples of fresh grasses and legumes. If you have forages such as chicory or brassicas, we would recommend sending samples to a lab that can do wet chemistry analysis. Besides the usual protein and fiber analyses, we recommend a soluble protein analysis since the soluble protein is often high in pastures. We also recommend some mineral analysis. Minerals may vary 20-30 percent during a grazing season and will be influenced by the amount of legumes in that pasture.

Summary

Intensive grazing helps many farms reduce feed costs and labor needs for at least six months each year. However, there is no magic involved. The animals will respond based on the nutrients they consume, along with their comfort and health.

A good grazing program can provide the necessary quality forages and environment for good milk production, but the grazing must be very well managed if good results are expected. Proper forage sampling and analyses is a management tool that allows you to formulate rations and maximize the return from each dollar spent on feed.

College Has New Title

COLLEGE PARK, Md. — The College of Agriculture of the University of Maryland at College Park (UMCP) has a long history behind it. With its new title, College of Agriculture and Natural Resources, a bright future is just over the horizon. The name change was official on July 1.

In 1856, the Maryland Agricultural College was chartered. Charles Benedict Calvert's original goal in founding the school was to provide special scientific training to farmers so they could better earn a living. By opening day and the formal dedication on October 6, 1859, the College's new mission was to train students for leadership. Today, prepping students for leadership roles in agriculture is still one of the college's main goals.

As the size of the college grew from a handful of graduates in 1861 to 157 graduates last academic year, so did the breadth of agriculture. Farming although important, is no longer the only industry in agriculture. The broad range of industries includes traditional fields such as animal sciences, agronomy, horticulture and nutrition and food sciences, as well as newer fields such as natural resources management and biological resources engineering.

The significant amount of time and funds invested in natural resources and environmental programs by College of Agriculture faculty and staff needed to be officially recognized, according to Dean Thomas A. Fretz. "Changing the name to the College of Agriculture and Natural Resources," Fretz said, "better reflects these programs as well as the research and outreach efforts resulting from the college's 1993 merger with the Cooperative Extension Service and the Maryland Agricultural Experiment Station.

"As the college continues to grow, this name change models the kind of foresight and leadership its faculty is attempting to impart on its students. The College of Agriculture and Natural Resources is taking a crucial step into its future as an institution on the cutting edge of information and technology."

Feed For The Heat

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — As summer brings longer days and higher temperatures, dairy producers should adjust herd feeding practices to ease the effects of heat stress on feed intake, according to an expert in Penn State's College of Agricultural Sciences.

"Cows begin to eat less when temperatures rise above 80 degrees Fahrenheit," said Virginia Ishler, extension assistant in dairy and animal science. "During the summer, producers can keep feed intake higher by maximizing cow comfort."

Helping cows stay cool will help them maintain their appetite. "Keep cows inside during the day if it is cooler for them. Make sure they have adequate shade over feeding areas and while out on pasture."

As temperatures rise, ventilation in animal facilities becomes more important. "Make sure that all barn fans are working properly," Ishler said. "Keep air moving through holding areas. If feasible, reduce the number of cows entering a holding area at one time."

Providing the majority of the ration during cooler times of the day will ensure that your cows have feed when they're most likely to eat. "For example, feed between 4 and 6 a.m. and 9 to 11 p.m.," Ishler said.

Prepare total mixed rations (TMRs) immediately before feeding.

"Don't keep mixed feed in the mixer wagon during the day," Ishler said. "This will shorten the bunk life of the TMR. The same concept holds true for high-moisture grains, which should not sit in a feed cart for more than one or two hours."

To compensate for lower feed intakes, boost the energy and nutrient density of the ration per unit of dry matter consumed.

"You can do this by increasing concentrate dry matter in the ration," Ishler said. "But keep enough effective fiber in the ration to promote normal rumen function."

Cows may tolerate lower levels of forage neutral detergent fiber — .80 to .90 percent of body weight — for brief periods, but don't let forage dry matter intake fall below 1.5 percent of body weight. Offering aftermath cuttings of hay or hay-crop forages and whole-plant corn silage also helps to optimize feed intake in hot weather.

"The total dietary fat content in the ration dry matter should not exceed 5 percent when oilseed ingredients are fed," said Ishler.

"Rumen-protected or rumen-inert fat sources can provide additional energy, resulting in a dietary fat content of 6 to 7 percent. But cost-effectiveness depends on the level of milk production, the herd's average stage of lactation and the body condition of the cows."

Maintaining proper protein ratios during the summer also is important. "Rumen undegradable protein should make up 36 to 39 percent of the total crude protein for cows in early lactation," she said. "Soluble protein should constitute 30 to 34 percent of the total crude protein."

Boosting levels of certain minerals will help milk cows compensate for higher nutrient losses during hot, humid weather.

"On a dry matter basis, potassium should range between 1.4 and 1.5 percent of the ration," Ishler said. "Sodium can make up .45 to .55 percent, magnesium .30 to .35 percent and salt .50 percent of the ration. Chlorine should range between .25 and .30 percent of the ration dry matter."

The bottom line for managing dairy cattle during summer is to keep them comfortable, Ishler said.

4-H Holds Only Agricultural Fair In Delaware County

NEWTOWN SQUARE (Delaware Co.) — Delaware County, for as urban as it is, still has one, but only one, agricultural fair. The Delaware County 4-H Fair was held recently at the 4-H Farm and Educational Center on the property of the Garrett-Williamson Foundation at Newtown Square.

According to C. R. Bryan, Jr. Extension 4-H agent, the two-day event featured livestock and poultry shows, vegetable and 4-H project judging, pet care demonstrations, hay rides, refreshments, and fun for the whole family.

The Saturday afternoon auction included poultry, lambs, eggs, vegetables and honey raised by 4-H members, and ended with a record breaking price of $775 paid by Frank C. Videon, of Newtown Square for the 235-pound market hog raised by Kerry Boody of Newtown Square. Videon donated the hog back to 4-H. The reserve champion market hog shown by Brenda MacPhail of Newtown Square was purchased for $500 by Medford's Meats in Chester.

The Celebrity Turkey Show Saturday morning was won by Pauline Bogaert, writer for the Philadelphia Inquirer. Another participant in that show was Frank Stearns, southast regional director for the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture. Stearns and Bogeart also presented some of the awards to winners in the livestock show.

The 4-H program is heavily dependent on adult volunteers in its educational efforts with the more than 5,000 4-H members in Delaware County. The 4-H Fair is no exception. Those volunteers who headed up fair activities included Alan McClellan, Aston; Debbie Murphy, Collingdale; Theresa Muller, Drexel Hill; Judi Bissinger, Marple Township; Sherry Ratner, Edgemont; Leslie Ruzowicz, Cathy MacPhail, Judith Boody and Jared Armington, Newtown Square; Marcy Henderson, Helen Wright, Bob and Debbie Davis, Springfield; Richard Harris, Nether Providence; and Nancy Botella, Thornbury Township. All volunteers are under the direction of the paid 4-H staff Judy MacRone, Jim Short, Joyce Morrison, and Bud Bryan.

One of the life skills emphasized in 4-H is communications. Members are taught to speak before groups of people. Those who made public presentations at the fair were Megan Marquis, Swarthmore, champion; David Murphy, Collingdale, reserve champion; Michael and Michele McClellan, Aston; Emily and Rob Davis, Springfield; and Adam Murphy, Collingdale. Adam Murphy also won the Mardi Gras class.

Champion and reserve champion honors in the 4-H project competition were awarded to Erin Yoder, Newtown Square for veterinary science; David Henderson, Springfield for small engines; Emily and Rob Davis for beekeeping; Jackie Van Patton, Ridley and David Murphy, Collingdale for vegetables; Michele McClellan, Aston and Emily and Rob Davis, Springfield for pet care; and Katie Siddons, Middletown Twp., Michele Shuman, Lansdowne, Sasha Kinney, Drexel Hill and Beverly Menghetti, Thornbury Twp. for horse.

Poultry championships went to Michael McClellan, Aston, Katie Wetzel, Upper Providence, Alex Oleykowski, Upper Darby and Jonathan Van Patton, Ridley Township. In the sheep show Joan Harris, Nether Providence, Katlyn Novella, Sharon Hill, David Murphy, Collingdale, Melina Prosseda, Yeadon, Hope Toogood, Middletown Twp., Claire Barrett and Andrea Oleykowski of Upper Darby, and Ben and Meredith Ruzoaicz of Newtown Square were all pinned champions.

Market hog champions were: Kerry and Karen Boody, Brenda McPhail, Alania Brescia, and Chase Armington of Newtown Square; Joan Harris of Nether Providence, Haifa Aldorasi of Ridley Twp., Brian Albany and Rob Davis of Springfield, and Tim Houser of Marple Twp.

Ginger Snap Supreme At Warren 4-H Dairy Show

Other owners and their breed champions that competed in the supreme selection were: Richard Gilkinson Jr. of Lander with a Brown Swiss senior 3-year-old cow; Peter Vanco of Bear Lake with a Jersey senior 3-year-old cow; Toni Gilkinson of Lander with a Milking Shorthorn junior 2-year-old cow; and Wendy Gilkinson of Lander with an Ayrshire 5-year-old cow.

Each champion owner was presented with a trophy sponsored by David Brown and Coba Select Sires. The supreme champion won a trophy sponsored by Enos Milling of Sugar Grove.

A Jersey senior calf shown by Kimberly Kalika of Corry won junior champion. Brian Hazelet of Columbus was reserve junior champion with a Jersey intermediate calf. Along with Peter Vanco's grand champion Jersey cow, he had the reserve grand champion and best bred and owned animal with a Jersey junior 2-year-old cow. The top daughter/dam entry was shown by Tiffany Gilkinson of Lander.

All of the 4-H dairy club members participated in the showmanship competition. In the junior division (ages 8-11), John Nickerson of Corry was first. Other blue award winners were Kimberly Kalika, Kelsi Wilcox, and Crystal Gruber. Red awards went to Brian Hazelet, Lindsey Burch, Cody Hitchcock, Toni Gilkinson, and Jesse Curtis. White awards were earned by Robert Hazelet, Ben Blair, and Terry Arison.

The intermediate showmanship group (ages 12-14) was topped by Melinda Brown of Bear Lake. Other blue award winners were Rebecca Gruber, Emily Swanson, Jessica Gruber, Sarah Lindell, and Chris Vanco. Red awards were won by Jody Blair, Kristen Hitchcock, Jennifer Jones, Kristen Burch, and Chris Lindell. White awards were received by Drew Wilcox, Mark Blair, Jack Jones III, and Robert Arison.

In the senior group (ages 15-18) Candace Hitchcock of Russell and Dustin Wilcox earned blue awards. Red awards went to Amanda Hitchcock and Steven Blair. White awards were won by Robert Morris and Carrie Swan-

Record-Setting Entries Compete For Junior Angus Honors

ST. JOSEPH, Mo.—Junior Angus breeders from coast to coast traveled to Louisville, Ky., July 18-22 to compete in the 1995 National Junior Angus Show.

The 27th annual event, held at the Kentucky Fair and Exposition Center, recorded 923 entries, making it the world's largest single-breed beef cattle event ever held.

Jim Hough, Dresden, Ohio, evaluated the 537 owned heifer entries, the show's largest division, while Galen Fink, Manhattan, Kan., judged the 200 bred-and-owned heifers, 60 bred-and-owned bulls and 45 cow-calf pairs that were paraded. Dr. Gordon Jones, Bowling Green, Ky., picked the champions from the 52 steer entries shown. There were also 29 entries in the carcass steer division.

Host state junior Angus breeder Wesley Womack, Pembroke, Ky., walked away with top honors in the owned heifer show. Deer Creek Rita 15D, a January 1994 daughter of TC Stockman, was Womack's grand champion entry. She was also the early junior champion.

Reserve grand champion bred-and-owned female honors went to Julie Dameron, Lexington, Ill. Her entry, Dameron Errolline 412, is a January 1994 daughter of VDAR Rito 263, and was also the reserve early junior champion.

In the bred-and-owned bull competition, Andrew Donnell, Jackson, Tenn., was awarded grand champion laurels on DB Blackmon 412. The February 1994 son of Leachman Prompter was also the winner in the junior division.

Sy Olson, Hereford, Texas, took the reserve grand champion bred-and-owned bull title on OCC Doc Holiday, a March 1994 son of Marriott of WR BAR 8055. He was also the reserve junior champion.

Phil Leitnaker, Pleasantville, Ohio, topped the 45 cow-calf pairs that were shown with Champion Hill Blackbird 33, a January 1993 daughter of Minerts Fortune 2000. She was teamed up with her March 1995 heifer calf sired by Century Touchstone 131.

The reserve grand champion cow-calf entry was exhibited by Matthew Hotz of Neola, Iowa. Oneills Royal Lady 10, a February 1993 daughter of Oneills Renovator, and her May 1995 heifer calf sired by Oneills Quality Lad were his winning entry.

Jeff Dalbey, Burlington Junction, Mo., took grand champion steer laurels with BA Top Hat, an April 1994 son of BA Stetson 202. Dalbey's champion weighed 1,158 pounds and had a 2.56 weight per day of age.

Reserve grand champion steer honors went to Jason Johnson of Durand, Ill. JAF Gump JRWJ 411 is the name of his winner. He is a May 1994 son of Hoff Hi Flyer SC 7134, and weighed 1,206 pounds with a 2.79 weight per day of age.

Julia Crenshaw-Smith of Manhattan, Kan., had the grand champion winner in the carcass steer contest. Her entry had a live weight of 1,266 pounds, and a carcass weight of 727 pounds. The carcass also had a fat thickness of .32 inches and a ribeye area of 13.1 square inches. The steer graded Choice with a yield grade of 2.17.

The reserve grand champion carcass steer was entered by Sam Lawson, Nicholasville, Ky. His entry weighed 1,112 pounds live, with a carcass weight of 696 pounds. The carcass had a fat thickness of .32 inches, a ribeye area of 13.6 square inches, and graded Choice with a yield grade of 1.89.

Youth Showcase Talent At Carroll County 4-H, FFA Fair

SAN ANTONIO, Texas — By a narrow margin, directors of the National Live Stock and Meat Board here took action to move toward consolidation with the National Cattlemen's Association to form a new organization to represent the beef industry.

According to current Meat Board bylaws, such a change in the organization's structure required 75 percent of directors to approve the changes. Citing the loss of effective multi-species programs in the interest of a beef-specific future, directors voting against the consolidation said they wanted to send the message that there would continue to be a need for "meat" programs and that the separate industry organizations would have to work hard to continue these programs. The issue passed by a margin of only 75.2 percent.

Meat Board Chairman Jim Hauge said, "Today is a difficult and sentimental time," but noted that the plan represented what amounted to the best course of action for the individual species. And Ron Curtis, chairman of the Meat Board's Beef Industry Council, said that while the plan wasn't perfect it was "the best plan possible," and said, "the federation (of state beef councils) will remain the strong foundation on which a consumer-driven beef organization can be built." John Lacey, a former NCA president and a member of the Meat Board Executive Committee, said it was time for the industry "to move forward with trust and confidence" into the new organization.

The actions taken by Meat Board directors: (1) supported the beef industry reorganization plan; (2) approved the bylaws of the new organization; (3) approved the concept of a joint agreement with the Beef Board; (4) empowered the current Meat Board executive board to negotiate and execute the necessary transfers of governance, operations, assets and liabilities to existing pork and sheep organizations and to the new beef organization; (5) amended the Meat Board bylaws; and (6) extended the terms of office of current officers and the length of the fiscal year to be consistent with the effective date of consolidation (now expected to be February 1, 1996.)

The Meat Board has been building demand for meat since being formed in 1922 as the first organization in agriculture to be funded through checkoffs. It is the

Bishcroft Farm Becomes Fair Premier Exhibitor, Breeder

C.J. HOUGHTALING
Tioga Co. Correspondent

Tricia McElwain of Canton owns the reserve junior champion Holstein, Cha-Do Stardust Twinkle-TW, a fall senior calf bred by Charles and Doris Porter of Canton.

Referring to the four grand champion and reserve grand champion Holsteins, judge Creedin Cornman of Carlisle, said, "These are outstanding cows that will do real well as the show season goes on." Of the grand champion, Cornman said he chose her because "she was really in bloom, not having been freshened too long." He also noted Buddy had a tremendous amount of dairy character and particularly liked her openness of rib, while the reserved champion had good teat placement over the other winning cows.

Winter Int. Calf: 1. Megan owned by Christopher T. Wood, 2. EsBern Starbuck Bobbie Elly owned by Hal Courtney, 3. Edmond Skybuck Glisten owned by Ronald Harer.

State Ag Official Elected To National Association

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — State Agriculture Secretary Charles C. Brosius announced that Leo L. Dunn, the department's aquaculture coordinator, has been elected secretary-treasurer of the National Association of State Aquaculture Coordinators (NASAC). Aquaculture is the controlled cultivation of aquatic plants, animals, and microorganisms.

"I'm pleased to have Pennsylvania represented on the NASAC Board," Brosius said. "Aquaculture is the fastest growing agricultural sector in the nation. Pennsylvania produces over 70 percent of the trout stocked in the Northeast and is a major exporter of ornamental fish to Europe and the Far East."

Dunn, 30, is a native of Seven Bridges, Potter County. As aquaculture coordinator, he works with new and established businesses to support the growth and development of aquaculture.

"I'm excited about the possibilities inherent within the association," Dunn said. "I'm also looking forward to hosting the 1997 NASAC annual meeting here in Pennsylvania. We'll have an opportunity to highlight our $12 million aquaculture industry."

NASAC is a subsidiary of the National Association of State Departments of Agriculture (NASDA). NASAC's mission is to enhance communication and resolve conflicts within and among federal, state, and international components of the aquaculture industry while being a strong advocate of responsible development.

As secretary-treasurer of NASAC, Dunn will be writing resolutions, budgeting, and representing NASAC at national meetings. He also serves as chairman of NASAC's Legislative and Governmental Affairs Committee.

For more information about aquaculture, including wholesale sources of farm-raised fish and locations of retail fee fishing operations, contact Leo Dunn at (717) 783-8462.

son. The top finishers in each division won trophies sponsored by Integra Bank.

All Warren County 4-H dairy club members participated in a dairy fitting contest. Members were given one hour to clip, brush, and groom their animal.

Seniors (ages 15-18) had to clip the animal's entire body; intermediate (ages 12-14), had to clip the entire rear of the animal; and juniors (ages 8-11), were required to clip the tail and tailhead of the animal.

The first place finisher in the senior group was Candace Hitchcock of Lander. Also winning senior fitting awards were Amanda Hitchcock and Carrie Swanson.

The top winner in intermediate age group was Kristen Hitchcock of Lander. Other intermediate fitting winners were Kristen Burch, Chris Vanco, and Rebecca Gruber.

The first place junior winner was Kimberly Kalika of Corry. The other junior fitting winners were Cody Hitchcock, Kelsi Wilcox, Terry Arison, and Crystal Gruber.

All of the winners received a master fitting rosette and first place finishes received trophies. The judge was Gary Miller of Cambridge Springs.

CASE III

For A Magnum Tractor See Binkley & Hurst Bros. Inc. Your Dealer With Service To Back Every Sale!

BEFORE YOU BUY YOUR NEXT NEW TRACTOR, ASK AN OWNER.

There are more than 50,000 Case IH MAGNUM™ tractors working fields and farms around the world. And with over 65 million hours of rugged fieldwork behind them, they've proven what a difference durability, reliability and performance can make.

You'll feel that difference in the 7200 Series MAGNUM tractors, ranging from 130 to 215 PTO hp. At the heart of every MAGNUM is its 8.3 L diesel engine — the definition of pure agricultural power. Not to mention the standard 18-speed full-powershift transmission that gives you complete control of 18 forward and four reverse speeds, as well as an optional creeper transmission that adds six forward and two reverse speeds.

Yet with all that performance, there is no shortage of comfort. The MAGNUM tractor cab means highly efficient luxury. From the ergonomically designed seat to the smart layout of the controls, you're surrounded with features that make it easy to put in a full day's work.

If you're looking for a proven tractor with all the assets you need to maximize productivity, be sure to test drive a MAGNUM tractor. But don't just take our word for it.

ASK AN OWNER.

A Special Feature For All Case IH Grain Drills

Fluted Roll Feed Cup Assemblies Save Seed and Save Time

A Known Fact That Case IH Die-Cast Zinc Alloy Feed Cups Are Superior To Other Competitive Brands Long Life Comes From Oil-Impregnated, Molded Sintered Metal Inserts Acts As A Positive Bearing Surface To Surround And Support The Fluted Roll

Precision engineered to fit your grain drill exactly!
Why settle for inferior look-alikes when you can have genuine Case IH fluted roll feed cup assemblies — renowned for accuracy, smooth operation and long life.

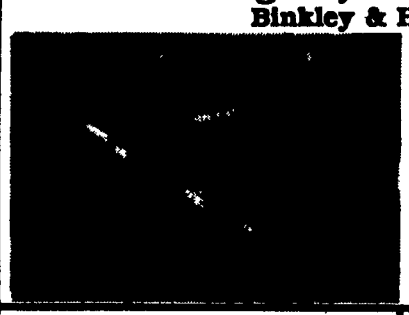
RHINO

Purchase Quality Rhino Machinery From Binkley & Hurst Bros.



If It's Snow Removal Or Heavy Duty Excavating, You Need A Rhino Blade From Binkley & Hurst Bros. Now!

The LR Blade has been setting the standard in medium-duty blades for over 20 years. The LR is ideal for road maintenance, soil leveling, ditching and terracing work, or feedlot cleanup on tractors. Durability and ruggedness are built into every LR with features including a 2" solid steel kingpin and a 5/16" thick moldboard. Versatility is provided by the LR's three basic mechanical adjustments: moldboard tilt, pivot, and mainframe swing which add up to a total of 22 non-wrench adjustments.

ALL STEEL, ADJUSTABLE & NON-ADJUSTABLE

BALE RACKS

These racks are of all steel construction. The extensive field use and testing has proven this design to be adequate in stength and durability. Available in both regular straight bar or the new curved bar design as shown in the picture. The curved bar tilts the load towards the centre for greater stability.

The non-adjustable racks are of all-welded construction and available in various lengths and widths for different size and number of bales.

Adjustable racks have movable cross members which can be set anywhere along the entire length of rack. Clamping method is simple and rigid and easily adjustable. Crosses are removable for shipping or storage.

The longitude beams on the 30 ft. model are 4 x 10 x .188 H.S. Tube. The longitude beams on the 20' or 25 ft. model are 4 x 8. The cross members are 3 x 5 x .150 H.S. Tube.

It Takes A Sunflower Ripper To Take This Type Of Punishment, So Buy Heavy Duty Tillage, Buy Sunflower And A New Case IH Magnum Tractor From Binkley & Hurst For Outstanding Performance

This series of photos shows a deep-tillage device called a V-ripper as it digs 15-inches into the soil to loosen the hard-packed soil. In hay for more than 25 years, the field was used for many years as a parking lot at Ag Progress. Over the years, during dry and wet conditions, cars and other equipment packed the soil, inherently full of rocks and clay, which helped contribute to compaction. Also called a subsoiler, the V-ripper breaks up the lower layers of topsoil and the subsoil to allow for better plant root growth. The subsoiling demonstration was one of several tillage demonstrations that visitors could see at this year's Ag Progress Days.

Once A Parking Lot, Now A Deeply Tilled Field By Binkley & Hurst Bros. Heavy Duty Sunflower Tillage Equipment and Case IH Magnum Tractors All Sold And Serviced By Binkley & Hurst Your Dealer For Heavy Duty Equipment

ANDY ANDREWS

ROCKSPRING (Centre Co.) — Once upon a time, they needed a place to put cars. So they used a hay field.

The hay field, you see, goes back, way back to a time before tons of cars and equipment were invited onto it, in conditions rainy and dry, to pack it down.

Its usefulness as a parking lot served well, but for growing crops, well, that was in question. It was solid hardpan. Dusty and rock. Nearly unfit for farming. -

Despite the rocks, clay, hardpan, and dry, dry soil, the V-ripper did its job, and dug down deep — 15 inches deep, to be exact. The subsoiler helped loosen and dislodge the compaction layer so harmful to good root growth and overall crop condition.

Farmhand Mulchers bring clods to the surface and crush them...then smooth and firm the seedbed to seal in moisture. You get firm, level seedbeds that improve seed-to-soil contact for increased germination and more even field stands. Check these quality features:

- Torsion mounted bearing hangers and roller tool bars work with split roller axles to isolate shock.
- Triple lip sealed, self-aligning ball bearings for long life.
- Standard rear scrapers on smooth rollers; front scrapers available.
- Choose looped "C" or Danish vibrating tines with 2½" shovels; smooth or crowfoot rollers.

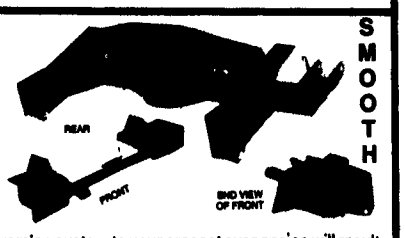
KELDERMAN AIR RIDE



Adding a Kelderman Air Ride Conversion system to your present suspension will result in a two stage suspension system. This is not to be confused with adding an Air bag mounted above the axle. Allows adding extra spring leafs to increase load rating and still maintain Air-Ride comfort.

The bolt on basic package utilizes an air stem mounted in a convenient location to add or remove air from the system

Currently available for front and rear suspension in Dodge Series 250 & 350 trucks. Available soon for Dodge Dakota models.

Also available for some Ford, Chevy and GMC truck models. Special orders available for most motor homes. This option will smooth out the ride on those rough-road fishing/camping trips.

WHIRL-A-FEED

SAVE TIME AT THE SILO

Increase your productivity with a Model 40 forage blower. The Whirl-A-Feed® table breaks up clumps and spins crop into the blower at high speed. This means less drag on the fan and more efficient use of your tractor's horsepower.

Stop by and learn more about the Model 40.

YOU'RE IN CONTROL

The Model 900 forage harvester puts you in control of your harvest:

- Rugged 21-inch, 12-knife cutterhead for a uniform chop.
- Exclusive flip-up feedrolls provide convenient access to the shearbar and smooth roll scraper.
- Electromagnetic clutches provide instant response in controlling feedroll and attachment drives.
- Optional Metalert® 11 metal detector protects cutterhead and your valuable animals.

Mixing T.M.R. The Way You Want

Open-Top Mixers

On trailer and truck models, the discharge door and discharge augers are controlled hydraulically. Also, gravity discharge is available.

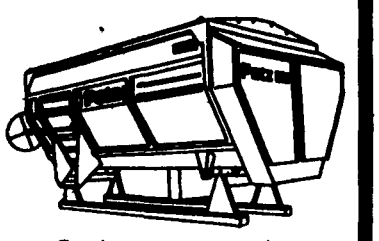
Trailer-mounted auger mixers



Stationary auger mixers

Tumble Mixers

No internal bearings.

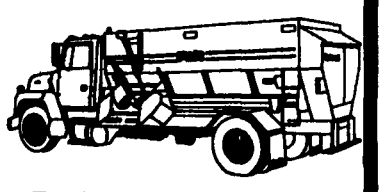
4 sizes from 135 to 290 cubic feet.



Truck-mounted auger mixers

Multi-lot Belt Feeder

Feeds up to 6 lots of cattle different rations efficiently.

End loading can minimize conveyor investment. You can even convey and feed with one machine to save time and money.

Ask us about belt Feeders.

CLAAS Forage Harvesters

CLAAS corn headers have a tremendous reputation around the world, thanks to their speedy harvesting in all conditions.

This high performance JAGUAR self propelled forager range can be equipped according to machine size with 5, 6 and 8 row maize headers.

Corn headers have to cope with extremely tough conditions. CLAAS headers feature weare resistant chains, automatic tensioning, plastic coated chain guides and ground, hardened rollers to ensure reliability, long life and low maintenance.

When you use the CLAAS Autopilot in corn, the sensors follow the rows closely above the ground, and the JAGUAR steers dependably along the line. When reversing, the sensors swing forward and then reset automatically. The CLAAS Autopilot is invaluable in weed infested, hanging or laid crops, at night or in misty conditions.

The cutting discs are pretensioned to work with optimal pressure They're self sharpening and maintenance free

DynaTorque™
MF DynaTorque™ engines feature an exclusive combustion system that tunes power and torque delivery to match the way you work
In Zone A, as engine speed drops under load, a rapid boost in torque keeps you going with less slowdown
Maximum torque is reached in Zone B to bring engine rpm back and get you through those tough conditions
DynaTorque engines also let you easily start heavy loads at low engine rpm, quickly bring them up to operating speed, and handle lighter loads at reduced engine speeds

PURINA PROFILE

WOODSTOWN ICE AND COAL COMPANY

For the Woodstown Ice and Coal Company located in this New Jersey town, business revolves around the personal touch for their customers. From friendly people at the counter of the hardware store to farm visits from the owner, they aim to make sure they sell the proper product to fit the customer's needs.

Behind this dynamic Purina dealershp is Horace Seibert, who owns the business after having served as manager for many years. In fact, Seibert has 37 years experience running a Purina dealership.

"I do all the farm selling," Seibert said. "We have a store manager and an operations manager that can take care of things at the store and plant. I go out to see the farmers. Our number one goal is to make sure the customer gets the feed he needs for his individual situation. You don't feed a race horse the same as a back yard pet. If a customer comes into the store and asks for a bag of pig feed, we find out what kind of pig. You find out what the customer needs and when you fill the need you have a loyal customer.

A full line of Purina feeds in bags and bulk are available from the Woodstown Ice and Coal Co.

"The farmers around here have seen me grow up. Now we are serving some of the children and grandchildren of our original customers."

The deaership serves a large area including Delaware; southern New Jersey from Berlington and Cape May Counties; and down to Chestertown, on the eastern shore of Maryland. Dairy feeds are their number one selling product followed by horse feed and a growing number of smaller animals such as sheep, goats, ostriches, emus, and pot belly pigs.

"We probably stock as many different kinds of Purina feeds as any other dealership," Seibert said. "Purina has the track record across the country as being the number one feed. No one has a better product and if I'm going to sell a product, I'm going to sell the best. That's Purina. They have the best research facilities to back their products, and they have the best training and manpower in the company. They know what should go into a feed to get the best results for the customer.

"More and more retail businesses will close as the large chain stores go for low prices. But we have expanded our hardware and retail business to serve the growing needs of the back yard farmers in our area. We plan to be the retail business that survives in Woodstown. We work hard at it.:"
